Privy Council Office, July 18, 1902.

By The King's command the Coronation of Their Majesties will take place on Saturday, the 9th of August, a Proclamation to which effect will be issued in due course.

Whitehall, July 12, 1902.

The following Addresses were presented to His Majesty at Buckingham Palace, on the 13th ultimo:—

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, Your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London; desire humbly to approach Your Throne for the purpose of expressing to Your Majesty and Your Royal Consort our earnest congratulations upon the close of the war in South Africa.

The nation entered upon the war for the protection of the rights and liberties of Your Majesty's subjects in South Africa, and we rejoice that our arms have now secured the objects for which the nation fought.

We desire to recognize the heroic valour and splendid endurance of the Officers and men who have been engaged in fighting their country's battles during the past two years and eight months, many of whom have laid down their lives in the service of Your Majesty.

We cordially acknowledge the ready help given by our fellow subjects in the many great colonies of Your Majesty's dominions beyond the seas.

We pray that the era of peace now begun may in the good providence of God long continue.

We thankfully recognize the hand of the Almighty in the successful termination of the war, and pray that the new colonies added to Your dominions may be a source of strength and additional greatness to Your Crown: that the whole British Empire may be blessed by good order, contentment, and prosperity, and that Your Majesty may long continue to reign over a happy, prosperous, and united people.

Signed by order of the Court,
JAMES BELL, Town Clerk.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, Your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects; the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London; in Common Council assembled, approach Your Majesty's Throne with our heartfelt congratulations upon the close, by the surrender of the Boer forces, of the protracted and eventful war in South Africa.

Whilst we desire to express our sympathy with Your Majesty in the loss of those gallant Officers and men who have given up their lives in their country's cause, we are not unmindful that the whole Empire has been cemented together by the terrible ordeal of war in a closer union than ever; and that the struggle just ended has been the occasion of an unrivalled display of patriotism and devotion on the part of all Your Majesty's subjects, whether at home or in Your Majesty's dominions beyond the seas.

We would especially remember those who, in accordance with the loyal traditions of this ancient City, went forth at the call of duty and formed no unworthy portion of Your Majesty's Army.

We pray the Almighty that those with whom this country has lately been at war may, now that they have acknowledged Your Majesty as their lawful Sovereign, become happy and contented citizens of this great Empire.

We, Your Majesty's loyal citizens of London, would once again renew our fervent prayers that every blessing may rest upon Your Majesty and this Empire, and that the unbroken peace which our country now enjoys may in the good providence of God long continue, and that Your Majesty and Your Illustrious Consort, may long live in health and happiness to witness the ever increasing welfare and prosperity of Your loyal and dutiful people.

Signed by order of the Court,

JAMES BELL, Town Clerk.

To which Addresses His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious Answer:—

"I thank you in My own name and in that of the Queen for your loyal and dutiful address and for the congratulations which you tender Us on the close of the war in South Africa.

"I heartily join in your expression of thankfulness to Almighty God at the termination of a struggle which, while it has entailed on My people at home and beyond the seas so many sacrifices, borne with admirable fortitude, has secured a result which will give increased unity and strength to My Empire. The cordial and spontaneous exertions of all parts of My dominions, as well as of your ancient and loyal city, have done much to bring about this happy result.

"You give fitting expression to the admiration universally felt for the valour and endurance of the Officers and men who have been engaged in fighting their country's battles. They have been opposed by a brave and determined people, and have had to encounter unexampled difficulties. These difficulties have been cheerfully overcome by steady and persistent effort, and those who were Our opponents will now, I rejoice to think, become Our friends.

"It is My earnest hope that, by mutual co-operation and goodwill, the bitter feelings of the past may speedily be replaced by ties of loyalty and friendship, and that an era of peace and prosperity may be in store for South Africa."

Whitehall, July 18, 1902.

The following Address was presented to His Majesty at Buckingham Palace on the 13th ultimo:—

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty. The dutiful and loyal Address of the Chairman, Aldermen, and Councillors of the Council of the Administrative County of London.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

We, the Chairman, Aldermen, and Councillors of the London County Council, desire to approach Your Majesty with heartfelt congratulations upon the cessation of hostilities in South Africa.

As the municipal authority of the capital of Your Majesty's Empire, we are closely concerned with the problems which belong to the conditions of continued peace, and we rejoice to think that the victory which has been gained by Your Majesty's brave and devoted Army, assisted so ably by the Navy, is to be followed by the introduction into the newly-acquired territory of those representative institutions which are the glory and mainstay of this great Empire.

We admire the gallantry of Our fellow countrymen and the many examples of chivalrous conduct which have been displayed on the field of battle; we are proud to recall the aid which the citizen soldiers of London, in conjunction with their comrades from the colonies, have rendered in the course of the long and arduous struggle, and we render also our tribute to those who have died and suffered for their country.

We feel, too, that the gallant foe exhibited qualities which they possess in common with our own countrymen, and we trust that the unity of political life which is to be the future of the hitherto divided peoples will call forth from the older unity of race all that is calculated to bring happiness and prosperity to this portion of the Empire.

We rejoice that Your Majesty in reigning over an Empire now at peace is relieved from the anxiety and stress which have saddened the commencement of Your Majesty's rule, and we hope and pray that the rest of Your Majesty's reign may be marked by the happiness and progress which alone can flourish under conditions of peace. We wish most humbly and devotedly to express the pleasure it has given us to once more approach Your Majesty in an expression of thankfulness for Your Majesty's devotion to the welfare of Your people, and to testify to our entire loyalty and affection for Your Majesty and Her Majesty the Queen.

JOHN MCDUGALL, Chairman of the Council.

(Countersigned) G. L. GOMME, Clerk of the Council.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious Answer:—

"I thank you for your Address and for your expressions of loyalty and affection towards Myself and the Queen.

