SOUTH METROPOLITAN GAS COMPANY.

Scheme for the Election of Employees' Directors made under the provisions of the South Metropolitan Gas Act, 1896, and the South Metropolitan Gas Act, 1897.

1. "Whereas provision was made by section 19 of the South Metropolitan Gas Act, 1896, authorizing the Directors to prepare a scheme for the election of one or more directors by the shareholding employees of the Company, as follows:—

Section 19.

(1) "At any time after the total investments of the employees of the Company in the ordinary stock of the Company dating from the distribution of the first profit-sharing bonus in July one thousand eight hundred and ninety shall exceed the nominal amount of forty thousand pounds of such stock the directors of the Company may as and when they deem expedient prepare a scheme for the purpose of enabling employees holding ordinary stock of the Company to elect one or more of their number but not exceeding three to be a director or directors of the Company."

(2) "The scheme shall be submitted to a special general meeting of the Company duly called with notice of the business to be considered thereat and the meeting may adopt the scheme either without alteration or with such alterations (not being inconsistent with the provisions of this Act) as the directors may assent to."

(3) "The scheme so adopted shall be submitted for the approval of the Board of Trade and that Board may consider the same and may either approve the same without alteration or may suggest any alterations therein or may disapprove the same and if the directors assent to the alterations (if any) so suggested the Board of Trade may approve the scheme as altered."

(4) "The scheme when approved shall be published in the London Gazette and (subject as hereinafter provided) shall for the period of three years and no longer from the date of such publication have effect: Provided that if at any time during that period the amount of the investment of the employees in the stock of the Company shall fall below the nominal amount of forty thousand pounds the scheme shall cease to be in force."

(5) "On the cesser of such scheme and subject to the provisions of this Act and to the like submission adoption and approval a new scheme may at any time be adopted for any period that may be in that scheme prescribed and so from time to time."

(6) "The qualification of an employees' director shall be fixed by the scheme for the time being subject to the following limitations. The employees' director shall have been not less than seven years in the constant employ of the Company and shall have held for not less than twelve months prior to the date of election and shall continue to hold not less than two hundred and fifty pounds nominal value of the ordinary stock of the Company."

(7) "The fees to be paid to an employees' director for his attendance at the Board shall be fixed by the scheme. The fees shall bear some proportion to the amount of the qualification not being less than his ordinary day's pay nor more than four times that amount."

(8) "The scale and method of voting for and the mode of election of employees' directors shall be settled by the scheme and may be varied by successive schemes from time to time."

And whereas by the South Metropolitan Gas Act, 1897, the qualification of an employees' director was reduced from the said sum of £250 to the sum of £100.

And whereas in 1898 the total investments of the employees in the ordinary stock of the Company amounted to £55,000 nominal, and a scheme for the election of three employee directors for a period of three years was adopted, but only two workmen were elected, the salaried officials not exercising their option.

And whereas in 1901 the total investments of the employees in the ordinary stock of the Company amounted to £89,000 nominal, and a similar scheme for nine years was adopted with power to determine it by the shareholders in 1904 and 1907, and one clerk and two workmen directors were elected, and the working having proved in every way satisfactory, it was in 1907 considered desirable to supersede the scheme of 1901 by one for a very much longer period.

And whereas the total investments of the employees in the ordinary stock of the Company now exceed the nominal amount of £200,000.

Now, therefore, the Directors of the Company, acting in pursuance of the powers conferred on them in that behalf by the said Acts, have prepared the following scheme, that is to say:—

1. In this scheme

"The Company" means the South Metropolitan Gas Company.

"Employees" means persons in the employ of the Company and holding stock in the capital of the Company.

"Employees' director" means a director elected by the employees.

2. This scheme, which repeals and supersedes the scheme of 1901, shall come into operation as soon as it has been adopted by the shareholders of the Company in manner provided by the South Metropolitan Gas Act, 1896, and approved by the Board of Trade, and shall continue in force until 1950, or short of that year, so long as the shareholders approve (see section 14) and the aggregate investment of the employees in the stock of the Company shall not fall below the nominal amount or amounts set forth in section 4.

