GOVERNMENT STOCK (REDEMPTION).

REGULATIONS.

The Treasury, in pursuance of the powers conferred upon them by the Third Schedule to the Finance Act, 1921, and of all other powers enabling them in that behalf, hereby make the following Regulations:—

1.—(1) These Regulations may be cited as the Government Stock (Redemption) Regulations, 1924.

(2) In these Regulations the expression "person of unsound mind" includes a person who through mental infirmity arising from disease or age is incapable of managing his affairs, and the expression "committee" includes a quasi-committee.

(3) The Interpretation Act, 1889, applies for the purpose of the interpretation of these Regulations as it applies for the purpose of the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

2.—(1) Where any principal moneys become payable on the redemption of any Government stock standing in the name of a stockholder who is a person of unsound mind, or an infant, or a person otherwise under disability, the committee, the guardian, or the person having power in law to administer the property of the stockholder may by notice in writing give to the Bank on behalf of the stockholder directions for the reinvestment of those moneys in such Government stock as may be specified in the directions.

(2) Where any directions for reinvestment are given under this Regulation, the Bank shall cause any Government stock purchased in pursuance of the directions to be transferred into the name or names in which the redeemed stock was standing in the books of the Bank at the date of redemption.

3. Any order or decree of any court in Great Britain or Northern Ireland whereby the right to receive any principal moneys which become payable on the redemption of any Government stock standing in the name of any stockholder (whether as sole stockholder or jointly with any other person) who is a person of unsound mind, or an infant, or a person otherwise under disability, is vested in any person as committee or guardian of the stockholder or otherwise, shall be sufficient authority to the Bank to pay the principal moneys to that person in accordance with the order or decree.

4. Nothing in these Regulations shall be taken to prejudice the right of the Bank to require evidence to be given to their satisfaction to prove that any person purporting to give directions under these Regulations is a person having power thereunder to give such directions, or that a person claiming to be paid any moneys under these Regulations is a person to whom the payment may properly be made thereunder, and with respect to matters incidental to such proof.

5.—(1) An official extract of any such appointment as is mentioned in Section 13 of the Judicial Factors (Scotland) Act, 1889, shall, in any case where any Government stock is specified in the extract, or in a certificate under seal by the accountant of court produced together with the extract, as belonging to or forming part of the estate under the charge of the person named in the extract, be deemed for the purpose of these Regulations to be a decree whereby the right to receive the principal moneys becoming payable on the redemption of that stock is vested in the person so named.

(2) In the application of these Regulations to Scotland the expression "infant" includes pupil or minor and the expression "guardian" includes tutor or curator.