"I rejoice with you at the thought that the victory which has crowned the perseverance and bravery of My Forces will pave the way for the extension to the regions newly added to My Empire of that system of Government which will, with God's blessing, bring to South Africa the peace and prosperity that have in every quarter of the globe followed its establishment.

"The readiness with which My subjects throughout the Empire have borne their part in the arduous campaign now happily at an end cannot fail to draw them still more closely together in bonds of loyalty and affection, and I confidently believe that the good feeling which is being displayed between those who were so recently opponents augurs well for the future of that vast country which has been added to the dominions of the Crown."

War Office,

18th July, 1902.

The following Despatch has been received from Lord Kitchener, G.C.B., &c., Commanding-in-Chief, South Africa:—

From Lord Kitchener to the Secretary of State for War.

Army Head-Quarters, South Africa,
Pretoria, 1st June, 1902.

1. I have the honour to forward a continuation of my despatch of the 8th April, 1902.

At this latter date the Boer leaders were just arriving at Klerksdorp to hold a preliminary conference, which resulted, on the 9th May, in a request for an informal meeting at Pretoria with his Excellency the High Commissioner and myself.

Into the details of what occurred at the discussions which followed between the 11th and 17th April, I need not here enter. It is sufficient for me to state that, representing themselves to be without mandate from their burghers to terminate hostilities, the Boer leaders again left Pretoria on the 18th, under safe conduct, to consult their commandoes and elect delegates to attend a general conference to be held at Vereeniging on the 15th May, at which the acceptance or otherwise of the conditions of peace communicated to them could be fully discussed and voted upon.

No armistice was granted during the period required for consultation with the burghers, but the necessity of avoiding interference with the prearranged meetings of commandoes, the dates and places of which were communicated to me by the leaders prior to their departure from Pretoria, necessarily somewhat circumscribed the operations which have been conducted by our troops during the past few weeks.

Every possible assistance was given to the Boer leaders to facilitate the work of consulting their followers. They were granted safe conducts, under flags of truce, and passes for their officers and messengers, and our troops scrupulously avoided the localities selected as the meeting places of the different commandoes. Nevertheless, good progress was made with our operations, up to the conclusion of hostilities, as the following narrative will show:—

2. After his return to Ermelo on the 5th April, Major-General Bruce Hamilton, with the columns under Brigadier-General Spens, Colonel Mackenzie, Colonel Allenby, and Lieutenant-Colonel Stewart moved north to Carolina, and, having been reinforced there by the troops under Colonel Park, Lieutenant-Colonel E. Williams, and Lieutenant-Colonel Wing, proceeded to take up a position, facing south, between Carolina and Groot Olifant's River Station, preparatory to a sweep down to the Standerton—Greylingstad Railway about Val Station.

By the 11th April our columns were in position ready for this movement, Colonel Park being on the right, and then in order, from right to left, Lieutenant-Colonel Williams, Lieutenant-Colonel Wing, Brigadier-General Spens, Colonel Mackenzie, Colonel Allenby, and Lieutenant-Colonel Stewart. The advance commenced on the 12th, and the same evening our troops halted upon a general line which extended from Welstand (129) (on the Olifant's River) to Klipstapel (145) (on the Carolina-Ermelo Road). On the night of the 13th the position occupied ran from Vriessgewaagd (182) (to the west of Bethal) to Uitzicht (32) (south-west of Ermelo), and on the 14th our columns closed into the railway at the following points:—Colonels Park and Williams at Val Station, Lieutenant-Colonel Wing at Vlaklaagte, General Spens at Kaffir's Kraal, and the remainder of the troops at Standerton.

The movement had met with a considerable amount of success, 134 unwounded prisoners being brought into the railway line.

Lieutenant-Colonel Williams' column was then broken up at Standerton, the oversea Colonials of which it was composed having completed their period of service in South Africa, and Colonel Allenby's column was also detached from Major-General Hamilton's force to operate in the vicinity of Villiersdorp. These withdrawals, however, were compensated for by the arrival at Greylingstad, from Botha's Pass, of the columns under Colonels Rimington, Nixon, and Garratt, which, together with Lieutenant-Colonel Lawley's column from Springs, were placed temporarily at Major-General Hamilton's disposal.

Preparations were then made for a northward sweep of columns from a general line Waterval Station—Witpoort (74)—Nigel Mine, up to the section of the Delagoa Bay Railway between Bronkhorst Spruit and Groot Olifant's River Station. The columns destined for this movement were disposed in the preparatory position from right to left in the following order:—Colonel Mackenzie, General Spens, Lieutenant-Colonel Garratt, Colonel Nixon, Colonel Rimington, Lieutenant-Colonel the Honourable R. T. Lawley, whilst the Scots Greys were moved out from Irene towards Witpoort (64) to close in upon the left flank of the other columns as they marched north.

The advance was commenced on the 18th April, and it terminated on the 20th upon the eastern railway line, which had been temporarily strengthened by five armoured trains and 800 infantry drawn from the garrisons of Pretoria and Middelburg. It was not successful, three prisoners only being taken. On the 19th April the Boers, who were under the command of General Alberts, were unfortunately successful in breaking out at a point on the extreme left of the line, which had been insufficiently guarded. General Alberts then moved rapidly south, past Springs, and having crossed the Standerton Railway near Heidelberg, made good his escape to the Zuikerboschrand.

For some days it was uncertain if the whole of the enemy had vacated the central area to the east of Springs, and on the 22nd April Colonels Rimington, Nixon, and Lawley were detached into the angle marked by Springs, Pretoria, and Bronkhorst Spruit to ascertain if the whole district was now clear. Finding no trace of the Boers in this direction, Major-General Bruce Hamilton then moved back south with the whole of his columns to the Heidelberg Railway.

During the progress of the operations just described, the troops under Colonel Park and Lieutenant-Colonel Wing were employed in strengthening the chain of Constabulary posts between Val and Groot Olifant's River Stations.

