Whitehall, July 11, 1904.

The following Address was presented to Their Majesties on the occasion of Their Majesties' visit, on Wednesday, the 6th instant, to lay the foundation stone of the new building of Saint Bartholomew's Hospital:—

To The King's and Queen's Most Excellent Majesties.

May it please Your Majesties,—

As President of the Royal Hospital of St. Bartholomew, and on behalf of the Governors of that ancient Foundation, I desire to convey to Your Majesties, with our loyal duty, our attachment and devotion to Your Persons and to the Throne. I have to express our very grateful appreciation of the warm and unflinching interest Your Majesties have ever shown in the welfare and progress of the Institution, as well as our deep sense of the honour Your Majesties have done the Hospital in consenting to lay the foundation stone of its new buildings,—especially as Her Majesty the Queen is our first Lady Governor and the first donor to our Appeal Fund.

Founded in the year 1123, St. Bartholomew's has carried on a great work of mercy and charity on the same spot for close upon 800 years. It has had its vicissitudes; but, thanks in great measure to the favour of eleven of His Majesty's predecessors on the Throne, it has maintained its position and overcome all difficulties. Since the Charter granted by King Henry VIII in the year 1547 the record of the Hospital has been one of tranquillity and progress,—rendered remarkable, however, by the connection with it of many names illustrious in the history and advance of medical science.

At the present day St. Bartholomew's contains 740 beds, inclusive of 70 in its country branch at Swanley. During the last fifty years the Hospital has given gratuitous relief to more than seven millions of the sick poor. The students working daily within its walls average about five hundred; and, in the great school attached to it, more than six thousand students have received medical education during the last half-century, and have carried the fame of their "alma mater" all over the world.

The rapid advances of medical science during recent years have compelled us, acting on the advice of our eminent Medical Staff, to contemplate the entire rebuilding of the Hospital as funds may become available. With the sanction of Your Majesty, our President for thirty-four years, we have issued an appeal to the public to enable us to carry out the rebuildings referred to. To the City of London and its wealthy citizens this appeal should come home with peculiar force,—for the Hospital in its present development is in great measure the creation of the inhabitants of what has been termed the "wealthiest square mile in the world."

We are most anxious to avoid the necessity of adding one more to the innumerable annual appeals which beset the charitable. This we hope to be able to do if the public will help us to carry out the necessary rebuildings and additions. St. Bartholomew's has not asked for help for more than one hundred and fifty years, and has now provided a large sum out of its own resources for the inevitable extension of the Hospital.

We, the Governors, in again most earnestly thanking Your Majesties for Your presence here to-day, trust that it may be regarded by the public as showing Your Majesties' desire that the rebuilding of this great and ancient Institution may not be impeded and crippled for lack of funds.

George, P., President.

6th July, 1904.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious Answer:—

"The Queen and I have great pleasure in being present to-day to lay the foundation stone of the new building of this famous Hospital, and We thank you heartily for the loyal Address which Our dear Son, as President, has presented on behalf of the Governing Body.

"You have reminded Us of the antiquity of this Foundation and of the favour shown to it by so many of Our Royal predecessors. I recollect the lively satisfaction which I felt in holding the Presidency of this Hospital for many years, and I shall continue to take the deepest personal interest in its work and fortunes.

"We are happy to see that those who are responsible for carrying on the excellent work have shown, by their scheme for rebuilding the Hospital, their intention that the future of St. Bartholomew's shall not be unworthy of its fine traditions in the past.

"The names of the famous men educated here prove that an Institution of this kind is not merely a refuge for the suffering, but a school for the advancement of the science and practice of medicine; and in this way the influence of this and the other great Hospitals of this country extends beyond merely local limits to foreign countries and to the Colonies and Dependencies of Our Empire.

"We confidently believe that Our subjects—and especially the citizens of London—will not fail to show interest in the progress of the scheme for rebuilding the Hospital, nor allow that beneficent undertaking to be hindered by want of the necessary funds."
