

2nd Lt. Charles Heath Fisher, E. Surr. R., Spec. Res., attd. 12th Bn.

For conspicuous gallantry on reconnaissance. In spite of the fact that his runner was wounded, he returned himself and gave a valuable report as to the position of one of our posts in front of the line. He afterwards conducted three men with rations and water back to this post in spite of the country through which they had to pass being under continuous machine-gun and snipers' fire.

2nd Lt. George Harry Fisher, R.F.A., Spec. Res., attd. D/242nd Bde., R.F.A., T.F.

For great gallantry and resource while in command of a forward section during a heavy bombardment, when the gun-pit was destroyed. He kept his remaining gun in action, although the aiming posts and lamps were twice blown away. His own and the signallers' dug-outs were then blown in, but he succeeded, at great risk and under heavy fire, in saving the two men half buried in the dug-out.

T./2nd Lt. Thomas Fisher, 7th Bn., Shrops. L.I.

For conspicuous gallantry during an attack. He led his company excellently, and on meeting strong machine-gun opposition charged with the bayonet, dislodging the enemy and securing his objective. By his dash and initiative he greatly contributed to the success of the operation.

T./Lt. (A./Capt.) Eric Gilson Fisk, attd. R. Lan. R. (8th Bn.).

For conspicuous gallantry in charge of a company during an attack. Finding that the battalion in front of him were held up, he successfully advanced his line in face of heavy opposition from machine-gun nests. Later, he again led his company most determinedly in an attack, and it was due to his keeping his men so close to the barrage that the objective was gained and consolidated with few casualties. He did fine work.

Capt. David Pinkerton Fleming, 5th Bn., Scot. Rif., T.F., attd. 13th Bn., R. Innis. Fus.

For conspicuous gallantry and initiative in an attack. Owing to casualties among the company commanders he assisted officers with but little experience to carry out their instructions, and, when the position was captured, he personally supervised the consolidation.

2nd Lt. Andrew Frame Flint, "B" Bty., 240th (S.M.) Bde., R.F.A. (T.F.). (ITALY)

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty in a raid. He accompanied the battalion commander as liaison officer, and, while approaching the enemy's trenches, showed great coolness and pluck in a fight at close quarters with a party of the enemy who suddenly sprang out of the grass. Several were killed, and he personally took a prisoner. Throughout he was of great assistance.

T./Capt. Norris Langfield Flower, 6th Bn., Wilts. R.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty as signal officer. He kept up his forward communication, and when all his signallers had become casualties he organised a line of defence about battalion headquarters and was one of the last to withdraw. He then helped to reorganise the men at the next line of defence. Later, he organised scattered units and reinforced a threatened flank. He displayed the greatest coolness, energy and pluck.

Lt. John Edgar Forber, 412th (Lowland) Fd. Coy., R.E. (T.F.).

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an advance. He got parties told off for building barricades in captured trenches into touch with the infantry in spite of the late arrival of the field company. Later, with a N.C.O. he made a bold reconnaissance under machine-gun and rifle fire and obtained important information.

2nd Lt. Alfred Winn Ford, R.F.A., Spec. Res., attd. 45th Bty.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. After the battery had been ordered to stop firing and take cover under heavy enemy barrage, the S.O.S. call came through. This officer at once started the guns firing and maintained the fire while his ammunition lasted, and this was his first time in action, and several batteries in the neighbourhood had been silenced by the barrage.

T./2nd Lt. Harry Ford, attd. Royal War. R. (14th Bn.).

For conspicuous gallantry and good leadership. He led his platoon with great determination in an attack, putting three enemy machine guns out of action. He showed splendid initiative and skill throughout.

T./2nd Lt. Cecil Walter Fort, 1st Bn., Devon. R.

For conspicuous gallantry during an advance. He was one of the few officers who had not become casualties, and by his coolness and fearless example greatly assisted in the organisation of the line, helping to beat off a strong counter-attack.

T./Lt. Adrian Wrigley Fosbroke-Hobbes, R.H.A. (EGYPT)

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. When the enemy penetrated our line, both signallers of the F.O.O. were wounded, and the wire cut. This officer, with two signallers, galloped out to re-establish communication across open ground under heavy shell fire. Then, dismounting, he worked his way forward on foot, repaired the wire, and, accurately directing the fire of his battery, caused the surrender of six officers and 120 men.

Capt. Ian Macgregor Frame, 3rd Bn., attd. 1st Bn., Gord. Highrs.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during an attack. He led his company against a strongly held railway embankment some 1,500 yards away over an exposed ridge, in face of heavy fire and without artillery support. His determined courage inspired his men, and enabled a very useful advance to be made.