From the different points reached upon the Heidelberg—Greylingstad line the columns under Colonels Rimington, Nixon, and Lawley marched west to Klip River Station to disperse some parties of Boers who were causing trouble near the railway and to the south of Johannesburg. Colonel Garratt moved simultaneously to Heidelberg, Brigadier-General Spens and Colonel Mackenzie to Greylingstad, and Lieutenant-Colonel Wing to Val Station, whilst Colonel Park returned north to Middelburg to resume operations in his own district.

Subsequently, between the 8th and 13th May, the columns under Colonel Park and Lieutenant-

Colonel Urmston; together with a detachment of the National Scouts, operated from Belfast and Lydenburg against Muller's commando in the hills round Dullstroom. Scattered bands of the enemy were encountered by our troops who, as a result of much desultory fighting, captured 35 prisoners and 350 cattle. On the 13th Colonel Park returned to Belfast.

3. In the Northern Transvaal Lieutenant-Colonel Colenbrander has carried out some successful operations against General Beyers, who, on the 5th April, was encamped on the southern slopes of the hills close to Malipspoort, a pass through the range of mountains about 23 miles to the south-east of Pietersburg. Colonel Colenbrander, who, on the 5th April, had returned to Pietersburg from the relief of Fort Edward, determined if possible to surround and capture General Beyers' laager, and he accordingly despatched, on the night of the 6th, two parties; of 400 men each, under General Celliers (National Scouts), and Captain McQueen (Steinacker's Horse), to make a wide detour by Chunespoort to Pylkop to block the only two roads open to the Boers to the south-east and south-west. A third party, under Captain Lyle (1st Kitchener's Fighting Scouts), moved on the night of the 6th along the tops of the hills to the west of the poort to block all possible exits in that direction; whilst Colonel Colenbrander himself, with the 2nd Inniskilling Fusiliers and the remainder of his mounted men, left Pietersburg on the night of the 7th to make a direct attack upon the poort from the north.

This attack was delivered on the morning of the 8th, and after severe fighting, extending over two days, in which, I regret to say, Lieutenant-Colonel A. J. Murray, commanding 2nd Inniskilling Fusiliers, was dangerously wounded; resulted in the flight of the Boers in a south-easterly direction. Here it was hoped that their line of retreat would be intercepted by the parties which had marched round by Pylkop; but the failure of Captain McQueen to reach the exact position assigned to him, enabled General Beyers with the majority of his followers to make good his escape towards Haenertsburg. Everything, however, which they possessed was left in our hands by the Boers, who abandoned at Malipspoort the whole of their laager, wagons, and camp equipment. Nine of their number killed, and 11 wounded were also left upon the field, and 108 unwounded prisoners, most of whom were driven by Colonel Colenbrander's men against the party advancing under Captain Lyle from the west, were compelled to lay down their arms and surrender.

Colonel Colenbrander's subsequent pursuit of General Beyers in the direction of Oud Agatha, after this highly successful engagement, was unfortunately marred by a mishap to a small mounted force under Captain Blaine (1st Kitchener's Fighting Scouts); who, pushing on too eagerly into most difficult country, fell into a cleverly arranged ambushade from which he only extricated his men with a loss of six killed, one officer and 11 men wounded, and 30 taken prisoners.

Finding that General Beyers' followers had, for the time being, dispersed, Lieutenant-Colonel Colenbrander then returned with his whole force to the immediate vicinity of Pietersburg.

On the 23rd April, Mr. Reitz arrived at Pietersburg from Pretoria, and on the 24th he again left the former place, under safe conduct, to hold a meeting of General Beyers' men in connection with the appointment of delegates to proceed to Vereeniging.

Being under obligation not to disturb this meeting, Lieutenant-Colonel Colenbrander moved his column for the time being to Marais' Farm, 20 miles north-east of Pietersburg, where he remained until the 3rd May.

On this date he again moved south to resume operations against Beyers, whose followers were once more reported to be working back to their old ground near Pylkop.

Marching by Chuwespoort with 600 mounted men, he reached the junction of the Malip's and Olifant's Rivers at daybreak on the 5th. From here he swept up the valley of the Malip's hoping to hem in some of the enemy against the 2nd Battalion, Inniskilling Fusiliers, who had been directed to move down from the north through Malipspoort upon Pylkop.

After some difficult fighting in very intersected country, a junction between the two forces was effected on the 6th May, when it was found that the enemy had been cut in two, and that half their number under Van Staden had retired west over the Pietersburg railway line, whilst the remainder, under General Beyers himself, were falling back east upon Haenertsburg and Oud Agatha. This latter party was pursued by our mounted troops for some distance, Colonel Colenbrander's Infantry remaining in the meantime to search for Boer stragglers in the kloofs of the Malip's Valley. One Boer killed, 21 wounded, and 101 armed prisoners were the result of these operations, which necessarily terminated on the 10th May with the arrival, under a flag of truce, of General Beyers on his way to the meeting at Vereeniging.

Colonel Colenbrander then returned to his former camp at Marais' Farm.

4. By the 7th April the number of troops destined to act from Klerksdorp against General Delarey had become so large, that I decided to send down Lieutenant-General Sir Ian Hamilton to assume control, upon the spot, of the columns under Major-General W. Kitchener, Colonel Sir Henry Rawlinson, and Colonel Kekewich, to which was subsequently added a new one formed under Colonel Thorneycroft.

Sir Ian Hamilton arrived at Vaalbank (116) on the 8th April, and on the 10th he moved south to the line of the Brakspruit, where he entrenched his force for the night in a position extending from Rooiwal (156) on the west, to Klipstapel (7) on the east, Colonel Kekewich being upon the right, Colonel Sir H. Rawlinson in the centre, and Major-General W. Kitchener on the left.

