Rome, Septemb. 22. The 16th instant dyed here Cardinal Pauo Emilio Rondanino, a Creature of Pope Urban the 8th. in the 51 year of his age and 25 of his Cardinalship, so that a seventh place is now vacant in the Colledge at the disposal of His Holiness. Danzick, Sept. 29. The Archbishop continues in the Castle at Warsaw, taking care for all affairs of Publick Consequence during the Interregnum, and to the end that the future Election may not receive any disturbance, throw the private practices of the Ambassadors and Ministers of Foreign Princes; he has, according to the mind of the States, ordered that they speedily depart out of the Kingdom of Poland till the Election be over; but the Moscovite Ambassador has for the present refused to remove, protesting that he cannot answer it to his Master, should he depart thence without first receiving his Commands and Answer upon the advice he had sent him of the Kings Resignation.

The King since his Resignation of his Crown has parted with his cares, and seems much pleased in hunting and such other diversilements of the Courtsey.

The Vice-Chancellor has lately brought again to add, spare the Privileges of the Cities of Prussia, which he pretends have been upon several Occasions Extorted from former Princes, to the great prejudice of the Nobility, which they have now a fair Opportunity offered to retires; but this is as powerfully opposed by many as Members of the States. The Tanners and Coillacks begin again to put themselves in motion, but with what design is not yet known.

Paris, Oct. 12. It is at the last resolved that the Bishop of Besiers be sent again for Poland, to negotiate there for the advancing the Duke of Nenbough's interest in the following Election, and accordingly part of his Train is already upon the way, and himself to follow after in few dayes.

On Monday last the Princess Pala ine departed from hence with her Daughter the Princess Benedict, lately married to the Duke of Hanouer, intending to accompany her, as far as Frankfort; where a Train will attend her from the Duke her husband. Monsieur Groot went out the next day by Post to carry the Duke the News of her approach; and afterwards to attend the Princess at Frankfort.

The Sieur Barriet is by His Majesties Order to be employed with several Civilians into His Majesties late Conquests in the Netherlands; to visit and examine particularly the Chamber of Accounts at Douay, and to enquire into all the Revenues, Rights, or Dependences of any of the said places; as also to establish several Presidencies which are to be dependant upon the Parliament of Tournay.

From Marselles we are advised, that 8000 able soldiers which have been raised by the Venetian Ambassadors by virtue of the moneys advanced by His Majesty and the Duke of Lorraine, embarked the 27th past with their Officers for Candia, and 'tis believed the Volunteers which some dayes since put to sea from Thoulon for the same service, are by this much advanced on their way, the wind having ever since served them fairly.

The Marquis de Ternes, Lieutenant General of His Majesties Gallies is here arrived in Port from Thoulon, telling us that the three French Gallies lately employed to Legora are returned with 350 Slaves who were formerly Janissaries, but now purchased at 100 Crowns a piece, and are to be all put to the Chain in His Majesties Gallies.

On Monday next His Majesty intends to leave Chambourg and return to St. Germain. His Majesty having made choice of the Marquis de St. Andre President of the Parliament of Languedoc to be sent his Ambassadors to the Republick of Venice, he is accordingly departed with a splendid Train.

