|----------------|-------------------------------|--------------------|--|---|
| 6740           | Acting Company Serjeant-Major | Tabb, E. ...       | 1st Battalion, Devonshire Regiment                 | For conspicuous gallantry and coolness in the trenches, notably on 10th March, 1915, when under heavy shell fire he dug out men who had been buried.  |
| 10056          | Lance-Corporal                | Tanner, W. G. ...  | 2nd Battalion, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders   | For consistently gallant conduct as stretcher bearer throughout the campaign.   |
| 66136          | Gunner ...                    | Taylor, R. ...     | 104th Battery, Royal Field Artillery               | For conspicuous gallantry at Neuve Chapelle on March 12th, 1915, when he made his way alone along a heavily shelled road and showed great courage and coolness all day in repairing telephone wires under heavy fire.   |
| 7604           | Serjeant ...                  | Tector, W. ...     | 1st Battalion, Leinster Regiment                   | For conspicuous gallantry and ability at Ypres between 2nd and 15th April, 1915, in patrolling up to the enemy's trenches by day and night, thereby gaining most valuable information as to his saps and advanced posts, also as to machine gun positions.  |
| 1629           | Serjeant ...                  | Thompson, A. ...   | 1st Battalion Northumberland Fusiliers             | For conspicuous gallantry on various occasions, notably at Kemmel on 26th January, 1915, when he bombed the enemy's trench with good effect in front of a detached post; and near Ypres on 4th March, 1915, when he showed great coolness in command of a detached trench after more than half its garrison had been killed or wounded by shell fire. |
| 8823           | Private ...                   | Thompson, F. ...   | 1st Battalion, Cheshire Regiment                   | For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty near Ypres on March 4th, 1915, when he was wounded in the trenches but refused to be taken away as he knew that his battalion was short of telephone operators. He remained there 24 hours on duty till his company was relieved and then was taken to hospital.                                       |
| 7229           | Acting Corporal               | Thompson, J. ...   | 2nd Battalion, King's Own Scottish Borderers       | For conspicuous gallantry on "Hill 60" on the night of 17th April, 1915, when he superintended his section digging a communication trench under heavy fire, and set a fine example to his men.  |
| 9669           | Private ...                   | Thorburn, T. ...   | 2nd Battalion, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders   | For consistently gallant conduct as stretcher bearer throughout the campaign. Private Thorburn's cheerful energy during the severe weather in the trenches set a great example to the younger soldiers.   |
| 8645           | Corporal ...                  | Tibbets, G. ...    | 2nd Battalion, Worcestershire Regiment             | For gallant conduct on 1st January, 1915, at Rue du Bois, when he brought in, under a heavy fire, from a post in front of the trenches, a wounded Serjeant of his Regiment.   |
| 5638           | Company Serjeant-Major        | Tighe, J. P. ...   | 1st Battalion, Royal Irish Regiment                | For conspicuous courage and devotion to duty displayed at St. Eloi, on the night of 14th February, 1915, in leading out a party of stretcher bearers under a heavy fire, to bring in wounded.   |
| 306            | Flight-Serjeant               | Tindale, T. G. ... | Royal Flying Corps ...                             | For conspicuous zeal and devotion to duty, and the noticeable efficient manner in which he has carried out his responsible duties.  |
| 20543          | Private ...                   | Tooke, W. J. ...   | 1st Battalion, King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry | For conspicuous gallantry at Frezenberg on 8th May, 1915, when, on volunteering to take a message under heavy fire, and having carried the message, he crawled back through a wood and having found the enemy in possession, remained there until dark, when he returned and reported to his Commanding Officer.                                      |
