With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 466 of 1905:—

Further information has been received through the Board of Trade, that on the 6th July, 1905, the British steamship "Spondilus," drawing 27½ feet, struck on an uncharted shoal, situated to the north-eastward of Mesana Island, southern approach to Rhio Strait, close to that reported by the steamship "Madgeburg," and in a position from which the eastern extreme of Mesana Island bore S. 42° W., distant 2½ miles, and the east point of Niamok Island S. 8° W.

Sligo Harbour—Depths on Bars, &c.

Information, dated 4th October, 1905, has been received from Captain J. W. Combe, R.N., that the results of a recent survey indicate that considerable changes have taken place in the depths on the bars, and in approach to Sligo Harbour, as follows:—

a. Foul ground, with depths of from 3 to 9 feet over a rocky bottom, extends 480 yards in a N. 70° W. direction from Black Rock Lighthouse.

With any swell, or during westerly winds, a heavy break extends over this foul ground, and for some distance seaward in the same direction.

b. Drumcliff Spit has extended to the south-westward, and is now joined to the outer bar; there is a depth of 12 feet over its southern extremity.

The beacons on Lower Rosses Point when in line, bearing S. 86° E., lead over the southern end of Drumcliff Spit in a depth of 12 feet, and over the north-western extremity of Bungar Bank in a depth of 8 feet. The rear Beacon (open to the southward of the front beacon) brought to bear S. 88° E. would lead over the Bungar Bank in even less water.

c. The Bungar Bank extends 40 yards north-eastward of a line joining the present position of the two red buoys marking its northern extremity. Further eastward the same shoal has extended 80 yards in a S. 23° E. direction from the inner red buoy, and has there a depth of 6 feet, deepening quickly to 12 feet, in a south-easterly direction.

The depth over the inner bar between the inner red buoy and the black buoy is from 11 to 12 feet.

d. The white sector of light exhibited from Oyster Island Lighthouse shows completely over the Bungar Bank and touches the western edge of the Bomore Bank.

e. The bell-buoy marking Drumcliff Bar, situated N. 60° E., distant 7 cables from Black Rock Lighthouse, very seldom sounds, and should not therefore be relied on.

River Tyne, New High Level Bridge—Regulations for Passing Altered.

With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 306 of 1905:—

The Tyne Improvement Commissioners have given further notice that, on and after 29th October, 1905, the North Channel between the New High Level Bridge under construction and Redheugh Bridge, Newcastle Harbour, will be closed, and the South Channel reopened. Vessels passing between these bridges must observe the following regulations:—

All vessels navigating in this vicinity must use the South Channel passing to the southward of the central pier of the new bridge, and those vessels bound up the river must not pass those bound down the river in this locality.

The following lights will be exhibited, and signals made to facilitate the navigation of the river at this point:—

Two light-vessels, each showing a green flag by day and exhibiting two vertical white fixed lights by night, will be moored, when practicable, one about 400 feet to the eastward of the New High Level Bridge and the other about 300 feet to the westward of the Redheugh Bridge, the former being 220 feet and the latter about 180 feet from the north bank.

Two vertical green fixed lights will be placed on the south-eastern corner of the staging and two vertical red fixed lights on the south-western corner of the staging of the central pier of the new bridge; these lights will be 6 feet apart, the lower lights being 9 feet above high water.

A series of green fixed lights visible only from the eastward will be placed on the eastern side of the bridge, and a series of red fixed lights visible only from the westward on the western side of the new bridge across the North Channel.

These lights will be about 23 feet apart and 9 feet above high water.

Two black balls by day, or a green fixed light by night, will indicate that vessels bound down the river cannot pass through the South Channel.

One black ball by day, or a red fixed light by night, indicates that vessels bound up the river cannot pass through the South Channel.

These signals will be made from two arms, elevated about 40 feet above high water, one fixed on the southern side of the central pier of the New High Level Bridge and the other on the southern side of the central pier of Redheugh Bridge.

An attendant on the swing bridge, in telephonic communication with the New High Level Bridge will, if necessary, warn vessels proceeding up the river.
