An abeyance of the office may at any time be terminated by Grace.

CHAPTER IX.

THE TREASURER.

By adding a new section as follows:

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in these Statutes, whenever a vacancy in the office of Treasurer has occurred, or in the opinion of the Council is about to occur, the Regent House, either before or after the publication of notice of the vacancy but in any case within a period of one hundred days of term from the occurrence of the vacancy, may, upon the recommendation of the Council made at the request of the Financial Board, put the office into abeyance for a period not exceeding one year, which may be extended from time to time but not so as to exceed a total period of two years. An abeyance of the office may at any time be terminated by Grace.

CHAPTER XII.

THE UNIVERSITY TEACHING OFFICERS.

By amending Sections 4 and 5 so as to read as follows:

4. (a) The General Board may dispense a University teaching officer, on account of his illness, from discharging the duties of his office until a date not later than six months after the commencement of his absence from duty, without loss of stipend. The General Board may extend such leave and if it does so shall fix the amount (if any) of the stipend payable to him.

(b) The General Board may dispense a University teaching officer, for sufficient cause other than his illness, from discharging the duties of his office until a date not later than twelve months after the commencement of his absence from duty. No stipend shall be payable to him during such dispensation unless at the time of giving it or at the time or times (if any) of extending it (provided that on no account shall it cover a total period exceeding twelve months) the General Board, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the nature of the sufficient cause and the question whether he is receiving or will receive payment from some source other than the University during his absence from the duties of his office, shall determine that the whole or a part of his stipend shall be payable to him.

(c) If an officer's absence from the duties of his office under either of the preceding clauses of this section or under both of them comprises the greater part of any term, that term shall not be reckoned, for the purposes of the section next ensuing, as a term of service; but otherwise the General Board shall determine whether any term of which a part is comprised in such absence shall be so reckoned or not.

5. Every University teaching officer shall be entitled to be dispensed from discharging the duties of his office during one term for every six terms of service as hereinafter defined: provided always that

(i) he shall obtain the consent of the General Board, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld,

(ii) in estimating the amount of leave of absence due under this section at any time account shall not be taken of any service done by him more than six years before,

(iii) he shall not necessarily receive any stipend in respect of any period of absence under this section, but the General Board may fix the amount (if any) of the stipend payable to him in respect of that period.

For the purposes of this section a term of service shall be any term during which the officer has held a University teaching office except

(a) any term during which the General Board excused him from compliance with any or of all the conditions of his office under the provisions of the Statutes concerning entry upon the duties of University office;

(b) any term during part of which he was dispensed under the preceding section from discharging the duties of his office and which the General Board have not allowed to be reckoned as a term of service;

(c) any term during which he has been dispensed under this section from discharging the duties of his office.

Given under our Common Seal this twenty-eighth day of June, 1935.
