This prohibition includes baggage brought by travellers in so far as unwashed underclothing and bedding are concerned; it does not, however, extend to the import and carriage in transit of goods which have arrived from the above-named places, but in regard to which it appears sufficiently clearly that they have some other place of origin, and that they are packed and have been transported in such manner that they cannot have been in contact with infected objects.

Moreover, the prohibition as regards carriage in transit is not to extend to goods packed in such a manner that they cannot undergo any kind of manufacture or treatment on the way.