3. The number of employee directors shall not exceed three, of whom one shall be a salaried officer, and the other two employees in receipt of weekly wages.

4. Following the rule of Joint Stock Companies that the owners of the stock shall elect the directors, the object of this scheme is to confer similar power on the employee shareholders. The nominal value of the ordinary paid-up stock of the Company is at this date £6,480,000, of which the employees own £200,000 or thereabouts, say  $\frac{1}{32}$  part. The other shareholders, owning  $\frac{31}{32}$  of the stock, elect seven directors. Under this scheme the employee shareholders are empowered to elect three employee directors. The Company's Act of 1896 fixed the minimum aggregate holding for the election of employee directors at the very low figure of £40,000 of stock for the purpose of giving the employees a direct share in the responsibility of management as soon as possible, and not as indicating that so small a proportion of the total stock should confer the right. The Employee Director Scheme of 1901 for nine years, which lapses in 1910, is superseded by the present scheme, with an aggregate holding of £200,000 nominal of stock, which also fixes the number of employee directors at three, subject to the following conditions: The essence of the copartnership is that the employees' holding of stock shall increase year by year by the investment of their copartnership bonus. If at any time the aggregate investment of the employees should fall back by 10 per cent. of its amount below any figure it may have attained less than one-tenth part of the paid-up capital, the number of employee directors shall be reduced to two by lot, provided the reduction of the aggregate holding of stock is general with the salaried staff and the weekly wage earners. If it is entirely or mainly in either section, justice requires that section to lose a director. If the reduction should amount to 20 per cent. the number of employee directors shall be reduced to one by lot. Provided that if the aggregate investment should be restored to the original maximum the directors lost by the first and second reductions shall be restored. A reduction of 30 per cent. shall disqualify the remaining employee director, and then only as provided in section 14 can the employee directors be restored. So long as the aggregate holding exceeds one-tenth part of the ordinary nominal capital, the above provisions as to reductions shall not apply.

5. Every employee shall have for this purpose one vote for every ten pounds of stock held in his own name, or jointly with that of his wife or child, up to £100, 10 votes.

One vote for every £50 above the first £300.

6. The qualification of an employees' director shall be two-fold, the having been continuously not less than fourteen years in, and continuing in, the employ of the Company, and the having held for not less than twelve months prior to the date of election, and the continuing to hold, not less than £120 in the stock of the Company, accumulated under the Copartnership Scheme. As the aggregate holding of stock increases, so shall the qualification and the fees of employee directors increase in the following proportion:—

300,000 ...	140	The fees for each employee director for each attendance to be increased proportionately with the qualification until they reach the maximum prescribed by the Act (sub-section 7).
400,000 ...	160
One-tenth of total capital or more	200

7. The Company shall, one calendar month at least prior to the date of election, make out an alphabetical list of all the employees possessing the necessary qualification to act as directors, giving the name of the station at which each is employed, his length of service, and his occupation. Such list shall be printed and posted up for seven days in conspicuous places at the various offices, works or stations of the Company, and shall be supplied to any shareholding employee on application at the head office or the office of his station. Any qualified employee wishing to be a candidate must give notice in writing to the Secretary of the Company to that effect within eight days from the posting up of the list, and the names of the candidates shall, forthwith, be posted in prominent places in the several works.

8. For the purpose of this scheme, the three smaller stations shall be grouped together. Thus in the selection of candidates the Bankside, Greenwich and Rotherhithe stations shall be entitled between them to select one candidate, and Vauxhall, East Greenwich and Old Kent-road, and the salaried officers shall each be entitled to select one candidate, but no Station shall at any time have more than one employee director on the Board.

