

13200 Serjeant J. S. McGlashan, 5th Canadian Infantry Battalion.

For good all-round work from 12th to 15th December, 1915, scouting, reconnoitring, and preparing for the attack on the Messines road barricade. He accounted for five Germans, who were making for cover.

79276 Serjeant J. McQuade, 178th Tunnelling Company, Royal Engineers.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in Tambour Du Clos during November, 1915. When the enemy had exploded a mine on 5th November, it was due to his personal courage and example that our buried miners were extricated, the air being very foul and the gallery rendered most unsafe by the explosion.

On 28th November, when the enemy were believed to be within 10 feet of our galleries, he laid, tamped and exploded a charge which forestalled them.

On many other occasions he has rendered gallant service.

17192 Serjeant C. Mellors, 7th Battalion, Leicestershire Regiment.

For conspicuous gallantry near Bienwillers on the night of 24th December, 1915. When a grenade had fallen from a "West" bomb thrower into our own trench, he jumped down from the parapet, seized it, and threw it out of the trench. The grenade exploded as it left his hand. His promptness and bravery saved many casualties.

16799 Serjeant W. C. Meyerstein, 7th Canadian Infantry Battalion.

For conspicuous gallantry on the night of 16th/17th November, 1915, near Messines. Serjeants Meyerstein and Ashby, with some scouts, worked for four hours in bright moonlight cutting lanes through the wire close to a heavily manned German trench. They then placed a bridge over the Douve river, about 16 yards from the enemy's parapet, and guided our bombing parties through the lanes they had cut. Their coolness and courage rendered the bomb attack possible.

7305 Serjeant J. C. Millard, 1st Battalion, Gloucestershire Regiment.

For conspicuous gallantry at the Chalk Pit on the Hulluch road on 8th October, 1915. With only 15 men of his platoon left to hold the trench, he held up an attack by bombing and rifle fire until reinforcements arrived.

9459 Private A. H. Mires, 2nd Battalion, Royal West Kent Regiment (attached Maxim Battery).

For conspicuous gallantry at Kut-al-Amara (Mesopotamia) on 28th September, 1915. With another private he carried forward and worked his gun under a very heavy fire within 300 yards of the enemy's strong redoubt, thereby materially assisting in the capture of the work.

3252 Lance-Corporal H. W. Moore, 1st/6th Battalion, Gloucestershire Regiment, Territorial Force.

For conspicuous gallantry at Gommecourt on the night of 25th/26th November, 1915. During a bomb attack against the German trenches he showed great bravery in entering shelters full of the enemy and clearing them with his bombs. When he had no more bombs he fought his way with his fists through a group of Germans in order to carry an order to retire to a blocking group which had been cut off.

13336 Acting Corporal J. Moore, 1st Battalion, Cheshire Regiment.

For conspicuous gallantry on the night of 6th/7th December, 1915, during a bombing attack near Carnoy. He was in charge of a "West" machine and greatly assisted the attack by keeping up rapid fire. A lighted bomb dropped off the cap of the machine and would have caused many casualties, but Corporal Moore groped for it in the mud and had just time to throw it over the parapet when it exploded. This is not the first time he has been brought to notice for bravery.

20841 Battery-Quartermaster-Serjeant A. Morgan, 76th Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

For conspicuous gallantry at Kut-al-Amara, Mesopotamia, on 28th September, 1915. When a large number of horses had been lost through shrapnel fire, causing two waggons to be temporarily left behind, Q.M.S. Morgan showed marked courage and coolness in replacing the teams and enabling the waggons to be withdrawn.

1568 Corporal W. G. Muir, 1st/4th London Mounted Brigade Field Ambulance, Royal Army Medical Corps, Territorial Force.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on several occasions, notably at Chocolate Hill, Gallipoli Peninsula, on 29th September, 1915, when he crossed over 200 yards of open ground under very heavy fire to assist the Medical Officer to render aid to two wounded men.

55231 Bombardier C. Munro, 63rd Battery, Royal Field Artillery.

For conspicuous gallantry at Kut-al-Amara, Mesopotamia, on 28th September, 1915. He assisted in bringing up waggons to replenish the ammunition supply three times during the day through heavy and well-directed shell fire, which was brought to bear immediately that the waggons appeared.
