In pursuance of an Act for better preserving the navigation of the River Mersey (5 and 6 Victoria, chapter 110), we, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the county borough of Warrington, hereby give you notice, that we propose to widen the bridge across the River Mersey, known as Warrington Bridge, by means of cantilevers, in accordance with plans and sections deposited at the office of the Mersey Conservancy. The object of the proposed widening of the bridge is to provide greater accommodation for the traffic passing over the bridge. It is proposed to widen the bridge from 36 feet 6 inches to 46 feet 6 inches by means of cantilevers constructed of ferro-concrete, built in, and secured to the existing buttresses of the bridge. The cantilevers or brackets will extend from the face of the existing bridge eight feet on each side of the bridge. Ferro-concrete girders will be placed longitudinally upon the cantilevers, and the footpath will be constructed in ferro-concrete on such girders for the use of foot passengers. The entire width of the existing bridge will be utilized for vehicular traffic. The work will be commenced in two months' time. It will not exclude, impede, or interrupt the tidal or other waters of the River Mersey.

Weser River—Regulations for Navigation.

Particulars.—The following alterations have been made in the Police Regulations for the Weser River between Rother Sand Lighthouse and Bremen; also for the Geeste and Lesum Rivers:—

Regulations.—Section 24.—Vessels must carefully avoid causing any injury to the bank, shore-establishments, works, and piers. Steam vessels must keep as far as possible from the banks, and from the river structures, and dredgers. In sharp bends of the fairway or near sunken vessels, steam vessels must proceed at a moderate speed; this regulation also holds good when near places marked as dangerous or under construction, as well as near such places where raising operations, diving, or blasting is taking place. By day, all these places are marked by a red cylinder, and at night by three lights, placed vertically, the upper and lower ones being white and the middle one red.

Section 31.—Sea-going vessels which, owing to their draught or length, are obliged to keep in the deepest fairway, must, provided they are in charge of an official pilot, hoist the following signal:—

(a) By day, a red burgee (Letter B. of the International Code) at the foremast head.

(b) By night, a red light, visible all round the horizon from a distance of at least 2 miles, placed vertically above a white light, and not less than 6 feet from it; that is, on steam vessels, vertically above the white light prescribed in Section 29a.

When being towed, only the vessel towed is to show these signals.

Vessels which are not in charge of an official pilot, must not exhibit these signals.

Steamers intended for ice-breaking or for laying out buoys in the Weser must, when thus employed, always show the above mentioned signals, even when they are not in charge of a pilot.