On the 11th April, Major-General W. Kitchener and Colonel Sir H. Rawlinson moved from their bivouacs in a south-westerly direction, whilst Colonel Kekewich was ordered to march down to the junction of the Brakspruit with the Hart River. Soon, however, after Colonel Kekewich had moved off in the morning a determined attack was delivered upon his advanced guard, which was commanded at the time by Lieutenant-Colonel Von Donop. The enemy advanced rapidly to close quarters in very compact formation, the Boers riding knee to knee, and in many places in two ranks, whilst their attack was supported by a heavy fire from skirmishers upon both flanks. Many of the men of our advanced screen in forward positions were ridden over by the enemy, who pressed on rapidly to within 700 yards of the main body and convoy, keeping up an incessant magazine rifle fire from their horses as they approached.

Here, however they were checked by Lieutenant-Colonel Grenfell's troops, which were at the head of the main body, the Scottish Horse, 5th Imperial Yeomanry, and South African Constabulary dismounting and moving forward steadily on foot to meet the coming charge. This was the crisis of the fight, and it was one which terminated quickly with the complete repulse of the Boers and the death of their Commandant Potgieter, who was conspicuous in leading the attack until he fell only 90 yards in front of our troops.

So far, however, it was only a repulse, but the arrival of Lieutenant-Colonel Briggs with the Imperial Light Horse, detached upon the enemy's right flank from Colonel Sir Henry Rawlinson's force, turned the repulse into a rout.

Sir Ian Hamilton, who had reached the field, now ordered Colonel Kekewich to laager his wagons, and to join with Sir Henry Rawlinson's troops in a pursuit down the valley of the Hart River. A message was also sent to Major-General Kitchener directing him to swing round towards Vleeschkraal (97), so as to intercept any of the enemy who might endeavour to escape towards Wolmaranstad.

The line of retreat of the main body of the Boers led along the road to Schweizer Reneke, towards which place the pursuit was maintained for fully 18 miles. It was productive of most satisfactory results, for Colonel Kekewich's troops were successful in overtaking and capturing two 15-pr. guns, one pom-pom, and an ammunition cart, whilst 10 other vehicles and 36 unwounded prisoners fell into the hands of our different columns; 51 dead and 40 wounded Boers were also found upon the scene of the attack upon Colonel Kekewich's force.

This concentration of the Boers at Rooiwal appears to have been an important one; 1,900 men having been collected by Generals Kemp and Vermaas (in the absence of General Delarey) for a supreme effort against Colonel Kekewich's column. In fact, the whole of the Boers in the Western Transvaal seem to have been suddenly concentrated to strike a prearranged blow, the complete failure of which is now known to have been most damaging to their morale.

On the 13th April, Colonel Kekewich returned to Middelbult (239), and Major-General Kitchener and Colonel Sir H. Rawlinson, to Driekuil (134). From this line Sir Ian Hamilton organized an easterly sweep of all his troops back upon Klerksdorp, a movement which terminated at 7 p.m. on the 15th, and resulted in the capture of 64 prisoners of war, two cape carts, and some stock.

On the 23rd April the whole of Sir Ian Hamilton's force again marched out westward from Klerksdorp to undertake the systematic clearance and removal of growing crops and supplies from the district. It was felt that the period required by the Boers for the election of delegates at their different meetings in this part of the country might be usefully employed in this way.

In the first instance, Major-General Kitchener moved by Hartbeestfontein (624) to Rietfontein (280); Colonel Thorneycroft, with his newly-formed column, to Paardeplaats (189); Colonel Sir H. Rawlinson to Goedvoertzicht (264); and Colonel Kekewich to Knoppefontein (28). On the 1st May, Lieutenant-General Sir Ian Hamilton, with the columns under Colonels Sir H. Rawlinson and Thorneycroft, went out to Boeschoepfontein (169), where a very large quantity of mealies was found. On the 3rd May Colonel Kekewich moved south to Doornbult (112), and by the 6th the whole of Sir Ian Hamilton's troops had moved forward into a position facing west between Rooirantjesfontein and Korannafontein (146), preparatory to a combined sweep, in association with Colonel Rochfort's columns from Schweizer Reneke right to Vryburg—Maribogo railway line.

Colonel Rochfort's columns continued to operate in the Vaal valley from Commando Drift and Hoopstad up to the 8th April, a surprise visit being paid to Bloemhof, by parties moving down the left bank of the Vaal from Hoopstad and Wegdraai Drift. This expedition did not result in the capture of any prisoners, as the village was found to be unoccupied; but by the 8th the whole of Colonel Rochfort's force (with the exception of Colonel Western's column, which had been left at Commando Drift) was concentrated at Bloemhof ready for a fresh enterprise.

On the night of 11th April, Colonel Rochfort having left Lieutenant-Colonel Sitwell's troops to guard his camp, again quitted Bloemhof, with the columns under Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Basing and Majors Driscoll, Bulfin, Vaughan, and Reynolds, and moved north upon Karee-boschfontein (116), where a small laager with 5 prisoners and 450 cattle was captured. He then returned to Bloemhof, where he was joined by Lieutenant-Colonel Western from Commando Drift, and on the 15th made a forced march with every available mounted man, to endeavour to surprise a Boer laager then reported to be 6 miles south of Schweizer Reneke. As a matter of fact, the laager was found 3 miles to the north of the town, and a successful surprise resulted in the capture of Commandant Douthwaite, Adjutant Hennop (of General C. De Wet's staff), 55 other prisoners, and a number of wagons and cattle belonging to De Beers' commando.

On the 18th April, Colonel Rochfort marched back once more to Bloemhof, adding to his captures as he came in some 800 cattle and 12 other prisoners of war who were found wounded at the different farmhouses in the neighbourhood.

On the 21st he moved to Hoopstad, leaving troops to hold Bloemhof in his absence. He then went south on the 23rd to Bosmansfontein, and the same night made a rapid march to Groot Gannapan (373), where he surprised and captured 24 prisoners, 700 cattle, and five wagons belonging to Badenhorst's commando. From Groot Gannapan he returned to Bloemhof, then moved by the north bank of the Vaal to Christiana, where he arrived on the 28th, and finally swept eastward along the left bank of the river back to Bloemhof, which was reached on 30th April. During this latter movement his troops were slightly engaged with 100 Boers under Commandant Du Plessis.

