CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.

St. James's Palace, S.W.1, 26th February, 1943.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the George Medal to the under-mentioned:—

Pilot Officer Arthur Gerald Graham RICHMOND (Aus.404037), Royal Australian Air Force.

Pilot Officer Richmond was a member of the crew of a Sunderland aircraft which crashed into the sea in September, 1942. He observed another member of the crew (the wireless operator air gunner) who was surrounded by a pool of burning petrol and unable to swim owing to a broken leg. Although suffering from lacerations of the scalp, right arm, left leg and left knee, Pilot Officer Richmond dived under the flames, pulled his comrade to safety and eventually succeeded in getting him on to a semi-inflated dinghy. He then supervised the rescue of 3 more of his companions and it was not until it became certain that no other survivors were in the vicinity that he abandoned the search and boarded a rescue boat. Pilot Officer Richmond displayed a very high standard of courage and devotion to duty and undoubtedly saved the wireless operator's life.

1316260 Sergeant Donald Benjamin GODFREY, Royal Air Force.

One night in December, 1942, Sergeant Godfrey was the rear gunner of a Wellington aircraft which crashed into some trees during a rain storm and bad visibility. The aircraft burst into flames instantly. After Sergeant Godfrey had extricated himself from his turret and fought his way clear of the wreckage, he observed the wireless operator, who was severely injured, lying near the fire. He dragged him clear of the burning wreckage and, having also assisted the pupil pilot to safety, Sergeant Godfrey realised that the pilot instructor was trapped in the blazing cockpit. He immediately dashed back into the fire in an endeavour to extricate the instructor. A petrol tank exploded and heavy pieces of the wreckage were hurled into the air but this did not deter Sergeant Godfrey and, in spite of the heat and flames, he hacked and pulled at the wreckage until finally he succeeded in releasing the instructor. He was pulling him clear when assistance arrived. Sergeant Godfrey sustained severe burns causing temporary blindness. He displayed courage and devotion to duty in keeping with the highest traditions of the Royal Air Force.

549179 Leading Aircraftman Edward James DRURY, Royal Air Force.

One night in December, 1942, a force of Wellington aircraft had been re-fuelled and loaded with bombs for a second operation when the airfield was attacked by enemy aircraft. Several of our bombers, some carrying 4,000 lb. bombs, were hit and set on fire. Despite bombs bursting around him, Leading Aircraftman Drury started the engines of a Wellington and taxied it to safety, passing between 2 other aircraft which were enveloped in flames. He then returned and taxied to safety a second aircraft, one wing of which was on fire. Both aircraft were loaded with bombs. Leading Aircraftman Drury displayed supreme courage and a complete disregard for his own safety. By his exemplary conduct in the face of the gravest danger he saved 2 valuable aircraft from certain destruction.

CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.

St. James's Palace, S.W.1, 26th February, 1943.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve the award of the British Empire Medal (Military Division) to the undermentioned:—

1315955 Sergeant Richard Anthony SYMES, Royal Air Force.

Can/R.74646 Sergeant Arthur William NICHOLS, Royal Canadian Air Force.

One night in November, 1942, Sergeants Symes and Nichols were the pilot and engineer respectively of an aircraft engaged on anti-submarine patrol duties. On the return journey engine trouble developed and Sergeant Symes was compelled to make an emergency landing. In so doing the aircraft struck a hut and burst into flames. All the crew, with the exception of the wireless operator, who was trapped by the legs, managed to extricate themselves. Knowing that the petrol tanks might explode at any moment, Sergeants Symes and Nichols re-entered the blazing aircraft and succeeded in extricating the wireless operator; a few seconds later the petrol tanks exploded. The courage and devotion to duty displayed by these sergeants undoubtedly saved their comrade's life.

Air Ministry, 26th February, 1943.

ROYAL AIR FORCE.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve the following awards in recognition of gallantry displayed in flying operations against the enemy:—

Distinguished Flying Cross.

Squadron Leader Arthur Percival CRAIGIE (76476), Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, No. 148 Squadron.

This officer completed numerous sorties in the Western Desert. In several determined attacks on Tobruk, he achieved much success despite heavy opposition from the ground defences. On one occasion, after setting course for base, he returned to the target area and dived to 3000 feet to release a large bomb, which had not released in his first attack, on a heavy gun position. Squadron Leader Craigie has attacked many enemy concentrations. On one occasion he descended to 700 feet to rake a column of tanks and vehicles with machine gun fire. A large fire was started and much confusion ensued. On another occasion he disorganised a convoy of motor transport by his bombing. Squadron Leader Craigie has invariably displayed skill and courage of a high order. His untiring efforts and inspiring example have been reflected in the fine fighting qualities of his squadron.

