Port Bermeo—Light Established.

The Spanish Government has given notice that, on the 20th November, 1905, a fixed light, elevated 32 feet above high water, would be established on the head of the breakwater, Port Bermeo.

The light shows red from the bearing S. 15° W. to S. 60° W. over the shoals extending from the western shore of the port, and green from the bearing S. 60° W., through west and north, to S. 75° E.

It is shown from an iron cylindrical column, 10 feet in height, painted green. The red and green sectors are visible from a distance of 7 and 5 miles respectively.

*Krautsand Island—Leading Lights Established.
Kamperreihe Light—Sector Amended.*

The German Government has given notice that, on the 1st December, 1905, an additional light was established at Krautsand, which forms, with the present lights, a leading mark for navigating in the fairway, also that the red sector of Kamperreihe Light was altered as follows:—

1. A white fixed light of 43 candle-power, elevated 32 feet above high water, is shown from a post situated 650 feet S. 46° E. from Krautsand Lighthouse.

This light in line with Krautsand white and red flashing light, bearing N. 46° W., will lead through the fairway of the river from the point where the line of the Brokdorf lights in line should be left until the Pagensand leading lights are in line.

2. A red fixed light of 600 candle-power has also been established in Krautsand Lighthouse 39 feet below the red and white flashing light, which is visible over an arc of 5° between the bearings of N. 44° W. and N. 49° W., and the centre of which lies on the leading line described in the previous paragraph.

The object of this red fixed light is to render the new front Krautsand leading light more easily recognizable, and to serve as a guiding light in case that light should become extinguished or unserviceable.

3. The red sector shown from Kamperreihe Lighthouse has been reduced, and is now only visible between the bearings of S. 55° E. and S. 66° E., the limits of the white sectors on each side of the red sector being correspondingly enlarged. In other respects the light remains unaltered.

Approximate position, Krautsand Light, lat. 53° 45' N., long. 9° 23' E.

The Spanish Government has given notice, that during the month of December, 1905, the undermentioned light-buoys would be established in Cadiz Bay for marking the approach to the harbour:—

1. A black conical buoy (No. 1), showing a red fixed light at an elevation of 13 feet above the sea, will replace the buoy at present marking Cabezo de los Asnos Shoal.

2. A black conical buoy (No. 3), showing a red fixed light at an elevation of 13 feet above the sea, will replace the buoy at present marking El Diamante Shoal.

3. A red conical buoy (No. 2), showing a green fixed light at an elevation of 13 feet above the sea, will replace the buoy at present marking Los Cochinos Shoal.

It is intended, later on, to erect a beacon on this shoal.

4. A red conical buoy (No. 6), showing a green fixed light at an elevation of 13 feet above the sea, will replace the buoy at present marking El Fraile Shoal.

When entering the bay from seaward the red conical buoys (green lights) should be left on the starboard hand, and the black conical buoys (red lights) on the port hand.

Further notice, as regards the positions of these buoys, will be given when they have been established.

The light shows thus:—light, eight and six-tenths seconds; eclipse, three and two-tenths seconds; light, two seconds; eclipse, three and two-tenths seconds.

It is exhibited from an octagonal tower, with grey lantern, about 40 feet in height, surmounting a rectangular building of a reddish colour, erected 230 feet within the extremity of the point.

The light is obscured between the bearings of S. 14° W., through south, and S. 20° E., and also from seaward by the high land on each side of Pollensa Bay.

Approximate position, lat. 39° 54' N., long. 3° 6½' E.

THE SOUTH WALES ELECTRICAL POWER
DISTRIBUTION COMPANY.

Accounts for period ending 31st December, 1904.

NOTES BY AUDITOR ON ACCOUNTS.

1.—The amount of £55,314 9s. 8d. charged to Capital Account as the cost of obtaining the Company's Special Acts and for preliminary work in connection therewith, and with the obtaining of Contracts, &c., includes a sum of £30,000 paid (partly in Shares and partly in Debentures) as remuneration to the South Wales Electrical Power Distribution Company Limited over and above the expenses actually incurred by that Company. A question of legal construction might arise as to whether this payment strictly comes within the powers conferred upon the Company by its Special Acts, or under the general law, and, if not, whether it can properly be charged to Capital Account. On the other hand, if it is legally within the power of the Company, the amount of remuneration appears to be a question entirely within its discretion.

2.—A somewhat similar question might arise in regard to a sum of £46,793 4s. 0d. included in the item of £55,643 3s. 0d., charged to the same account as the cost of issuing capital—of this sum about £11,000 consists of commission (other than ordinary brokerage) allowed for underwriting a portion of the Capital, and £35,000 appears to have been paid partly as a consideration for taking up £50,000 of the Company's Debentures, and partly for guaranteeing or procuring subscription of £125,000 of the share capital of the Company. I am not aware of any authority or power under which the underwriting of shares could (at all events without the concurrence of the Shareholders) be made the subject of a charge against the funds of the Company, although the power to issue debentures at a discount, or to allow a commission upon their issue is not, I believe, open to doubt.

3.—I have not considered that it comes within my duty as Auditor to adjudicate upon the difficult points of legal construction involved in these questions, but I think it right to point out (1) that although the total initial expenditure incurred in the preliminary stages of this enterprise appears to have been large, there can be no doubt that the Promoters rendered valuable services to the Company in preparing for and obtaining the Act of incorporation, without which it is probable that it would not have come into existence. (2) That the amount of the remuneration paid to the limited company was duly published in the Prospectus inviting subscription of capital by the public, and (3) that the fact of an underwriting contract having been entered into was also disclosed in the Prospectus, although the amount was not stated, and I have no reason to believe that the money required to put the Company in a position to fulfil the objects for which it was incorporated, could under the then existing circumstances have been procured on more favourable terms.

4.—I understand that the Directors are considering the propriety of inviting the Shareholders to pass a formal resolution transferring the whole of the preliminary expenses, including the cost of obtaining the Act of Parliament, and of the promotion of the Company, and the issue of its capital, to a special suspense account to be paid off out of the profits of the undertaking by a series of annual payments spread over a series of years. I am of opinion that if this is done, it will tend to facilitate the administration of the Company's affairs, and to strengthen its financial position.

Auditor appointed by the Board of Trade.