Between the 30th April and 8th May, Colonel Rochfort's troops were employed in collecting crops in the country round Bloemhof, whilst awaiting the arrival of a convoy of supplies from Hoopstad, and on the latter date he again marched north upon Schweizer Reneke, to join in upon the left of Sir Ian Hamilton's combined sweep towards the Vryburg-Maribogo Railway.

On the 6th May, Sir Ian Hamilton's troops had been disposed as follows:—Major-General Walter Kitchener at Koranfontein, Colonels Sir Henry Rawlinson and Thorneycroft at Noitverwacht (204), and Colonel Kekewich at Rooirantjessfontein. On the following day these columns moved forward to a general line, Witklip (29)—Kareekuil—Schoonoord (91)—Biesjevaller (57), and on the 8th a further advance was made to the line of the Groot Hart's River.

The necessity for deceiving the enemy who were known to be between our columns and the Vryburg railway was upon this occasion simplified by the fact that no sweep right through to the western line had ever been previously undertaken, whereas on two former occasions our columns, after moving a certain distance to the west had turned back for a combined eastward movement upon Klerksdorp. A report that a similar scheme was once more in contemplation was carefully circulated by Sir Ian Hamilton, with the result that on the 7th and 8th the Boers edged still further away towards the Vryburg line to avoid being enclosed in the area which they imagined would shortly be swept by our returning line. When, however, on the morning of the 9th, General Hamilton's force continued its westward movement, it must have become evident to the enemy that our troops were heading for the Vryburg—Mafeking railway line, and it became all important to prevent them breaking out until the cordon had sufficiently contracted to render such an attempt impossible.

In order to fill up the gaps which in the first instance existed, especially between the left of General Hamilton's line and the right of Colonel Rochfort's troops moving up from Schweizer Reneke, scouts were sent out at dusk to set fire to a continuous line of veld between adjacent columns. They were also instructed to discharge their rifles frequently, and to endeavour in every possible way to convey the impression that the gaps in question were occupied by a numerous and watchful force.

On the night of the 10th the cordon was much more complete, and General Hamilton's troops had closed in to a line which extended from Doornbult, Siding, along the frontier boundary which formerly separated the Transvaal from British territory, to Brussels Siding, south of Vryburg.

Although at this juncture it did not seem as if many Boers had been enclosed, shortly after dark heavy firing burst out and several attempts were made to break through the line, on Colonel Sir Henry Rawlinson's left, and Colonel Thorneycroft's right and centre.

Our troops, however, were so well posted, and had entrenched themselves so strongly, that there was now small risk of the enemy being able to break back, more especially as the search-lights on the armoured trains on the railway, some 20 miles distant, lit up the background, against which the outlines of the Boers were plainly visible from our entrenchments.

The railway, it may be mentioned, had been very strongly reinforced for the occasion by six armoured trains, 900 men of the Guards, and three battalions of Militia, which were placed at the disposal of Major-General Maxwell, and presented quite as impenetrable a barrier to escape to the west as did General Hamilton's advancing line to the east.

On the morning of the 11th the whole force closed in to the Vryburg railway, when it was found that our captures included 367 prisoners of war, 526 horses, 95 mules, 175 wagons, 66 cap carts, 3,620 cattle, 106 trek oxen, and 7,000 rounds of ammunition, this loss to the enemy constituting a blow to his resources such as he had not previously experienced in the Western Transvaal. Most of the prisoners fell into the hands of Lieutenant-Colonel De Lisle, who, with the 1st and 2nd Battalions of the Commonwealth Regiment, formed part of Colonel Thorneycroft's column.

In reporting upon this extremely successful operation, General Sir Ian Hamilton desires to draw my attention to the enthusiasm and energy with which the troops met the exceptional hardships and work involved by lining out and entrenching themselves on four successive nights after long marches in a practically waterless country. On each of these nights every officer and man, after marching some 20 miles, had to spend the hours usually devoted to rest in entrenching, watching, and occasionally fighting.

In this connection he draws special attention to the spade-work done by the Commonwealth Regiments, 3rd New South Wales Bushmen, and the 8th New Zealand Contingent. Every night while the sweep was in progress these troops dug one redoubt, to hold 20 men, every 100 yards of their front of 6 miles. The redoubts were so solidly constructed that they would have afforded perfect cover from artillery fire, and the intervals between them were closed by wagons linked together with barbed wire.

The commander of each group of columns had his own particular system, and it may be of interest to note that General Walter Kitchener's force held the line assigned to it by similar works constructed to hold seven men each, and placed at intervals of 50 yards apart. The work done by the troops under Colonels Sir Henry Rawlinson, Kokewich, and Rochfort was equally satisfactory, barbed wire and obstacles being freely made use of to close the points at which the enemy would be most likely to break through.

On the 15th May the whole of Sir Ian Hamilton's force started upon its return march to Klerksdorp, and on the same day Colonel Rochfort's column began to move back to Bloemhof.

5. In the first week of April, Colonels Pilcher and Ternan were operating, it will be remembered from Boshof and Bultfontein respectively; but, on the 8th, Colonel Pilcher was ordered to the Kimberley railway line to assist in conveying supplies to some of the outlying garrisons to the west of Kimberley and Hopetown. He has been employed upon this work during the whole of the past month.

Colonel Ternan continued his operations from Bultfontein, and, on the 8th April, detached a party of 200 mounted men, under Major Luard, to clear some farms in the neighbourhood of Hartenbosch. Here this patrol was suddenly attacked by a large party of Boers under Commandant Badenhorst, and, after an engagement which reflected very little credit upon many of our men, the majority of the patrol were captured by the enemy.

Colonel Ternan was then ordered to bring his column into the railway at Eensgevonden, whence it was employed in escorting a convoy up to Hoopstad for Colonel Rochfort's troops. On the completion of this duty he returned to Kroonstad, which was reached on the 26th April. The column was then broken up.

