NOTICES TO MARINERS.

(Nos. 1286 to 1313 of the year 1906.)

[The bearings are magnetic, and those concerning the visibility of lights are given from seaward.]

No. 1286.—NORTH SEA—NETHERLANDS, RIVER SCHELDE, VLISSINGEN APPROACH.

Nieuwe Sluis Leading Lights—Alteration in.

The Netherlands Government has given notice that, on 8th November, 1906, the former leading lights at Nieuwe Sluis Lighthouse would be altered as follows:—

a. The low white fixed light would be replaced by a white fixed dioptric light elevated 44 feet above high water, and visible in clear weather from a distance of 12 miles from the coast to the westward, through south, and the bearing of S. 80° W.; the light, which is of the 3rd order, would be exhibited from a grey lighthouse 31 feet high, erected on a hexagonal iron framework support, painted yellow. A white fixed dioptric light of the 5th order, and visible between the bearings of S. 89° E. and S. 74° E., would be also exhibited in the gallery of this lighthouse at a distance of 6 feet below the above light to render the light more powerful in Wielingen Channel, where they will probably appear as one.

Approximate position, lat. 51° 24' 25" N., long. 3° 30' 25" E.

b. The white fixed high light would be replaced by a white flashing light every five seconds, elevated 87 feet above high water, and visible in clear weather from a distance of 15 miles; the light, which is of the 4th order, would be exhibited from the present light tower, the height of which has been increased to 73 feet.

The above lights in line S. 81° E. lead through Wielingen Channel.

[Variation 14° Westerly in 1906.]

No. 1287.—SOUTH ATLANTIC OCEAN.

Falkland Islands—Icebergs Reported North-Eastward of.

With reference to Notices to Mariners Nos. 199 and 470 of 1906 on ice islands and bergs in the South Atlantic Ocean:—

Information has been published in the Shipping Gazette, that the Master of the steamship Karamea, reports having seen on October 2nd, 1906, 17 large icebergs between lat. 51° S. and 48° 30' S., and long. 56° 30' W. and 53° W.

Also, that the Master of the ship Fingal reports that on July 19th, 1906, in lat. 56° 40' S., long. 63° 30' W., his vessel was found to be on the south-eastern edge of the pack ice with nine icebergs in sight; the pack ice extended in a north-east and south-west direction, with apparently no open water or passage through it. After making about 50 miles to the eastward his vessel rounded the eastern edge of it. On July 23rd the same ship sighted a large iceberg about 40 miles southward of Cape Horn.

This information confirms the prediction published in the above-mentioned Notices that it was evident the periodical collection of icebergs in this vicinity was in progress.

Mariners are cautioned to avoid this area if practicable, but if driven there by stress of circumstances to keep a sharp look-out and proceed with great caution at night. If navigating amongst bergs in a steamer at night, or during foggy weather, all danger will be avoided if the vessel remains close to the first berg sighted until the darkness or fog is over. In sailing vessels sail should be shortened and preparations made to throw everything aback in case of necessity.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart:—Ice Chart of the Southern Hemisphere, No. 1241. Also, South America Pilot, Part I, 1902, page 27.

The wreck has consequently been erased from the charts.
