The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs draws attention to the following translation of an Order issued by the German Government on the 3rd instant:—

I hereby direct that the following article be added to Article 23* of the Prize Ordinance of September 30th, 1909, last amended by the Imperial Decree of April 18th, 1915† (Reiches-Gesetzblatt, page 227):

* This article contains the list of conditional contraband of war.

† See London Gazette of Tuesday, May 11th, 1915.

*Foreign Office,
June 27, 1916.*

The following additions or corrections to the lists published as a supplement to the London Gazette of 16th May, 1916, of persons to whom articles to be exported to China and Siam may be consigned, are notified by order of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in accordance with the provisions of the Proclamation relating to the exportation of articles to China and Siam during the present war, issued on the 24th day of September, 1915:—

SIAM.

Foreign Office (Foreign Trade Dept.), 23rd June, 1916.

The following name is added to the list of persons and bodies of persons to whom articles to be exported to Siam may be consigned:—

Motiwalla, E. J., & Co., Bangkok.

Whitehall, 22nd June, 1916.

His Majesty the KING has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal of the first class to James Burt and Arthur Frankland, also the Edward Medal of the second class to Duncan McPolland on account of their gallant conduct on the occasion of an explosion which occurred at the works of the Nobel Explosive Co., Ardeer, on the 30th July, 1915;

Also the Edward Medal of the second class to Arthur Woodhouse and Joseph Peat, miners at the Wood Lane Colliery, Hill Top, Horsley, near Derby, under the following circumstances:—

On the 24th December, 1915, John Orrill, the Manager of the Wood Lane Colliery, ordered a man named David Aldread to fetch a shovel from a point some 200 yards distant. As Aldread did not return Orrill ordered another man, William Peat, to fetch an electric lamp from the surface and search for Aldread, and meanwhile Orrill himself went in search of the missing man. On his return with the lamp, William Peat followed Orrill and found both Orrill and Aldread lying unconscious on the ground, while he himself was nearly overcome by black-damp. He at once summoned help, and guided his son, Joseph Peat, and Arthur Woodhouse to a spot about 12 yards distant from the bodies. By this time the air was so bad that a flame would not burn, and the only light by which the men could work was an electric hand lamp of one candle power. In spite of the difficulty and danger, Woodhouse and Peat by successive rushes forward over an obstacle created by a fall of roof, into an atmosphere fatal to life, succeeded in attaching their belts round the bodies, first of Orrill and then of Aldread, fastening a long strap from some adjacent machinery to the belts and pulling them out over the fall. Had either man stumbled or fallen when near the bodies the result would in all probability have been fatal. The rescue lasted from 60 to 90 minutes. Both Orrill and Aldread were dead when their bodies were recovered, but the unfortunate result does not detract from the bravery of the rescuers.

Also the Edward Medal of the second class to Frederick George Stephens, Under Manager of the Aberaman Colliery, under the following circumstances:—

On the 10th September, 1915, a fireman of the Aberaman Colliery, on examining the pit at noon, found some timbers breaking, owing to roof weighting, and instructed a workman named Gamble to set props beneath the collars of the timbers. As Gamble was approaching the spot six pairs of timbers gave way causing a heavy fall (about 16 tons) of roof and sides, by which Gamble was caught. He was buried by about four feet of rubbish, his head and feet pinned tight; but his body protected by some fallen timber. Efforts were made to get him free, but were frustrated by the further falls, which were continually taking place. Stephens, the Under Manager, arrived about half an hour after the accident, by which time the roof and one side had become so dangerous that no one would venture near Gamble in spite of his cries for help. Stephens, however, immediately placed himself over Gamble, so as to protect him and called for volunteers. Four men responded and, under Stephens' instructions, began to pull down the overhanging stones, which Stephens, who is a strong man, diverted from falling on to Gamble, and by so doing was himself injured. After two hours' exertion Stephens succeeded in freeing Gamble, whose injuries, though not very serious, incapacitated him for two months from work. There can be little doubt that, had not Stephens been able to divert the falling stones, Gamble would have been in great danger of being crushed or suffocated, and it was Stephens' example which prompted the other men to renew their attempt at rescue, from which they had desisted owing to the danger of falling stones.

