

Thomas, which, founded here by our pious churchmen, flourishes to-day in the great institution opposite to the Houses of Parliament.

We are glad of this occasion to declare our unswerving loyalty to your Throne, and we pray that a settled peace within the Empire and the World at large for many years to come may afford to your Majesties joy and happiness through a long and prosperous reign.

Given under the Corporate Seal of the Corporation of Wardens of Saint Saviour, Southwark, this sixth day of June, in the year of our Lord 1921.

Frank Percy Rider,
Warden of the Great Account.
Thomas Haynes,
Clerk.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return the following gracious answer:—

I thank you for the loyal and dutiful Address which you have presented to Me on behalf of the Corporation of the Wardens of St. Saviour's.

I am well aware of the long and distinguished history of your ancient Corporation and of the importance of your duties as guardians and trustees of that splendid monument of mediæval architecture which is now the Cathedral Church of the See of Southwark.

Southwark is known all the world over for the wise and public-spirited liberality of two of its citizens of whom you have spoken—Edward Alleyn, a member of your Corporation, who enriched the Metropolis with Dulwich College, and John Harvard, to whom New England owes its famous University. I am glad to think that the stream of munificence which fertilised so wide an area outside your bounds brought notable benefits also to your own people.

Those bygone citizens of Southwark to whom you owe your foundations believed, and gave practical effect to their belief, that the service of their fellow-men is an essential part of the service of God. In addition to the income required for your ecclesiastical duties you hold a large revenue, derived from the pious gifts of centuries, which is devoted to the welfare of the aged poor and to the education of the children of your Borough.

It is my earnest prayer that by the Blessing of Divine Providence the good work which your Corporation has long done and is still doing in administering your ancient charities and in maintaining the strength and beauty of your Cathedral may be continued with ever increasing success, to the well-being of the people of Southwark, to the pleasure and edification of all who love the historic architecture of England, and to the better service of the Church of God.