9. For the selection of candidates, every voter at each station, except the station or stations at which the director or directors remaining upon the Board are employed, shall be supplied with a voting paper in the form prescribed in the Schedule A attached hereto. Such voting paper shall be addressed personally to each voter, and shall contain the names of all the employees at the station who are qualified and willing to act as directors. The salaried officers of the Company shall make their selection and vote separately from the workmen, but in accordance with the last sentence in section 8 the officers cannot select a candidate from the employees of any station that at the time has a director remaining on the Board and in all other respects these regulations shall apply to them. The voter shall place his full number of votes, as set out on the voting paper, against the name of any one candidate whom he thinks best fitted to become a candidate, sign the paper and hand it to the persons, viz., one officer nominated by the Board, and the last elected workman member of the Copartnership Committee, who shall be appointed to receive it. In the event of any candidate receiving a majority of the total number of votes polled at his station, he shall be the selected candidate for that station; but should this not be the case, new voting papers shall be issued containing the names of the two candidates who received the highest numbers of votes. A second vote, shall, in that event be taken, and the candidate who receives the highest number of votes shall then be the selected candidate for the station.

10. A list of all the selected candidates shall then be printed and posted up for 7 days prior to the election of the director and another voting paper (Schedule B), containing the names of the candidates selected by the several stations shall be supplied to every voter at all the stations. The voting for the director shall be in accord with the voting for the selection of candidates as set forth in the three last paragraphs in section 9, beginning with the words "The voter."

11. One director elected under this or the preceding scheme shall retire after the first Board meeting in the month of November every year. If duly qualified, the retiring director shall be eligible for re-election. The retirement shall be by rotation.

12. All elections, except in the case of unexpected vacancies, shall take place between the 1st of September and the 1st of November in each year, on a date to be fixed by the Board. Employee directors whose turn it is to retire shall continue to serve until their successors are appointed and take office. In the event of retirement at other than the usual time, by leaving the service of the Company or the death of an employee director, a successor shall be elected within two months, at a date to be fixed by the Board, who shall take the place and retire in the turn of the late director.

13. The employee directors shall have their ordinary duties and the pay attaching thereto suspended during the time that it is found to be necessary for their duties as directors. The fees for their service as directors shall be the amount they would have earned if they had been at their ordinary employment, plus the fees stated in section 6 for each attendance, but whatever their earnings may be all three employee directors shall have the same amount of fees per attendance as directors.

14. This scheme shall continue in force, subject to the limitations in section 2, so long as, in the opinion of the shareholders, it answers its purpose of promoting a true union of employers and employed. If the employee shareholders should reduce their holding of stock below the 30 per cent. mentioned in section 4, the scheme shall thereby become null and void and incapable of revival until the conditions of section 4, under which these employee directors were sitting, are restored. Should this happen, the directors, with the shareholders' consent and approval, may revive this scheme. In the event, in the opinion of the directors, of the failure of the scheme to answer the above named purpose it can be terminated by giving notice at the first half-yearly ordinary meeting in any year that at the following general meeting in August a motion will be submitted to give notice to terminate the scheme at the next annual bonus distribution on June 30th of the following year. The notice of motion to be printed in the half-yearly report, and special proxies to be issued for voting thereon. The whole procedure and the termination of the scheme or any alteration thereof to meet altered circumstances to be subject to the consent and approval of the Board of Trade. If the scheme should be terminated in this way, a new scheme shall be necessary for its revival.

15. The details of the scheme may be varied from time to time to meet altered circumstances by the shareholders in general meeting, subject to the consent of the Board of Trade.

Passed by the Board, July 24th, 1907.

The Seal of the South Metropolitan Gas Company was affixed hereto in the presence of—

Chairman.

The employees' director shall have been not less than seven years in the constant employ of the Company and shall have held for not less than twelve months prior to the date of election and shall continue to hold not less than one hundred pounds nominal value of the ordinary stock of the Company."

(7) "The fees to be paid to an employees' director for his attendance at the Board shall be fixed by the scheme. The fees shall bear some proportion (to be fixed by the scheme) to the amount of the qualification not being less than his ordinary day's pay nor more than four times that amount."