6. At the conclusion of the advance to the Drakensberg, which terminated on the 5th April, the columns under Colonels Rimington, Nixon, and Garratt marched back from Botha's Pass to Greylingstad, where, as already described, they came under the orders of Major-General Bruce Hamilton. Major-General Elliot and Colonel Barker, who formed the right of the advance to the Natal frontier, returned simultaneously to Harrismith, where, on the 9th April, Brigadier-General Little assumed command of the Brigade of General Elliot's Division, hitherto led by Lieut.-Colonel De Lisle, who was transferred to Colonel Thorneycroft's force at Klerksdorp.

On the 11th April, Brigadier-General Little's Brigade marched to Aberfeldy, and Lieutenant-Colonel Fanshawe to Major's Drift, and, between this date and the 21st April, when Major-General Elliot moved into Lindley, the Division continued to operate in the vicinity of Fanny's Home, and Blydschap. It was hoped that the presence of our troops would have the effect of driving any Boers in this district to the west of Liebenberg Vlei, and more into the line of a sweep of troops to the south from the Heilbron—Frankfort line, which was contemplated for the near future.

With this idea in view, Colonel Barker also moved at the same time from Harrismith upon Reitz, whence he worked up to Frankfort after an engagement on the 12th April, in which Commandant Manie Botha was reported to have been wounded.

From Frankfort, Colonel Barker moved to Heilbron, where he arrived on the 24th April, and, on the 28th, after refitting his column, he returned to Frankfort. Two days later all his mounted troops again left Frankfort upon a night expedition to Bezuidenhout's Drift, on the Wilge River, where reports stated that Commandant Manie Botha was lying wounded. These reports proved true, and, at daylight on the 1st May, Commandant Botha, his Secretary, Adjutant, and ten other Boers were surprised and captured at the farm near the Drift. Colonel Barker then returned to Frankfort, having covered over 70 miles with his mounted troops during a short absence from the town of 24 hours.

Major-General Elliot's Division again left Lindley on 22nd April, and moved, by Bethlehem, to Steenkamp's Kop and Brindisi Drift in the Brandwater Basin, where parties of Boers were causing some trouble to the garrisons of blockhouses. A considerable number of the enemy were found scattered throughout the Wittebergen, and on the night of the 28th Brigadier-General Little crossed the mountains to the west at General's Nek, and engaged a commando under Van Niekerk, to the north of Arcadia Magna. Three wounded Boers were picked up by our ambulances after the desultory fighting which took place in this direction.

Brigadier-General Little then rejoined his division, which was now recalled to Lindley to act as a stop in front of a contemplated sweep of General Bruce Hamilton's columns down from the north to the Kroonstad—Lindley blockhouse line.

This movement was performed in two stages, in the first of which, between the 2nd and 4th May, the columns under Colonels Rimington, Nixon, and Garratt, Brigadier-General Spens, Colonel Mackenzie, and Lieutenant-Colonel Duff (who had temporarily succeeded Lieutenant-Colonel Wing) moved down from a general line Vereeniging—Greylingstad to a position extending from Kopjes Station to Frankfort.

During this period of the operations Colonel Allenby's column at Villiersdorp extended its left flank down towards the Frankfort—Heilbron blockhouse line to close all possible avenues of escape to the east.

In the second stage of the movement, Major-General Hamilton's columns, now reinforced by that under Colonel Allenby from Villiersdorp, pushed straight on south to the Lindley—Kroonstad blockhouse line, which had been prolonged towards Reitz by the troops of Major-General Elliot's Division. Colonel Barker's men, detached meanwhile from Frankfort, watched the line of Liebenberg's Vlei.

The final results of this sweep, which terminated on the 7th May, were most satisfactory, no less than 321 prisoners of war being brought in by our different columns. Nor was it devoid of exciting incident. As Colonel Mackenzie's troops approached Grootdam, (269), a very spirited attempt was made by 150 Boers, under Commandant Mentz, to break through his line to the north, an attempt which was not only successfully frustrated by our mounted men, but terminated in the capture of the whole party of the enemy. Further to the south an endeavour to penetrate General Elliot's screen, near Deelfontein (282), was promptly and gallantly repulsed by the 7th Dragoon Guards, who drove back the burghers with a loss of four men and 28 horses killed, and five men and 16 horses captured.

A few of the enemy who did succeed in escaping from the encircling cordon were hotly pursued in the direction of Reitz by the 18th Hussars, who picked up 54 exhausted horses abandoned by the Boers in their flight.

At the conclusion of this operation the whole of General Hamilton's columns turned about, and in conjunction with the troops of General Elliot and Colonel Barker on their right swept back north again to a line Kopjes Station—Heilbron—Frankfort, a movement which resulted in the capture of 22 prisoners. From this line General Hamilton with the columns under Brigadier-General Spens, Colonel Mackenzie, Colonel Allenby, Lieutenant-Colonel Duff, and Lieutenant-Colonel Lawley passed on to the Greylingstad—Heidelberg railway, where they arrived on the 15th May.

After their arrival on the Kopjes—Frankfort line, Major-General Elliot, Colonel Barker, Colonel Rimington, Colonel Nixon, and Colonel Garratt were employed for some days in clearing away growing crops from an area marked by Heilbron—Frankfort—Major's Drift—Lindley, and, on the 15th May, their troops were ordered in to Frankfort, Heilbron, and the railway line.

7. Nothing whatever of importance has happened during the past month on the Natal frontier, where Lieutenant-Colonel G. A. Mills has assumed command of the column hitherto under charge of Colonel Colville. This force has, since the middle of April, remained in observation of the local Boers who are still frequenting the Utrecht district. Six prisoners and some horses and stock were taken by Colonel Mills at Holkrantz (123) on the 3rd May, as the result of a night march through the mountains to the east of Utrecht.