Acting Flight Lieutenant John Russell COLLINS (124617), Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, No. 3 Squadron.

This officer has completed a large number of operational missions, including many sorties on which he has achieved considerable successes. On two occasions he has attacked and damaged an enemy aircraft whilst flying over enemy airfields. On other occasions he has inflicted damage on three barges and four locomotives. Flight Lieutenant Collins is a fearless and skilful pilot.

Flying Officer John Robert BALDWIN (122337), Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, No. 609 Squadron.

This officer has participated in numerous sorties, invariably displaying great courage and operational efficiency. This was amply demonstrated during a sortie one day in January, 1943, when he attacked a formation of three enemy aircraft. In his first attack, Flying Officer Baldwin shot down the leading aircraft of the hostile formation. Following this success he destroyed another of the formation before his own aircraft was hit in one of the wings. When the third enemy fighter attempted to attack from the rear, Flying Officer Baldwin out-maneuvred the attacker and shot it down. On another occasion, during a sortie over Belgium, he damaged four locomotives.

Distinguished Flying Medal.

Aus. 404360 Flight Sergeant Billy McFADDEN, Royal Australian Air Force, No. 69 Squadron.

Flight Sergeant McFadden has taken part in many sorties over the Mediterranean Sea. He is highly efficient, while his determination to achieve success has been outstanding. One night in November, 1942, he successfully attacked an enemy merchant ship in the face of heavy opposing fire from its escorting destroyer. Flight Sergeant McFadden has played a good part in attacks on the enemy's supply line between Italy and North Africa.

Can./R.78542 Flight Sergeant Robert Leslie SPENCE, Royal Canadian Air Force, No. 40 Squadron.

This airman has completed numerous operational missions, 12 of them as captain of aircraft. In October, 1942, during an attack on Tobruk, his aircraft was badly damaged by anti-aircraft fire and he and his crew were forced to abandon it near El Aden. Flight Sergeant Spence, with two of his comrades, set out on the long trek to our lines at El Alamein. One of the party was compelled to drop behind but, for 28 days Flight Sergeant Spence and his companion continued the journey. They successfully evaded enemy columns and camps and were eventually saved by a British patrol. Since reaching safety, Flight Sergeant Spence has participated in four attacks on targets at Tunis and Sousse. This airman has displayed great courage, fortitude and devotion to duty.

933225 Sergeant Donald Gleeson CLARKE, No. 14 Squadron.

As wireless operator/air gunner, Sergeant Clarke has performed much highly meritorious work. He has often acted as fire controller in the leading aircraft of bomber formations, and has shown great ability. During an intruder sortie over Crete in June, 1942, his skilful use of his wireless apparatus contributed materially to the great success of the operation. On another occasion, in November, 1942, the aircraft in which he was flying was damaged by enemy action and a fire broke out near the rear tanks. Sergeant Clarke immediately attempted to quell the flames with an extinguisher. When it was exhausted he finally beat out the fire with his bare hands. This airman's fine record is worthy of high praise.

Aus. 407319 Sergeant Leonard Alexander EINSAAR, Royal Australian Air Force, No. 14 Squadron.

Sergeant Einsaar is a skilful and determined pilot who has completed many sorties. In November, 1942, during a reconnaissance over the sea, he saw two enemy convoys, and reported their positions accurately. Some days later, he executed a low level attack on some barges in Benghazi harbour, setting two of them on fire. He skilfully accomplished the return flight of 700 miles to base, being the first member of his squadron to achieve this in the type of aircraft he was flying. During a sortie in December, 1942, his aircraft was severely damaged when attacked by enemy fighters. When his aircraft could no longer be flown, whilst over the sea, 50 miles out from Benghazi, Sergeant Einsaar skilfully came down on the water. The aircraft caught fire but he managed to get clear of the blazing wreckage and some 3½ hours later was picked up by a naval launch. This airman has invariably displayed courage and fortitude of a high order.

Can./R.86106 Sergeant Stanley John KERMACHAN, Royal Canadian Air Force, No. 252 Squadron.

Sergeant Kermachan is a first class pilot with a fine operational record. He has participated in very many sorties, involving attacks on shipping and transport in the battle area, and inflicted much loss and damage. In addition he has destroyed four enemy aircraft. On one occasion, during an engagement in which he shot down a Junkers 87, his own aircraft was badly damaged but he flew it safely to base. This airman has displayed courage and determination of a high order.

Air Ministry, 26th February, 1943.
