

work of the highest order in the protection of our shores and of our commerce.

My several visits to the Clyde District—that hive of industry—have made Me more than ever realise the genius of its designers and the skill and activities of its workers, both men and women, and how much we owe to the brains and muscle of Scotland. I am glad that the Lord Provost of Glasgow is with us here to-day.

As the Sons of Scotland rallied to the Battle-cry, so her Daughters keenly centred their efforts upon the task of providing those Munitions of War which have enabled Our Armies to meet and defeat an enemy equipped to perfection. The Scottish Medical Units and Nurses at home and abroad, by their self-sacrificing works of mercy, have gained the grateful esteem of the world. Truly all classes of the people of Scotland, professional, industrial, and agricultural, have united in upholding the honour and glory of the Empire.

Through our rejoicing to-day there flows a deep undercurrent of sorrow for those who have sacrificed their lives, or, it may be, both health and strength in the relentless struggle of the past four years. We do not forget them: we never shall forget them. My Government, as you know, proposes to dedicate your ancient Castle, which through the ages has been the symbol of the defence of Scotland, as a memorial to those who have died that we may live.

The spontaneous and outspoken demonstration of affection and loyalty, with which the Queen and I have been greeted on every side and by all classes, has deeply moved Me. These manifestations have confirmed Me in the unshaken belief that My People were with Me amidst the trials and often changing fortunes of the War.

It is with the same confidence in them that I look forward, trusting that with God's help, whatever difficulties may confront us will be bravely faced and successfully overcome.

Our Scottish visits during these past years have necessarily been restricted, but We look forward to their renewal and to the yearly happy sojourn in Our Deeside home.

From the depths of My heart I thank you for your real Scottish welcome, and I pray that every blessing and prosperity may be granted to your country in the days to come.