(8) "The scale and method of voting for and the mode of election of employees' directors shall be settled by the scheme and may be varied by successive schemes from time to time."

And whereas in 1904 the aggregate investment of the employees in the Company's ordinary stock exceeded £10,000 nominal, a scheme was adopted for a period of three years for the election of two employee directors, a workman and a salaried official, but the option for the latter not being exercised, two workmen directors were elected.

And whereas the scheme of 1904, which expires on the 12th of October next, proved satisfactory and the total investments of the employees in the ordinary stock of the Company exceed the nominal amount of £20,000, the directors consider a renewal for a lengthened period desirable.

Now, therefore, the directors of the Company, acting in pursuance of the powers conferred on them in that behalf by the said Act, have prepared the following scheme, that is to say:—

1. In this scheme "The Company" means the South Suburban Gas Company.

"Employees" means persons in the employ of the Company and holding stock in the capital of the Company.

"Employees director" means a director elected by the employees.

2. This scheme, if it has previously been adopted by the shareholders of the Company in manner provided by the South Suburban Gas Act, 1904, and approved by the Board of Trade, shall come into operation on the cesser of the scheme of 1904, and shall continue in force until 1950, or short of that year, so long as the shareholders approve (see section 12) and the aggregate investment of the employees in the stock of the Company shall not fall below the nominal amount or amounts set forth in section 4.

3. Employees in receipt of weekly wages shall have the power to elect two directors, and employees on the staff receiving salaries, payable monthly, shall have the power to elect one director, or three in all. In the event of either section not exercising its option, the employees in the other section shall not have their number of directors increased.

4. Following the rule of Joint Stock Companies that the owners of the stock shall elect the directors, the object of this scheme is to confer similar power on the employee shareholders. The nominal value of the ordinary paid-up stock of the Company is at this date £605,000, of which the employees own £20,000, say  $\frac{1}{30}$  part. The other shareholders owning  $\frac{29}{30}$  of the stock elect six directors. Under this scheme the employee shareholders are empowered to elect three employee directors. The Company's Act of 1904 fixed the minimum aggregate holding for the election of employee directors at the very low figure of £10,000 of stock for the purpose of giving the employees a direct share in the responsibility of management as soon as possible, and not as indicating that so small a proportion of the total stock should confer the right. The Employee Director Scheme of 1904 for three years only, which lapses in 1907, provided for the election of two directors for the minimum aggregate holding of £10,000 nominal of stock by the employees. The present scheme with an aggregate holding of £18,000 nominal of stock fixes the number of employee directors at three, subject to the following conditions: The essence of the copartnership is that the employees' holding of stock shall increase year by year by the investment of their copartnership bonus. If at any time the aggregate investment of the employees should fall back by 10 per cent. of its amount below any figure it may have attained less than one-tenth part of the paid-up capital, the number of employee directors shall be reduced to two by lot, if the reduction of the aggregate holding of stock is general with the salaried staff and the weekly wage earners. If it is entirely or mainly in either section justice requires that section to lose a director and there shall be no lot drawing. If the reduction should amount to 20 per cent. the number of employee directors shall be reduced to one by lot, if necessary: Provided that if the aggregate investment should be restored to the original maximum, the directors lost by the first and second reductions shall be restored. A reduction of 30 per cent. below the maximum shall disqualify the remaining employee director, and then only as provided in section 13 can the employee directors be restored. So long as the aggregate holding exceeds one-tenth part of the ordinary nominal capital, the above provisions as to reductions shall not apply.

5. Every employee shall have for this purpose one vote for every ten pounds of stock held in his own name, or jointly with that of his wife or child, up to £100, ten votes.

And one vote for every £50 above the first £300.