On the 6th May, a party of guides and local farmers, supported by a detachment of Imperial Yeomanry, made a successful night expedition from Muller's Pass to Wagenmaker's Vlei, across the Orange River Colony boundary, which led to the capture of Field-Cornet Meintjes, two Free State Artillery men, and two other burghers.

8. In the north-eastern area of Cape Colony, our troops have continued during the past month to press the scattered stragglers of Bezuideniout's commando, which became more and more reduced by captures and surrenders.

The districts between the East London and Cape Town—De Aar railways remained clear of the enemy's bands, with the exception of a party of some 200 men under Fouché, Malan, and Van Heerden, who, in spite of the unremitting activity of the columns under Lieutenant-Colonels W. Doran, B. Doran, and Baillie, still clung to the mountains about Murraysburg and Richmond.

On the night of the 18th May, Commandant Van Heerden, who had momentarily disengaged himself from the pursuit of our troops, attempted to enter the village of Aberdeen with 100 followers. The attempt, however, was completely repulsed by the little garrison under Captain Studd, Oldstream Guards, who drove back the Boers with a loss of three killed, including Commandant Van Heerden himself.

On the 20th May, Commandants Fouché and Malan turned eastward, having probably learned that General French was concentrating a large number of troops against them. They crossed the Graaf Reinet railway near Aberdeen Road in the first instance, a direction which brought them into contact with the columns under Majors Follett and Lord Lovat, the latter of whom came up with Fouché at dawn on the 21st, and captured his entire laager, together with four prisoners and 85 horses.

A week later Commandant Malan fell into the hands of our troops, having been left behind at a farm, near Sheldon Station, suffering from a dangerous wound received in an engagement with Major Follett's men.

To the west of the Cape Town—De Aar railway, General Stephenson's troops drove the commandoes, under Smit, Pypers, and Conroy, well to the north of the Victoria West—Williston blockhouse line, the main force of the enemy in this part of the Colony gradually withdrawing towards the Orange River. One attempt was made towards the end of April to send reinforcements to Fouché, in the central districts, but it was completely frustrated, the party which sought to break across the railway being repulsed at all points.

A small column, organized recently at Matjesfontein by Lieutenant-Colonel Lawrence, has been very usefully employed of late in expelling local rebels from the country round Sutherland and Fraserburg.

In the far west of the Colony, Colonel Haig's troops have secured complete command of the country to the south of the line Clanwilliam—Calvinia—De Drift, where large quantities of hidden grain and foodstuffs have been discovered.

On the 21st April, Lieutenant-Colonel Kavanagh was detached with a strong column to cover the passage of a convoy from Clanwilliam to Lieutenant-Colonel White's force, then operating near Garies, and on completion of this duty he returned, on 4th May, to Van Rhynsdorp.

The position of affairs in Namaqualand, at the beginning of April, had necessitated the despatch of reinforcements to Port Nolloth to afford support to Colonel White's column at Garies, which was threatened by the enemy, and to effect the relief of a garrison, under Lieutenant-Colonel Shelton (Commandant of Namaqualand), which was reported to be surrounded at Ookiep.

Lieutenant-Colonel Callwell's column from Matjesfontein, the 2nd Battalion Royal Fusiliers from Rosmead, and the 4th Battalion East Surrey Regiment were accordingly railed to Cape Town, and then moved thence by sea to Port Nolloth, where Colonel Cooper (Base Commandant at Cape Town) assumed temporary command. Some delay occurred owing to the difficulties of disembarkation at Port Nolloth, but by the 28th April Colonel Cooper had driven the enemy from Steinkopf, the last position held to dispute his advance to the relief of the Ookiep garrison. In this engagement the Boers were reported to have lost seven men killed, and several wounded, including Commandant Bouwers.

On the 4th May Colonel Cooper reached Ookiep, after some slight further opposition, and the investment of the little garrison, which had lasted for a month, then terminated. No details of the defence of the town have as yet been received, but General French is of opinion that Colonel Shelton and his men offered a gallant and determined resistance to the many unsuccessful attempts made to capture their position.

9. In continuance of paragraph 1 of this despatch, it remains to be stated that on the 15th May the 60 Boer delegates elected by the different commandoes assembled at Vereëning. A short discussion followed, which resulted in the appointment of a Special Commission, consisting of Commandant-Generals Louis Botha and C. de Wet, and Generals Delarey, Smuts, and Hertzog, who, as representing the whole body of delegates, were empowered on the 18th May to proceed to Pretoria to enter into negotiations with his Excellency the High Commissioner and myself, and to endeavour to draw up articles of agreement which could be submitted to the assembly of burghers for ratification.

The period between the 19th and the 28th May was spent in discussion of the various points raised by the Commission, and in an interchange of views by cable with His Majesty's Government; but on the latter date the members of the Commission were able to return to Vereeniging and to submit the articles of agreement for approval to a full meeting of the assembled delegates, who, on the 31st May, finally accepted the terms granted to them by His Majesty's Government.

The same evening the members of the Special Commission returned to Pretoria, and at 10.30 P.M. peace was formally concluded by the signature of the articles of settlement accepted by the burgher representatives.

The protracted struggle which has for so long caused suffering to South Africa has therefore at length terminated, and I should fail to do justice to my own feelings if, at this moment, I neglected to bear testimony to the patience, tenacity, and heroism which has been displayed by all ranks of His Majesty's forces, Imperial and Colonial, during the whole course of the war. Nothing but the qualities of bravery and endurance in our troops could have overcome the great difficulties of this campaign, or have finally enabled the Empire to reap the fruits of all its sacrifices.

It is satisfactory to feel that the war, already prolonged beyond all reasonable justification, has terminated without the exasperation that must certainly have resulted from a further prolongation of a useless guerilla struggle, and I feel that a tribute of respect is due to those of the Boer leaders who, facing privation and danger, at the head of their commandoes up to the very last moment, have at length been manly enough to bow to the inevitable, and far-seeing enough to accept the generous terms accorded by His Majesty's Government.