Frankfort, Octob. 6. Of the late engagement between the Forces of His Highness the Prince Elector Palatine, and the Lorrainers, we have this further account. That the said Prince Elector having intelligence that the Count de Lillebonne, General of the Lorraine Forces expected in few days a considerable reinforcement, was willing to lay hold of the first opportunity of engaging him before their arrival, to which purpose the 26th past, he ordered the body of his Horse to pass down from the Hill whereon his Army lay encamped between Spanheim and Dromerheim, and entering the Plain, drew them up in two divisions, his left wing was observed to charge the Lorrainers with much courage, putting them into some disorder, and killing the Sieur de Chauviret, Major of the Prince de Vaudemonts Regiment, with several other Officers and many Soldiers: on the other side the left wing of the Lorrainers prevailing, the Palatines were forced to give back, but rallied again at the foot of the hill, which place they made good till the rest of the Army was retired to their Camp: whilst the Horse was thus employed, Colonel Dafne and Lieutenant Colonel Spar, at the head of the Palatines Infantry, and seconded by several other able Officers stormed a Redoubt which the Count de Lillebonne had ordered to be cast up the night before upon a little hill encompassed with Vine, which was done with that vigor, that after a sharp dispute they beat out the Lorrainers, obliging them to fly to another Fort, leaving behind them two pieces of Canon, which the Palatines drew off with them about an hundred paces from the Work. But then the Lorrainers rallying, returned again and renewed the Fight, which with frequent discharges was continued for three hours: till the night approaching, both parties resumed their Posts, where in they continued that night. In this action the loss seemed most considerable to the Palatines for the number of men, as to the others for the quality, of which we have not yet a particular account. The Prince Elector finding a defect of water in his Camp, drew off the next day, and marched towards Frankendale. The Lorrainers have since seized on Ingelheim, forcing the Inhabitants by the promise of 6000 Rixdollars to compound for their security against fire and plunder, for which summe the Chapter of Mayence have engaged: and 'tis said the Count de Lillebonne is since marched to straiten Oppenheim, and expects a recruit of 1000 horse and foot, who are already marched as far as Himborg. Both Parties put in their Claims for the advantages of this dayes fight, and have accordingly made their Bonfires at Heidelberg and Nancy. They are both likewise recruiting their forces, with an intention to try the issue of a second Battel, but in the mean time there are endeavours used to prevent the farther spreading of the war; and already some Ministers are said to be arrived at Bingen, to compose the differences, and mediate a reconciliation.

Bruges, Octob. 14. On Thursday towards the evening passed through Damme the Marquis de Casfel Rodrigo from Antwerp, and by the Bridge at the Shipstall went forward for Ostend, accompanied by the Prince de Chimay with a great Train of others of the Nobility and Gentry, intending with the first fair wind to embark himself for Spain, many ships lying there ready to attend him.

His stay at Brussels was but short, not above two days, and many hours of that time spent in conferences with the Spanish Ambassador Don Estevan de Gamarra, concerning the future Government of these Countreys; the substance whereof, with the reason of his change of resolution of taking Holland in his way, the said Ambassador communicated on the Munday following to the New Governour the Constable of Castille.

The Privy Council has been lately at Malines to congratulate the New Governour on his Entry into his Charge, where has been also the Baron de Groyck and the Sieur Bourton, to give him an account of the Regulation made by the Marquis de Casfel Rodrigo amongst the Army; wherein 'tis believed the Constable may suddenly make some alteration, and particularly as to the German Forces, which are in their proportion of greatest expence to the Countrey, he has already his intentions to alter the method of the Cavalry by reducing their Regiments to three Companies.

Some few days since a Spanish Regiment under the command of Don Antonio Furtado, being drawn up not far from Ghent near another Regiment of Germans, some reproaches passing between them, they fell at the last to their weapons, in which above 30 Germans were in little time killed upon the place, and six or seven Spaniards, and many wounded on both sides; much more execution had probably been done amongst them, had not the appearance of their Colonels & other Officers restrained them from farther violence.

From Eurgundy we are advised that the Prince de Aremberg having intelligence of some tumult risen in the City of Gray betwixt the people and the soldiery, was hastning thither with extraordinary speed; but was near the City unfortunately thrown from his Horse, and much bruised, so that he was forced that Night to take the benefit of the next House, but his hurt not supposed to be dangerous: Upon the news of his approach the tumult immediately vanished, all persons retiring themselves to their own houses.

At Lesançon they have now fallen upon the work of digging for a foundation for the erecting of a Citadel, the 19th past being the day appointed for the Ceremony of laying the first Stone. The Prince of Aremberg has made himself a Guard of an hundred Swisses, which he found amongst the Lorrainers which were entered into the service of that Countrey; they are at present to be placed in Garrison at Besançon. A Commission is also granted to the Baron de Soye Governour of that place, for the raising of a Regiment of Burgundians, which he is to command as Colonel, and keep in Garrison in that City.

Ipswich Octob. 6. On Saturday last His Majesty passed through this place to Landguard-Fort, going thence for Harwich. Yesterday being Monday, he returned again hither, where he was received as in other places, with all possible expressions of joy, and was the same day entertained at dinner at the Lord Viscount Hereford's house near this place, and from thence returned again for Newmarket.

Whitehall, Octob. 6. This morning Her Majesty attended by several Ladies of the Court, went hence for Audley-End, where his Majesty was suddenly likewise expected, having diverted himself for some time at Newmarket, and since in visiting several Ports and Towns upon the sea coasts.
