

Awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.

754197, Sergeant Harry Jenson Morson. Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, No. 115 Squadron.

644695, Sergeant Desmond Hubert Howard Cleverley, No. 115 Squadron.

In November, 1940, Sergeant Morson was the captain and Sergeant Cleverley the wireless operator of an aircraft which successfully attacked a target in the vicinity of Berlin. On the return journey, intense anti-aircraft fire was encountered over Hamburg which caused damage to the aircraft and set the starboard engine on fire. In spite of this, Sergeant Morson set a direct course for base, which necessitated flying across the Heligoland Bight and, although many difficulties were overcome, he was unable to maintain height and was finally forced down into the sea. With great skill and devotion to duty Sergeant Cleverley maintained full wireless communication, keeping his base constantly informed of the position. He was undoubtedly responsible for the successful rescue action, which was subsequently taken. Sergeant Morson has completed 13 and Sergeant Cleverley 23 successful operational flights and both have displayed great skill, courage and determination.

580149, Sergeant George Arthur Steward. No. 17 Squadron.

This airman has been continuously engaged in operations since May, 1940. He has shown excellent ability as a section leader over a long period of intensive air operations both in France and in England. Sergeant Steward has destroyed at least four enemy aircraft and shared in the destruction of others. He has displayed great tenacity throughout.
