

the ship's crew and passengers, stating each person's name, occupation, domicile, and address, and whether such person has stayed at a place infected with cholera (giving both place and time).

4. Before the quarantine flag is allowed to be lowered on a vessel which is not placed in quarantine, the Quarantine Commission, or the inspecting physician, Customs Officer, or Senior Pilot acting for the same, shall fill out a pass for each traveller liable to report himself under the above Regulations. Should any traveller wish to leave the place of landing before the expiry of five days, the person issuing the pass must also report this to the Board of Health at the place where the traveller states his intention of first passing a night or staying longer than twelve hours. A list of persons bound to report themselves and who wish to reside temporarily on shore or leave the vessel shall be sent at once to the Director of the Medical Department, stating the destination of the persons named.

These Regulations shall come into force at once.

Contravention of these Regulations shall be punishable under the common civil penal law, section 357, by fines or imprisonment not exceeding three months, unless otherwise more heavily punishable.
