

moderate work on a greater number, and a candidate can be successful on optional subjects aggregating 3,000 or 3,500 as well as on a greater number.

Candidates must obtain such an aggregate of marks in the examination as a whole to satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners.

6. The examination may be held in one part or two parts, at the discretion of the Civil Service Commissioners. In the latter case the first part of the examination (which will comprise English and Arithmetic) will be used to reduce the number of competitors to be admitted to the second part. Of those who obtain the highest aggregate of marks on the first part a certain number, to be determined by the Civil Service Commissioners, will be admitted to the second part of the examination. The successful list will consist of those candidates who obtain the highest aggregate marks on the whole examination. If the examination is held in two parts, the second part will be held in fewer centres than the first.

7. It will rest with the Civil Service Commissioners to determine the Departments to which the successful candidates shall be assigned. In making the assignments the Commissioners will be guided by the requirements of the public service. Subject to this condition, the wishes of candidates will, where possible, be respected.

8. Persons who have entered upon or completed a course of education or training for the occupation of teacher, on account of which grants are payable from the Exchequer, will not be qualified to receive appointments until the consent of the Board of Education in England, the Committee of Council on Education for Scotland, or the Commissioners of National Education, Ireland, as the case may be, given in conformity with rules sanctioned by the Lords of the Treasury, has been notified to the Civil Service Commissioners.

9. Application for permission to attend an examination must be made at such times and in such manner as may be fixed by the Civil Service Commissioners.

10. A fee of £2 will be required from every candidate attending an examination.
