*Air Ministry,

ROYAL AIR FORCE.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve the undermentioned awards in recognition of gallantry displayed in flying operations against the enemy:—

Awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Acting Flight-Lieutenant Hugh Lomas SMEDDLE (37695).

In May, 1940, this officer was leading a formation of three aircraft on a bombing operation against Ypenburg aerodrome. When about two miles from the objective, a large number of Messerschmitt 110's attacked the formation and two of the three aircraft were forced to retire. Flight-Lieutenant Smeddle continued towards his target alone until a cannon shell burst in his cockpit, wounding him and his observer; a second shell exploding at the rear of the aircraft, wounded his air gunner and wrecked the wireless apparatus. In spite of severe wounds and the loss of his compass and wireless, Flight-Lieutenant Smeddle succeeded in throwing off the enemy attack and bringing his aircraft safely home to its base. By his great courage and determination he saved his aircraft and the lives of his crew.

Flying Officer Thomas Norman HAYES (90095).

This officer was pilot of one of six aircraft which attacked Rotterdam aerodrome in May, 1940. In company with his commanding officer he destroyed a Junkers 52 on the aerodrome by machine-gun fire. Whilst climbing, after the dive, the formation was attacked by twelve Messerschmitt 110's. Flying Officer Hayes was unable to see the enemy aircraft himself, but he skilfully manoeuvred his aircraft on instructions from the air gunner. After a short while he sighted a Junkers 52 and although hard pressed by superior numbers of other enemy aircraft and with his own aircraft damaged, Flying Officer Hayes attacked the Junkers 52 with tenacity and determination until it was seen to go down with its port engine on fire. Breaking off the engagement and skilfully evading his opponents he made for home but shortly encountered three Heinkel 111's. He courageously attacked with his remaining ammunition and succeeded in breaking up their formation before arriving safely at his base.

Awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.

800513 Corporal George Henry HOLMES.

This airman was air gunner in one of six aircraft which attacked Rotterdam aerodrome in May, 1940. After the attack, the formation was engaged from astern by twelve Messerschmitt 110's. Corporal Holmes displayed coolness and initiative in advising his pilot how best to manœuvre his aircraft to evade the enemy. Even when handicapped by petrol fumes from a tank burst by enemy action, he continued to give accurate information. His gallant conduct under intense fire was largely responsible for the pilot being able to take evasive action and to bring the aircraft safely home.