6. The qualification of an employees' director shall be two-fold, the having been continuously not less than fourteen years in, and continuing in, the employ of the Company, and the having held for not less than twelve months prior to the date of election, and the continuing to hold, not less than £100 in the stock of the Company, accumulated under the copartnership scheme. As the aggregate holding of stock increases, so shall the qualification and the fees of employee directors increase in the following proportion:—

Aggregate Holding.	Qualification.	Fees.
20,000	... 100	1 1 0
30,000	... 120	The fees for each employee director for each attendance to be increased proportionately with the qualification until they reach the maximum prescribed by the Act (sub-section 7).
One-tenth of total capital or more	150

7. The Company shall, one calendar month at least prior to the date of election, make out an alphabetical list of all the employees possessing the necessary qualification to act as directors, giving the name of each possible candidate, his length of service, and his occupation. Such list shall be printed and posted up for seven days in conspicuous places at the works of the Company, and shall be supplied to any shareholding employee on application at the head office. Any qualified employee wishing to be a candidate must give notice in writing to the Secretary of the Company to that effect within eight days from the posting up of the list, and the names of the candidates shall then be posted in prominent places in the works.

8. At every election, each voter shall be supplied with a voting paper in the form prescribed in the Schedule attached hereto. Such voting paper shall be addressed personally to each voter and shall contain the names of all the workmen who are qualified and willing to act as directors. The salaried officers of the Company shall make their selection and vote separately from the workmen, but in all other respects these regulations shall apply to them. The voter shall place his full number of votes, as set out on the voting paper, against the name of any one candidate whom he thinks best fitted to become a director, sign the paper and hand it to the persons, viz., one officer nominated by the Board, and the last elected workman member of the Copartnership Committee, who shall be appointed to receive it. In the event of any candidate receiving a majority of the total number of votes polled, he shall be the elected director, but should this not be the case, new voting papers, shall be issued containing the names of the two candidates who received the highest numbers of votes. A second vote shall in that event be taken, and the candidate who receives the highest number of votes shall then be the elected director.

9. One of the directors elected under this scheme shall retire every year after the first Board meeting in the month of November. If duly qualified, the retiring director shall be eligible for re-election. The retirement shall be by rotation.

10. The elections shall take place yearly in October. Employee directors whose turn it is to retire shall continue to serve until their successors take office. In the event of retirement at other than the usual time, or by leaving the service of the Company, or the death of an employee director, a successor shall be elected at a date to be fixed by the Board within two months, who shall take the place and retire in the turn of the late director.

11. The employee directors shall have their ordinary duties and the pay attaching thereto suspended during the time that is found to be necessary for their duties as directors. The fees shall "bear some proportion to the amount of their qualification," relatively to those of ordinary directors, and shall be for their service as directors the amount they would have earned if they had been at their ordinary employment, plus the fees stated in section 6 for each attendance, but, whatever their earnings may be, all three employee directors shall have the same amount of fees per attendance as directors.

12. This scheme shall continue in force, subject to the limitations in section 2, so long as, in the opinion of the shareholders, it answers its purpose of promoting a true union of the employers and employed. If the employee shareholders should reduce their holding of stock below the 30 per cent. mentioned in section 4, the scheme shall thereby become null and void and incapable of revival until the conditions of section 4, under which these employee directors were sitting, are restored. Should this happen, the directors, with the shareholders consent and approval, may revive this scheme. In the event in the opinion of the directors of the failure of the scheme to answer the above named purpose it can be terminated by giving notice at the first half-yearly ordinary meeting in any year that at the following general meeting in August a motion will be submitted to give notice to terminate the scheme at the next annual bonus distribution on June 30th of the following year. The notice of motion to be printed in the half-yearly report, and special proxies to be issued for voting thereon. The whole procedure and the termination of the scheme to be subject to the consent and approval of the Board of Trade. If the scheme should be terminated in this way, a new scheme shall be necessary for its revival.

13. The details of the scheme may be varied from time to time to meet altered circumstances by the shareholders in general meeting, subject to the consent of the Board of Trade.

Passed by the Board, July 26th, 1907.

The common seal of the Company is hereby affixed in the presence of—

GEORGE LIVESEY,
Chairman.
CHAS. M. OHREN,
Secretary.