The fact that a spirit of conciliation has marked the concluding phase of the negotiations may well induce a hope that the agreement just signed will lead at an early date to a final reconciliation between the British and Dutch races in South Africa.

10. I beg to bring to notice the good service of the Officers, non-commissioned officers and men, named in the accompanying lists.

War Office,
18th July, 1902.

The correct description of Lieutenant Duly, who was appointed a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order in the London Gazette of 27th September, 1901, is as follows:—
Lieutenant Charles Duly, Cyclist Section, Rhodesian Volunteers.

Treasury Chambers, July 15, 1902.

The Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury hereby give notice, that at a Trial of the Pyx, begun at Goldsmiths' Hall, in the City of London, on the 9th June, and concluded on the 2nd July, 1902, in accordance with the provisions of the Orders in Council of the 24th June, 1871, and the 30th January, 1901, the following Verdicts of the Pyx Jury were delivered to the King's Remembrancer, viz.:—

TRIAL OF THE PYX OF THE LONDON MINT.

VERDICT.

WE, whose names are hereunder written, having been sworn on the ninth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and two, before the King's Remembrancer, at Goldsmiths' Hall, in the City of London, have made the Assays and Trials of His Majesty's Gold and Silver Coins in the Pyx of the Royal Mint, in London, which, according to accounts produced by the Officers of the Mint, were coined in the said Mint from the first day of July, one thousand nine hundred and one, to the thirtieth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and two, both days inclusive. We ascertained that the number of coins, both of gold and silver, in each packet produced to us, corresponded with the number which the Officers of the Mint represented it to contain; and we took one coin from each of such packets of Gold coins, which contained five pound pieces or two pound pieces, and we took four coins from each other of such packets of gold coins which contained more than four coins and three coins from the remaining packet of gold coins, amounting altogether to one five-pound piece, one two pound piece, fifty-nine Sovereigns or Twenty-shilling pieces, and forty Half-Sovereigns or Ten-shilling pieces, and we weighed each of the said coins separately, and ascertained that they were within the remedy as to weight prescribed in the First Schedule to the Coinage Act, 1870, as amended by the Coinage Act, 1891. We found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Weight specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act was nil on the whole of such coins. We then melted the said Gold coins so taken out and weighed, into an ingot, and assayed such ingot, comparing it with the standard Gold Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act; and we found that the amount of variation thereof from the Standard of Fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act was plus one ten-thousandth (or +0001), and that, therefore, the said metal was within the prescribed remedy as to fineness. We weighed the residue of the said Gold coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to Weight. We then took from such residue one five pound piece, one two pound piece, six Sovereigns, and four Half-Sovereigns, and weighed and assayed them separately, and we found that such five pound piece weighed 616.422 grains, such two pound piece weighed 246.359 grains, and that such Sovereigns weighed respectively,—the first, 123.424 grains, the second, 123.404 grains, the third, 123.304 grains, the fourth, 123.274 grains, the fifth, 123.274 grains, the sixth, 123.144 grains, and that such Half-Sovereigns weighed respectively,—the first, 61.637 grains, the second, 61.617 grains, the third, 61.587 grains, and the fourth 61.607 grains. We then assayed the said five pound piece, two pound piece, six Sovereigns, and four Half-Sovereigns separately, and we found the millesimal fineness of such five pound piece to be 916.6, of such two pound piece to be 916.70, and of such Sovereigns to be,—the first, 916.56, the second, 916.60, the third, 916.86, the fourth, 916.46, the fifth, 916.70, the sixth, 916.76, respectively, and the millesimal fineness of such Half-Sovereigns to be,—the first, 916.86, the second, 916.76, the third, 916.70, and the fourth 916.76, respectively. We also took two coins from each of such packets of Silver coins, making altogether twelve Crowns, fourteen Half-Crowns, twenty-six Florins, forty-six Shillings, thirty Sixpences, two Fourpences, thirty-six Threepences, two Twopences, and two Pennies, and weighed each of the said Silver coins separately, and ascertained that they were within the remedy prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Coinage Act, 1870, as amended by the said Coinage Act, 1891. We found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Weight specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act was minus twelve thousandths of an ounce (—012 oz.) on the whole of such coins. We then melted the said Silver coins, so taken out and weighed, into an ingot, and assayed such ingot, comparing it with the standard Silver Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act, and we found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act was plus one ten-thousandth (or +0001), and that, therefore, the said metal was within the prescribed remedy as to fineness. We weighed the residue of the said Silver coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to Weight. We then took from such residue one Crown, one Half-Crown, one Florin, one Shilling, one Sixpence, and one Threepence, and weighed and assayed them separately, and we found that such Crown weighed 435.70 grains, that such Half-Crown weighed 218.26 grains, that such Florin weighed 173.88 grains, that such Shilling weighed 87.37 grains, that such Sixpence weighed 43.60 grains, and that such Threepence weighed 21.76 grains. We then assayed the said Crown, the said Half-Crown, the said Florin, the said Shilling, the said Sixpence, and the said Threepence separately, and we found the millesimal fineness of such Crown to be 924.7, of such Half-Crown to be 923.9, of such Florin to be 924.0, of such Shilling to be 924.1, of such Sixpence to be 925.5, and of such Threepence to be 924.5. —Dated the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred and two.

We found that the amount of variation from the Standard of Weight specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act was plus three thousandths of an ounce (+003 oz) on the whole of such coins. We then melted the said Gold coins so taken out and weighed, into an ingot, and assayed such ingot, comparing it with the standard Gold Trial Plate produced by the Board of Trade, so as to ascertain whether the metal was within the remedy as to fineness prescribed in the said First Schedule to the said Act, and we found that the amount of variation thereof from the Standard of Fineness specified in the said First Schedule to the said Act was minus six hundred thousandths (or -00006), and that, therefore, the said metal was within the prescribed remedy as to fineness. We weighed the residue of the said Gold coins in bulk, and we ascertained that they were within the remedy as to weight.
