

Distinguished Conduct Medals—Continued.

Regimental No.	Rank.	Name.	Corps.	Action for which commended.
6346	Serjeant ...	Rees, H. ...	1st Battalion, Royal Irish Rifles	For conspicuous gallantry and ability at Neuve Chapelle on 10th March, 1915, in handling his platoon, on one occasion going under very heavy fire to his Company Commander for orders. Again on 12th March he kept his platoon well in hand during very heavy shelling. Serjeant Rees' conduct throughout has been most gallant. He was severely wounded on 12th March, 1915.
11935	Lance-Corporal	Reeve, L. H. ...	1st Battalion, King's Royal Rifle Corps	For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty, when he, with other men, captured an enemy's trench. His Officers being wounded early in the morning, he held it from 8.15 a.m. to 2 p.m. in spite of a heavy fire and severe losses, refusing to leave until ordered to do so by a wounded Officer.
9291	Bandsman	Regan, G. P. W. ...	2nd Battalion, Leinster Regiment	For great courage and devotion to duty on 14th March, 1915, in dressing the wounded under a very heavy fire.
6847	Acting Corporal	Reid, J. ...	1st Battalion, Cameron Highlanders	For conspicuous gallantry at Bixchoote on the 22nd October, 1914, when, by his courage and devotion to duty, he retained, with his men, a hold on a trench, although under a very heavy machine gun fire from two directions. Subsequently he went back and brought up ammunition along a road swept by machine gun fire, and thereby prevented any advance by the enemy.
1290	Lance-Corporal	Rendall, J. ...	2nd Battalion, Welsh Regiment (attached to 170th Company, Royal Engineers)	For conspicuous gallantry on the 1st April, 1915, when, at about 1 a.m., under a bright moon, he went out in front of the advanced trenches and brought in a wounded man from within 40 yards of the German trenches, being fired on heavily the whole time.
24503	Corporal ..	Revell, E. G. ...	2nd Signal Company, Royal Engineers	For conspicuous gallantry and resource in charge of a telephone detachment throughout the campaign. On several occasions he volunteered to go out and repair telephone lines under shell fire. On the 10th March, 1915, at Cuinchy, the wires between Brigade Headquarters and Battalions being frequently cut by shell fire, he mended them, thus maintaining telephonic communication without a break throughout the day.
9937	Corporal ...	Rickard, S. G. ...	"C" Air Line Section, Royal Engineers	For conspicuous zeal and devotion to duty when carrying out his work as Chief Linesman with his Company.
7573	Private ...	Riddlestone, F. ...	1st Battalion, Suffolk Regiment	For conspicuous courage and devotion to duty in continually carrying messages under a heavy fire.
5379	Serjeant-Major	Rigby, D. A. ...	5th Battalion, Scottish Rifles (T.F.)	For conspicuous ability and devotion to duty. Serjeant-Major Rigby has performed excellent work.
7017	Company Serjeant-Major	Robb, F. ...	1st Battalion, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders	For conspicuous gallantry on 17th February, 1915, in taking an important message to the firing line in daylight under a heavy fire at close range. Company Serjeant-Major Robb, who was wounded on 6th April, 1915, has performed most valuable work in the trenches.
12536	Lance-Corporal	Roberts, A. C. G. ...	2nd Battalion, Middlesex Regiment	For conspicuous gallantry and skill at Neuve Chapelle on 10th March, 1915, when he used bombs to repel a counter-attack by superior numbers of the enemy, who were thereby forced to retire losing several of their number.
