TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1906.

Scottish Office, Whitehall,
October 1, 1906.

The following Addresses were presented to The King on the occasion of the visit of The King and Queen to Aberdeen on the 27th ultimo, by the University of Aberdeen and the Town Council of Aberdeen, and His Majesty was pleased to reply to the Authorities presenting the Addresses in the terms set forth below in each case:—

To The King's Most Excellent Majesty and to Her Majesty The Queen.

May it please Your Majesties,

We, the members of the University of Aberdeen, desire to offer our humble duty, and to express our gratitude to Your Majesties for the honour done to us by Your Presence on this auspicious occasion.

Your Majesties will permit us to recall that in 1860, two Universities, whose seats were only a mile apart, were united and incorporated into one University under the style of the University of Aberdeen. Our celebration has a double object. We associate ourselves with our Graduates and Alumni in a thankful remembrance of the service rendered and the benefits conferred by the incorporated Institutions during the four centuries which have passed since the older of the two was founded. It is a special satisfaction to us that with this Commemoration we can combine the inauguration of buildings which are urgently required for class and research work.

The visit of Your Majesties reminds us of many interesting links in the connection of our University with the Crown. By the good offices of King James the Fourth of Scotland, Bishop Elphinstone obtained the Papal Bull which sanctioned the foundation of the University in 1494-5. In token of the protection thus extended, its College, dedicated to St. Mary in 1505, was described in Acts of the Scots' Parliament as the College of "our sovereine Lord," and from an early time was known as "the King's College." King James the Fifth and his Consort, and Queen Mary, heard classical recitations within the College Halls. The old grey Crown that still gracefully surmounts our Chapel is a symbol of this ancient relation to the Scottish Throne. Your Majesties have revived the tradition of what is now a far past. Nor is the event in which we rejoice the only sign of Your Royal favour. As the Patron of many of our Chairs, and of the Balmoral Bursaries, established by Queen Victoria of blessed memory, Your Majesty the King is directly interested in the affairs of the University.

By the strenuous co-operation and the munificence of friends of the University we have been enabled to erect the premises whose opening we shall ask to be graciously declared. We trust that the addition thus made to this seat of learning will be accepted as an evidence of our anxiety that the accommodation which is essential to thorough scientific study shall be provided in it, and that, in its equipment, it shall meet the requirements of the several branches of higher education. Your Majesties may be assured that the recollection of Your courtesy will stimulate our diligence in the performance of the responsibilities laid on us, and in the endeavour so to promote the efficiency of our venerable University as to make it worthy of the great kindness You have shewn us, and of the confidence of Your Majesties' loyal and loving subjects.

Given under the Seal of the University of Aberdeen and signed on our behalf by the Chancellor, the Rector, and the Principal, at Aberdeen, the twenty-seventh day of September, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six.

The King's gracious Reply was as follows:—

On behalf of Myself and The Queen I thank you heartily for your cordial welcome and for your dutiful Address.

It gives Us great pleasure to be present at this Commemoration of the founding of the two Institutions incorporated in the University of Aberdeen, which during four centuries has played so distinguished a part in the advancement of learning.

Your allusions to the close association of many of My predecessors on the Throne, especially of My august and beloved Mother with the University, are of deep interest, and I shall always feel a lively concern for its welfare.

I am glad to know that with this Commemoration is combined a notable addition to the equipment of the University. It gives Me much pleasure to open these new buildings for the promotion of scientific and higher education. For I am well assured that the further pursuit of these studies will advance the prosperity of this part of My realm and add to the great name and traditions of the University.

To The King's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please Your Majesty,

We, the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the City and Royal Burgh of Aberdeen, humbly desire to offer to Your Majesty a respectful and hearty welcome to Aberdeen.

We remember with pleasure the former occasions on which Your Majesty, when Prince of Wales, visited our ancient City, and we gladly avail ourselves of this opportunity of renewing to Your Majesty the assurance of our loyalty and attachment.

We also desire to offer a most cordial welcome to Her Majesty Queen Alexandra, who has been graciously pleased to accompany Your Majesty, and to honour with Her presence the ceremony of to-day.

It is a source of much gratification to us that Your Majesty's first visit to Aberdeen since Your accession to the Throne should be associated with the quatercentenary celebrations in connection with our University, and the formal inauguration of the new buildings at Marischal College.

In Your Majesty's presence on this occasion, we recognise the deep and active interest Your Majesty has ever shown in those institutions which have for their object the advancement of scientific study and research, and the diffusion of learning.

We earnestly pray that the blessing of the Almighty may attend Your Majesty and Her Majesty Queen Alexandra, and that Your Majesty's reign may be long and peaceful, and marked by continued prosperity among all classes of Your subjects.

Given under our City Seal this twenty-seventh day of September, one thousand nine hundred and six.

(L.S.) ALEXANDER LYON, Lord Provost.
W. GORDON, Town Clerk.

The King's gracious Reply was as follows:—

On behalf of Myself and the Queen, I thank you heartily for your cordial welcome and your loyal and dutiful address. It gives Me great pleasure to find Myself once more in your ancient City, and to recall to memory the earlier visits to which you refer.

I rejoice to know by your presence here to-day that the City, amid its commercial development, is proud to be the home of a venerable University, and joins with enthusiasm on this occasion in commemorating its long record of useful service.

Whitehall, September 27, 1906.

The KING was pleased, this day, at Aberdeen, to present to Mr. Robert Munro, a labourer living at Muirton of Dalvey, near Forres, in the county of Elgin, the Albert Medal of the Second Class, conferred upon him by His Majesty's command for gallantry in endeavouring to save life, as detailed below:—

On the 28th April last, Munro and a road foreman named Alexander Ross, and William Morris, the labourer who lost his life, having ceased work for the day on the Earlsmill-road, at Darnaway, were crossing the railway bridge over the Brodie Burn on the Highland Railway on their way home, when they were overtaken by a train travelling on the line of rails next the south parapet of the bridge by which they were walking.

Morris was walking between the rails, and Munro, who was in advance of Morris, but beside the parapet of the bridge and clear of the rails, made a brave endeavour to drag his comrade from the railway track. He had grasped Morris's shoulder, when he was caught by the engine and thrown into the space about five feet wide between the near rail and the parapet of the bridge. Unhappily his brave act has resulted in his being maimed for life.