Also the Edward Medal of the second class to Harold Gregory, Under Manager, Charles Benjamin Franklin, Day Deputy, Charles William Hudson, Contractor, Edward Nurse, Stallman, and Thomas Smith, Stallman, employed at the Ireland Colliery, Stavelly, Derbyshire, under the following circumstances:—

On the 28th February, 1916, at 7 a.m., a fall of roof occurred at the Ireland Colliery, by which a filler named John William Fieldsend was imprisoned. Gregory, Franklin, Hudson, Nurse and Smith at once set to work to open a passage through the fallen roof in order to rescue their fellow workman. The roof was everywhere very uneasy and a further fall was liable to occur at any moment. Owing to the narrowness of the place, only one man could work at the head of the passage (the most dangerous place, while the remaining four, one behind the other, passed out the material removed, the men taking by turns the post of danger. After about three hours' work, at 10 a.m. a further fall occurred, closing the passage which had been made for three yards. Fortunately the workers escaped without injury. Work was at once resumed, and Fieldsend was reached. As soon, however, as an attempt was made to remove him from under a piece of timber, by which he was pinned down, a third fall occurred, blocking up the passage for about four yards, and displacing much of the timber which had been used to prop up the roof and walls of the passage as it was made. Finally, at 5 p.m., after ten hours' continuous work, Fieldsend was reached and taken out of the pit. He was not much injured. All five men ran continuous risk, during the whole ten hours, of serious injury or death from falls of roof.

ADMIRALTY

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

No. 669 of the year 1916.

SCOTLAND, EAST COAST AND ORKNEY ISLANDS.

Pilotage and Traffic Regulations, &c.

Former Notice.—No. 635 of 1916; hereby cancelled.

Mariners are hereby warned that, under the Defence of the Realm (Consolidation) Regulations, 1914, the following Regulations have been made by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty and are now in force:—

Pilotage is compulsory at the following ports for all vessels (including fishing vessels) which have a draught of over eight feet, and it is highly dangerous for any vessel to enter or leave such ports without a pilot. Fishing and other small vessels having a draught of over eight feet are to assemble at the Pilotage stations, and will be conducted into and out of port in groups.

I. FIRTH OF FORTH.

Section [A].

1. All incoming merchant vessels are only permitted to enter the Firth of Forth when they have sufficient daylight to enable them to reach Inchkeith before the close of “official day,” which is notified in the Public Traffic Regulations for the Firth of Forth.

2. A light-and-whistle buoy has been established in lat. $56^{\circ} 09' 00''$ N., long. $2^{\circ} 51' 00''$ W. The buoy is painted green, and exhibits an occulting white light every twelve seconds, thus:—

Light .	eclipse
10 secs.	2 secs.

3. All incoming and outward bound merchant vessels are to pass within half a mile of, and to the southward of, the light-and-whistle buoy mentioned in paragraph 2.

4. Incoming vessels must pass between the Isle of May and Anstruther Wester, thence they must steer a course so as to pass within half a mile of, and to the southward of, the light-and-whistle-buoy mentioned in paragraph 2, and thence direct for Kinghorn ness.

5. Vessels are warned that, after having entered the Firth of Forth, they must on no account pass to the southward of a line joining the north point of the Isle of May and Kinghorn ness, until in the longitude of 3° West, when course may be shaped for the centre of North channel.

6. On approaching Inchkeith, the pilot vessel in the North channel is to be closed and a pilot embarked.

7. Merchant vessels approaching the Firth of Forth from the southward are permitted to keep close to the shore until Barns ness is reached, when course should be shaped for the Isle of May, so as to pass between the Isle of May and Anstruther Wester.

8. No merchant or fishing vessel is permitted to enter the Firth of Forth between the Isle of May and the south shore of the Forth.

