THE FAIRS ACT, 1873.

MONMOUTH FAIRS.

Whereas on the 2nd January, 1907, a representation was made to me, as Secretary of State for the Home Department, by the Monmouth Town Council, to the effect that Fairs have been held annually in the borough of Monmouth on the second Monday in the months of February, May, September and December respectively, and that it would be for the convenience and advantage of the public that the said Fairs should in future be held on the days on which the first of the Cattle Markets in each of these months will be held on the coming into operation of the Bye-law made by the Town Council on the 1st October, 1906, and allowed by the Local Government Board on the 20th November following:

And whereas notice of the said representation and of the time when the same would be taken into consideration has been duly published in pursuance of the Fairs Act, 1873:

And whereas on such representation and consideration it appears to me that it would be for the convenience and advantage of the public that the said Fairs should in future be held on the days proposed by the Town Council:

Now therefore I, as Secretary of State for the Home Department, in exercise of the powers vested in me by the Fairs Act, 1873, do hereby order that the Fairs which have been held annually in the borough of Monmouth, on the second Monday in the months of February, May, September and December respectively, shall in future be held annually on the days on which the first of the Cattle Markets in each of the said months will be held under the Bye-law made by the Town Council on the 1st October, 1906, and allowed by the Local Government Board on the 20th November following.

Given under my hand at Whitehall, this 15th day of February, 1907.

H. J. Gladstone.

His Majesty's Stationery Office,
February 14, 1907.

The Controller of the Stationery Office, with the consent of the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, hereby gives notice that the situation of Extra Assistant Examiner of Binding in the Stationery Office is removed from Schedule A of the Order in Council of 4th June, 1870.
