CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.

St. James's Palace, 28th June, 1940.

The KING has been graciously pleased to give orders for the following appointment to the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire:—

To be an Additional Member of the Civil Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire.

Miss Bertha Herring.

For services at Caxton Hall on the occasion of the shooting of Sir Michael O'Dwyer, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I.

The KING has also been graciously pleased to approve the following Awards:—

The Medal of the Civil Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, for Gallantry.

Gerald Winter, Agricultural Labourer, East Sussex Agricultural Committee.

One morning in March last, an aircraft of the Royal Air Force crossed the English coast East of Shoreham, disappeared into cloud over the hills North of Brighton and, still in cloud, crashed on a hill-top known as Jeffries Point, Portslade. The crash was witnessed by three men who were working in a field a few yards from where the aircraft first touched the ground. Winter was one of these men. It caught fire on impact and travelled for a distance of 300 yards coming to rest in a gorse bush on the side of the hill. The grass and gorse caught fire from the point where it first struck the ground to the point where it finally came to rest. Winter immediately ran to the scene, and was informed by Corporal Lapwood, one of the crew who had managed to extricate himself from the wreckage, that there were still men inside. Winter immediately extricated A.C.1 Oultram. He then climbed into the gun turret in an endeavour to locate the remainder of the crew. He saw two figures at the front of the machine beyond his reach. Climbing from the turret he tried with great gallantry to approach the nose of the aircraft but was unable to do so owing to the explosion of the ammunition and the intense heat of the flames. Moreover, the gorse plantation in the middle of which the aircraft had come to rest was also on fire.

Pir Khan, Jemadar Badragga (Escort) to the Commander, Royal Engineers, Waziristan District, North-West Frontier Province.

On February 3rd, 1940, a party consisting of Officers of the Royal Engineers and of the Military Engineering Service, while motoring up the Tochi Road, some three miles from Bannu, was ambushed by thirty hostiles. After the first volley, Colonel Hasted, Major Cator and Pir Khan managed to obtain cover behind a low irrigation culvert wall on the side of the road. Pir Khan took up a firing position round the edge of the wall and immediately opened fire on the hostiles who were round the mill buildings, less than forty yards away, thereby forcing most of them to take cover in the buildings. He continued to fire and frustrate any attempt to outflank the Officers along the road in spite of a hail of bullets being poured in his direction. When the hostiles finally started to withdraw, Pir Khan had only three rounds of his original 50 left. During the hostile withdrawal he helped to give assistance under fire to the wounded and dying. His loyal, gallant and cool conduct undoubtedly saved the lives of both Colonel Hasted and Major Cator. It also prevented the hostiles from looting the cars and mutilating the bodies of the dead and wounded which were lying in the road.

The Medal of the Civil Division of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, for Meritorious Service.

Francis Downey, Doorkeeper, Head Post Office, Liverpool.

James Holmes Westwell, Sorting Clerk and Telegraphist, Head Post Office, Liverpool.

For presence of mind, coolness and courage in dealing with a bomb, with burning fuze, deposited in the public office on the 6th February.

Richard Powell, Seaman Cable Hand, H.M.T.S. "Monarch", General Post Office.

While on detached duty at a British Naval Base on 6th October, 1939, the party, of which Powell was acting Leading Hand, when engaged on urgent cable repairs was exposed to considerable danger from aerial attack on the vessels at the Base. Although bombs and shell splinters fell in the vicinity of the craft on which he was working, he showed great coolness and courage and set an excellent example to the other members of the party. The repairs were satisfactorily completed.

Hugh Burns, Hillman, Royal Ordnance Factory.

Burns was in charge of No. 1 Washing-House in this Factory in the vicinity of London on the occasion of an explosion. The Washing-House in which there was a half-ton of purified nitroglycerine awaiting transfer, and an additional half-ton awaiting purification, was only 55 yards from the scene of the explosion and suffered extensive damage. The whole of the roof collapsed and Burns was injured. He extricated himself from the debris, and stood by until the Assistant Foreman arrived, when he carried out the purification of the nitroglycerine and thus rendered it safe. After his injuries were treated, he proceeded to No. 2 Washing-House, which was also damaged, and carried on with the purification of nitroglycerine in that House.

Edward Sollis, and William Thomas John West, Hillmen, Royal Ordnance Factory.

On the occasion of a recent explosion in a Factory in the vicinity of London these men were engaged in the nitration of glycerine. At the time there was a ton of nitroglycerine mixed with acid in the nitrator. The building was damaged by the explosion, but both men remained on duty until the nitroglycerine had been disposed of safely.

Yussef Hanna, Iraqi Cook, H.M. Consulate, Mosul.

