PETROLEUM ACT, 1871.

Licences for Carbide of Calcium.

With reference to the granting of licences for carbide of calcium by Local Authorities under the Petroleum Acts, it has been represented to the Secretary of State that the removal of the limitation of quantity to be contained in any one vessel would be of advantage to the Trade. The Secretary of State is of opinion that this limitation may safely be removed, inasmuch as there is, in his opinion, no increase of danger in the use of larger vessels either in conveyance or storage, provided that the vessel is strong in proportion to the weight of its contents.

The Secretary of State also wishes to bring to the notice of Local Authorities the fact that, whereas it is desirable to insert some condition in the Licences as to the carbide being rendered inaccessible to unauthorized persons, it is seldom necessary to require that each containing vessel should be fitted with a lock.
