FRIDAY, 2 JANUARY, 1925.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 9th day of October, 1924.

PRESENT,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Lord Colebrooke.

Lord Thomson.

Mr. Secretary Henderson.

Mr. C. P. Trevelyan.

WHEREAS by section 18 of the Extradition Act, 1870, it is among other things enacted that if by any law or ordinance made after the passing of the said Act by the Legislature of any British Possession provision is made for carrying into effect within such Possession the surrender of fugitive criminals who are in, or suspected of being in, such British Possession, His Majesty may, by the Order in Council applying the said Act in the case of any Foreign State, or by any subsequent Order, either—

Suspend the operation within any such British Possession of the said Act or any part thereof, so far as it relates to such Foreign State, and so long as such law or ordinance continues in force there and no longer;

Or direct that such law or ordinance or any part thereof shall have effect in such British Possession, with or without modifications and alterations, as if it were part of the Act:

And whereas by an Act enacted by the Legislature of the Colony of Southern Rhodesia, the short title of which is the Extradition Act, 1924, and the provisions of which are fully set forth in the Schedule appended to this Order, provision has been made for carrying into effect within the Colony the surrender of fugitive criminals who are therein or suspected of being therein:

And whereas it is provided by the said Act that the said Act shall come into operation as soon as an Order of His Majesty in Council directing that the said Act shall have effect within the Colony as if it were part of the Extradition Act, 1870, shall have been duly published in the Government Gazette of the Colony:

Now, therefore, His Majesty, in pursuance of the Extradition Act, 1870, and in exercise of the powers in that behalf in the said Act contained, doth by this present Order, by and with the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, direct as follows:—

The Southern Rhodesia Extradition Act, 1924, shall have effect in the Colony without modification or alteration as if it were part of the Extradition Act, 1870.

M. P. A. Hankey.

SCHEDULE.

Whereas by the Imperial Act known as the Extradition Act, 1870, it is enacted that that Act when applied by Order in Council, unless it is otherwise provided by such Order, shall extend to every British Possession, but with the following, among other, modifications, namely:—

No warrant of a Secretary of State shall be required, and all powers vested in or acts authorised or required to be done under that Act by the Police Magistrate and Secretary of State, or either of them, in relation to the surrender of a fugitive criminal, may be done by the Governor of the British Possession alone:

And whereas by that Imperial Act it is also enacted that if, by any law made before or after the passing of the said Act by the Legislature of any British Possession, provision is made for carrying into effect within that Possession the surrender of fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in that Possession, The King may, by Order in Council, direct that such law or any part thereof shall have effect in that Possession, with or without modifications and alterations, as if it were part of the Imperial Act:

And whereas by other Imperial Acts known as the Extradition Act, 1873, the Extradition Act, 1895, and the Extradition Act, 1906, it is enacted that those Acts shall be construed as one with the Extradition Act, 1870, and that the four Acts may be cited together as the Extradition Acts, 1870 to 1906:

Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislature of the Colony of Southern Rhodesia, as follows:—

1. This Act may be cited as the "Extradition Act, 1924."

2. This Act shall not come into operation until His Majesty shall by Order in Council direct that this Act shall have effect within this Colony as if it were part of the Extradition Act, 1870, but this Act shall thereafter come into operation as soon as such Order in Council shall have been duly published in the Government Gazette of this Colony.

3. In this Act, unless the contrary intention appears, terms defined in the Extradition Acts, 1870 to 1906, have the same meaning as in those Acts.

4. All powers vested in and acts authorised or required to be done by a Secretary of State, under the Extradition Acts, 1870 to 1906, in relation to the surrender of a fugitive criminal, are hereby vested in and may in the Colony be exercised and done by the Governor.

5. All powers vested in and acts authorised or required to be done by a Police Magistrate or any Justice of the Peace under the Extradition Acts, 1870 to 1906, in relation to the surrender of fugitive criminals, are hereby vested in and may in the Colony be exercised and done by any Magistrate or Acting Magistrate.

6. Where the Extradition Act, 1870, applies in the case of any foreign State, a requisition for the surrender of a person accused or convicted of an extradition crime in the Colony who is or is suspected to be in that foreign State may be made by the Attorney General to a consular office of that State in the Colony, or to any Minister of that State through the diplomatic representative of His Majesty in that State, or in such other mode as is settled by arrangement.

7. Any person accused or convicted of an extradition crime who is surrendered by a foreign State, may, under the warrant for his surrender issued in the foreign State, be brought into the Colony and delivered to the proper authorities, to be dealt with according to law.

8. The "Fugitive Criminals Surrender Ordinance, 1905," as amended, is hereby repealed.

[NOTE:—This Order will be published in the Southern Rhodesia Gazette on the 2nd January, 1925.]

Whitehall, 19th December, 1924.

His Majesty The KING has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal in Silver to Vincent Elwick and George Wilson, deputies employed by the South Hetton Coal Company Limited, in the following circumstances:—

On the night of Sunday, 26th October, 1924, two men named McNally and Place were engaged in filling debris into tubs at the Murton Colliery, Durham, when they were suddenly buried by a fall of sandstone and shale to the extent of nearly 200 tons. The roof was supported by iron bars and girders but the weight of the fall broke the bars and bent the girders so that some of these fell and rested on the tubs. Elwick and Wilson had just left off work and were partaking of a meal close by. They heard the fall and being informed that McNally and Place had been buried they at once collected some bandages and proceeded to the spot. They found that owing to the tubs taking the weight of the fall McNally and Place were alive, and in spite of the fact that stones were still falling they commenced tunnelling towards the imprisoned men. They succeeded in making a tunnel 12 feet long through which Elwick managed to make his way passing the stones back as he proceeded, and Wilson followed him. After twenty minutes hard work they managed to reach the buried men and succeeded in extricating Place but only after a struggle as he had become hysterical. They then returned to McNally but found that he was held fast by three of his fingers which were between a bar and the top of a tub. They therefore built up stones to support some of the falling bars and attempted to cut off the top of the tub with a hammer and chisel but their task was made impossible by the confined space. McNally agreed that his fingers must be cut off if he were to be saved, and further efforts to release him having failed, Elwick and Wilson proceeded to apply tourniquets to his arm and endeavoured to amputate the fingers with the only implements at hand—a knife, an axe and a hammer. The operation was found impossible until a fellow workman arrived on the scene with a sharp chisel; this was passed up the tunnel and with it Elwick and Wilson managed to sever the three fingers. McNally was eventually extricated and taken to Sunderland Infirmary.

Elwick and Wilson cannot be praised too highly. They knew only too well the risks they ran as they were well-acquainted with the nature of the ground and there were continual further falls of roof during their two hours work. During the whole of that time the spot where they were working gradually grew smaller and smaller but they never relaxed their efforts and never even suggested abandoning their task. There was a grave risk that their passage back would be closed, and indeed it did fall in shortly after the rescue was completed. Both Elwick and Wilson had been trained in ambulance work and they had the presence of mind to apply tourniquets not only with a view to preventing bleeding but also in order to stop the circulation so as to reduce the pain of the amputation as far as they possibly could. They undoubtedly saved McNally's life, and the story of their bravery and coolness is one of the most remarkable recorded in the history of rescue work.