For meritorious service on the occasion of the murder of H.M. Consul at Mosul on April 4th, 1939. Yussef Hanna was the first person to raise the alarm when the rioters approached the Consulate. With considerable presence of mind he shouted to the night watchman to shut the Consulate gate. This the watchman was unfortunately unable to do in time and Yussef Hanna then ran to warn the Consul. The Consul refused to hide on the roof, saying that these were boys and that he would talk to them and persuade them to go away. He went into one of the rooms followed by Yussef Hanna who stayed with him and held the door while he was inside. When they both came out, he too was dragged downstairs by the rioters, and threatened with daggers, but he managed to throw himself over the banisters and to escape by the back door.

Hilda Sarah, Mrs. Constable, Non-Official Postmistress, Meadows, State of South Australia.

For services in connection with the Bush Fires of January, 1939.

Many business houses at Meadows, South Australia, were destroyed by fire on the 13th January. Mrs. Constable remained at her post answering the numerous telephone calls until the flames were licking the walls of the Post Office building. She displayed remarkable presence of mind and carried out her duties without panic and was of great assistance in maintaining the communications until the last possible moment. Mrs. Constable continued her work at great personal risk until the firefighters insisted upon her vacating the office and being removed to a place of safety.

William Francis Charles Newland, Sergeant 3rd Class, Police Force, State of New South Wales.

For services in connection with the Bush Fires of January, 1939.

Sergeant Newland, upon receiving word of the position at Yalwal which was wiped out by fire, communicated with a bus proprietor and directed him to start out with a bus capable of carrying 15 to 20 people. The Sergeant set out with the Coroner and two members of the Ambulance Brigade, travelling by motor car. At a point six or seven miles from Yalwal they encountered a wall of fire in thick bush country. Attempts were made to walk around the fire by way of gullies, but without success. The Sergeant then returned to the motor vehicles and was driven back some three miles to a house where he obtained towels and water. On returning to the fire he asked for volunteers to go through and five men agreed to accompany the Sergeant in the ambulance and a lorry into the fire. The party covered their faces with towels soaked in water. They reached Yalwal about 3.15 p.m. One man was found burned to death, nine people were sheltering in the creek and many were in an exhausted condition and had to receive treatment. After having the body of the dead man buried, the Sergeant arranged for the destitute and people suffering from the effects of the fire to be brought to Nowra by bus and ambulance. The Sergeant arrived back at Nowra at 9.30 p.m. His action saved residents of Yalwal from a very desperate situation.

Gladys Elizabeth, Mrs. Sanderson, Assistant to the Non-Official Postmaster, Post Office, Noojee, State of Victoria.

For services in connection with the Bush Fires in January 1939.

Mrs. Sanderson was on duty at Noojee, Victoria, when the town was destroyed by fire on the 13th January. During the previous week, when the fires were threatening, Mrs. Sanderson worked hard to maintain communications. On the day that the town was destroyed, she displayed remarkable courage and resource. Although the flames were nearing the office, Mrs. Sanderson remained on duty and in touch with the Postmaster, Warragul, until the building in which the office was conducted was about to catch fire. She carefully placed the departmental valuables in the safe and before leaving the office, called the Postmaster, Warragul, and informed him that she was forced to abandon the office and was rushing to the river in an endeavour to save her life. Mrs. Sanderson intimated that if she did not escape, the official keys would be found attached to her wrist.

Lala Hem Raj, Lorry Driver, Bahadur Khel, Kohat District, North-West Frontier Province.

On the evening of 26th April, 1939, Hem Raj was driving his lorry loaded with bags of maize and carrying 11 passengers along the Kohat road in the direction of Bannu. Near a milestone he saw that the road had been blocked with stones to a height of about two feet. Simultaneously, two persons in khaki clothes with muffled faces opened fire at his lorry with shot-guns from behind some adjacent rocks, while six other raiders, who had taken up other positions nearby, also opened fire on the vehicle. Hem Raj was wounded in his left arm by a bullet, and also received pellet injuries in his right leg; four of the passengers were also wounded. Hem Raj immediately summed up the situation and decided to charge the road block, which he did to such good advantage that he broke through it and drove his lorry and his passengers through to safety, although his engine failed after driving about two miles. It was entirely due to his presence of mind and his decision to run the gauntlet that the lorry, together with the passengers, was brought to safety, in spite of his being wounded in the left arm and right leg.

William Leslie,
Elkanah Williams,
Ronald Seivewright,
Jamaica.

On Wednesday, 8th November, 1939, at about 7 a.m. a party of men were fishing on a rock about 1½ miles from Dry Harbour, Jamaica. It was the hurricane period and a heavy sea was running, with the tides dashing over the rock. A great wave swept the rock and one man, Johnson, was thrown into the sea. Although a good swimmer, it was impossible to swim to the shore at that point and Johnson was only able to just keep afloat while being drawn further out to sea. He supported himself by holding on to a piece of log which had been thrown to him. When nearly exhausted, a small bamboo raft with an inflated inner tube attached, which had been hastily prepared and thrown into the sea, drifted near enough to enable him to grasp it and he thus kept himself afloat. Johnson was now about 100 yards from the shore. Leslie, Williams and Seivewright then took off in a canoe from Dry Harbour to rescue him. Leslie acted as coxswain, and Williams and Seivewright rowed. They pulled to outside the harbour and then for over a mile along the coast in the raging sea. They eventually reached Johnson, and Leslie pulled him into the canoe. After two hours they at last landed Johnson safely on the beach at Dry Harbour. It was exceptionally dangerous for a canoe to put to sea in the conditions prevailing.