9. Merchant vessels approaching the Firth of Forth during the hours of darkness are to maintain a steady course and speed, and are to so arrange their speed that they shall not reach the Isle of May before daylight and thus will avoid having to reduce speed or stop in the vicinity of the Isle of May, where they may render themselves liable to be fired upon by shore batteries or patrol vessels.

10. No merchant vessel is permitted to be at an anchorage, during “official night,” west of a line drawn from Barns ness to North Carr rock, and east of Inchkeith, unless such vessel has been granted permission by the King’s Harbour Master, Rosyth, or unless such vessel is directed to anchor by the orders of a naval patrol vessel.

11. The above orders apply to vessels proceeding to any port in the Firth of Forth, whether to the eastward of Inchkeith or not.

12. Outward bound vessels must steer to pass the longitude of 3° W. in latitude $56^{\circ} 06' 30''$ N., thence shape course to pass within half a mile of, and to the southward of, the light-and-whistle-buoy mentioned in paragraph 2, and thence between Anstruther Wester and the Isle of May.

Section [B].

1. Until further notice no merchant vessel is permitted to be under way in the Firth of Forth to the westward of Inchkeith during the hours of “official night.”

2. No merchant vessel is permitted to enter or leave the docks at Leith or Granton during the hours of “official night.”

3. No light on board any merchant vessel in the Firth of Forth is to be visible from outboard during the hours of “official night,” other than regulation riding lights, which are provided for in paragraph 5 below.

All scuttles and skylights are to be effectively screened, or cabin lights kept extinguished.

4. No merchant vessel whilst lying at anchor to the westward of Inchkeith shall exhibit riding lights except as provided for in paragraph 5 below. Every such vessel shall, however, keep trimmed and screened—ready for exhibiting—the regulation riding lights, and such lights shall be quickly accessible when required.

5. Riding lights are only to be shown by merchant vessels anchored west of Inchkeith when the night signal for "Port Open" (three white lights vertical) is shown by the Examination vessel in Leith roads.

The Examination vessel will only show this signal on occasions when it is considered necessary by the Deputy Examining Officer.

6. Merchant vessels at anchor to the westward of Inchkeith are to keep a smart look out, and when the night signal for "Port Open" is shown by the Examination vessel in Leith roads, are to immediately display the regulation riding lights of a ship at anchor.

7. Merchant vessels berthed in Leith and Granton docks and harbours are prohibited from having any lights visible from outboard during the hours of "official night," unless such vessel is actually engaged in working cargo. All such lights are to be screened from overhead and from seaward when possible.

II. MORAY FIRTH.

1. All vessels bound to Cromarty or Inverness must call for a pilot at Wick or Burghead.

Outgoing vessels are to discharge their pilots at one or the other of these places.

2. It is dangerous for any vessel to be under way to the south-westward of a line joining Findhorn and Tarbet ness without a pilot.

3. No vessels of any description other than H.M. Ships and Auxiliaries are to be under way between sunset and sunrise in the waters contained between a line drawn from Tarbet ness to Findhorn, and a line drawn from Fort George to Chanonry point.

III. SCAPA FLOW.

1. All entrances are dangerous and entry is absolutely prohibited by any of them except as provided in succeeding paragraphs.

2. Examination services have been established in the entrances to Hoxa and Hoy sounds; vessels directed to enter must communicate with the Examination vessel and follow the instructions received from her very carefully.

3. No vessel is permitted to approach the entrance to Hoxa sound within a radius of 5 miles under any circumstances whatever, except when actually ordered to Scapa Flow. Vessels ordered to Kirkwall should proceed direct to that port.

4. The only vessels permitted to enter Hoy sound from the westward are those ordered to Stromness.

5. Vessels are not permitted to enter Hoxa or Hoy sounds by night or in thick weather.

6. Passage through Cantick sound is entirely prohibited.

Note.

This Notice is a repetition of Notice No. 635 of 1916, with an amendment to Section [B], Part III., paragraph 5.