His Majesty The KING has been graciously pleased to award the Edward Medal in Silver to Gwyn Morgan, and the Edward Medal to Matthew Thompson and Charles Smith in recognition of their gallantry in the following circumstances:—

At 10 a.m. on the 3rd January, 1940, a fall of roof occurred at a coal face in Warren House Seam at Askern Main Colliery, Yorkshire, and a miner named Charles Liversidge was buried by the fall. He was extricated some three hours later, without having suffered serious injury, through the gallantry displayed, in conditions of the greatest risk, by a rescue party.

Morgan, the Agent of the Colliery, arrived a few minutes after the accident and took charge of the operations. With great difficulty a way was cleared under the fall, and it was found that Liversidge was completely buried, except for his head and shoulders, and that his arms were pinned by fallen rocks and by a steel bar. Morgan succeeded in removing a stone which was pinning one of his arms. Later, when one of the other men had failed, he succeeded in getting through to Liversidge and after thirty minutes' work in the most cramped position was able to free him and to pass him through to the other rescuers. Throughout he displayed outstanding courage, resource, and leadership.

Smith and Thompson were both close at hand when the fall occurred and at once commenced rescue operations. They took a prominent part in the dangerous work of clearing a way under the fall, and both were able to remove some of the debris which had pinned Liversidge down. Thompson attempted to get through to effect the final release of Liversidge, but was driven back by a further fall.

The whole work of rescue was carried on in the most difficult and dangerous conditions, and slight falls occurred frequently. A further heavy fall occurred later in the day which completely closed the passage through which the rescue had been made.

VII. It is ordained that on a recommendation to that effect by or through one of Our said Secretaries of State it shall be competent for Us, Our Heirs and Successors to direct the cancellation and annulment of the award to any person of the Medal or Bars, and thereupon the name of such person shall be erased from the record of those to whom the Medal shall have been awarded, and every person whose Medal shall be so forfeited shall on being required so to do by either of Our said Secretaries of State deliver up his Medal to such person as either of Our said Secretaries of State may direct. Provided that it shall be competent for Us, Our Heirs and Successors to direct the restoration of any Medal or Bars

ROYAL AIR FORCE.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve the undermentioned appointment and awards in recognition of gallantry displayed in flying operations against the enemy:—

Appointed a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order.

Flight Lieutenant Ian Scovil SODEN (33289) (reported missing).

This officer's flight was ordered to France at short notice, and during the following two days he acted as leader in many combats against the enemy. He personally shot down five enemy aircraft, and possibly two more, whilst his flight destroyed a further seven. On one occasion he attacked, single handed, between fifty and sixty enemy fighters, destroying one of them. One evening in May, 1940, whilst the aerodrome was being heavily bombed, Flight Lieutenant Soden jumped from a shelter trench, climbed into the nearest fighter aircraft and, without knowing whether it was fully fuelled or armed, took off from the aerodrome which was covered in smoke. Many delayed action bombs were present. He thus left comparative safety to make a lone attack on a greatly superior force. This officer has displayed great personal dash and courage, and his personal influence has made his flight into a determined fighting unit.

Awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Acting Flight Lieutenant James William Elias DAVIES (37796).

This officer has shown ability as leader of his squadron on many offensive patrols. On one occasion while attacking a Messerschmitt 109, he was himself attacked by six Heinkel 113's. He at once turned on the Heinkels destroying one and badly damaging a second before being compelled to break off the engagement owing to shortage of ammunition. The following day while leading a section of his squadron he sighted and attacked a large formation of Heinkel 111's and shot one down in flames.

Pilot Officer Ian James MUIRHEAD (43362).

This officer has shot down five enemy aircraft and has shown outstanding skill, coolness and daring in carrying out eight patrols in five days over N.W. France and Belgium. During the last patrol he was forced to escape by parachute and after surmounting many difficulties succeeded in reaching his unit.

Awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.

580256 Sergeant Alfred WHITBY.

This airman has exhibited great courage and determination as a fighter pilot. During only a few days in France he destroyed five enemy aircraft and since his return to England has destroyed another. He has given valuable assistance as a navigator.

532666 Leading Aircraftman Robert William MCCARTHY.

This airman, as wireless operator air gunner, displayed exceptional gallantry and devotion to duty when badly wounded in the legs and stomach during a bombing raid on enemy columns between Echternach and Luxemburg. He continued to operate his wireless apparatus until he landed, when he showed the greatest fortitude while being extricated from the rear of the aircraft.
