CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.

St. James's Palace, S.W.1.
13th July, 1943.

The KING has been graciously pleased to give orders for the following appointment to the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire:—

To be an Additional Member of the Military Division of the said Most Excellent Order:—

Pilot Officer Robert Evans Young (Can/C.15749),
Royal Canadian Air Force.

On three occasions this officer, who is employed on armament duties, has displayed outstanding gallantry and coolness in the face of imminent danger. In February, 1943, he supervised the demolition of a 500lb. bomb which had been dropped by accident on the airfield and, a few days later, he rendered harmless two mines when the aircraft carrying them crashed while taking off. In similar circumstances on another occasion Pilot Officer Young dismantled a 4000lb. bomb within 5 minutes of the crash. This officer has set a splendid example and has shown little regard for his personal safety.

CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.

St. James's Palace, S.W.1.
13th July, 1943.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve the award of the George Medal to the under-mentioned:—

Group Captain Strang Graham, M.C., Royal Air Force.

In March, 1943, a Wellington aircraft overshot when landing and crashed into another aircraft. The impact carried both aircraft against a hangar, where they burst into flames. Group Captain Graham was on the scene immediately. Disregarding the danger from exploding ammunition, petrol tanks and oxygen bottles, and although he was aware that 1 of the aircraft carried a 250lb. bomb, he led the rescue party in extricating 3 members of the crew from the blazing aircraft. Group Captain Graham then led the fire fighting party in an endeavour to save the burning hangar. He was attacking the fire, which had spread to the offices of the hangar, when the bomb on the aircraft, less than 8 feet away, exploded. With his face badly cut by splintered glass and flying debris, and bleeding profusely, he was persuaded to go to the station sick quarters, where he made light of his injuries and inspired others who had been injured by the explosion. After receiving first aid treatment, he returned to the scene of the accident and directed operations until the fire had been subdued.

Flying Officer Geoffrey Alan Osborn (106230), Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve.

This officer has on two occasions displayed great gallantry in rescuing members of his crew from burning aircraft. When serving as an instructor at an Operational Training Unit, he was engaged in testing a Whitley, which crashed and burst into flames. Flying Officer Osborn, who was thrown clear and was uninjured, immediately re-entered the aircraft and dragged clear the observer, who was badly injured. In effecting this rescue, Flying Officer Osborn suffered severe burns about the hands and was in hospital for six weeks. In March, 1943, Flying Officer Osborn was captain and pilot of an aircraft which crashed shortly after taking off on an operational flight. The aircraft was soon enveloped in flames and ammunition and very lights were exploding. Flying Officer Osborn was dazed but succeeded in extricating 4 injured members of the crew from the wreckage. In so doing he was badly burnt about the hands, arms and face. Though in a state bordering on collapse, he did all he could to ensure that every member of his crew had been extricated before he was finally persuaded to receive attention.

Can.R.75862 Flight Sergeant Delbert Cecil Moore,
Royal Canadian Air Force.

N.Z.412914 Sergeant Hamish Wilson, Royal New Zealand Air Force.

One evening in March, 1943, Flight Sergeant Moore and Sergeant Wilson were captain and rear gunner, respectively, of an aircraft which crashed into a house soon after taking off, burst into flames and was completely wrecked. Most of the crew, although badly burned or injured, managed to escape through holes torn in the fuselage. Flight Sergeant Moore emerged from the pilot's escape hatch, went to the rear of the aircraft, and re-entered the wreckage, which was now a raging inferno with bullets exploding; high explosive bombs were also carried. He found the mid-upper gunner trapped and unconscious against the main spar, with his feet resting on the roof and his head on the floor. Calling for help, Flight Sergeant Moore was immediately joined by Sergeant Wilson, who was badly cut about the head, and together they entered the blazing bomber and succeeded in extricating their unconscious comrade, Sergeant Wilson sustaining burns about his face and body in the process. Although almost completely exhausted, the two airmen carried the mid-upper gunner across a wire fence and over a deep ditch to a small enclosure sufficiently far from the aircraft to be comparatively safe. Sergeant Wilson then set out across the ploughed fields in search of help while Flight Sergeant Moore, who was suffering intensely from burns, remained to encourage and sustain his injured crew.

Can./R.139022 Sergeant Clinton Landin Pudney, Royal Canadian Air Force.

While engaged on a local practice flight, the Halifax aircraft in which Sergeant Pudney was flying as mid-upper gunner struck high ground, crashed and burst into flames. Three members of the crew were killed and the others, with the exception of Sergeant Pudney, were too severely injured to extricate themselves from the burning wreckage. Though suffering from severe lacerations on his face, and in spite of loss of blood and shock, Sergeant Pudney entered the blazing aircraft several times and finally succeeded in bringing all his companions out. He then struggled over rough moorland for 2 miles to obtain help.

507533 Corporal Thomas William Chellev.

One morning in January, 1943, an aircraft crashed on taking off and caught fire. Corporal Chellev, the N.C.O. in charge of the fire tender, was quickly on the scene of the accident, but it was impossible to bring the tender to within 200 yards of the crash owing to the difficult terrain. With complete disregard for his own safety, Corporal Chellev entered the wreckage and extricated an injured airman. He succeeded in extricating 2 more bodies from the wreckage. Although the aircraft was burning fiercely and small arms ammunition was exploding, while two 250lb. unexploded bombs remained on the aircraft, Corporal Chellev continued to search for the fourth member of the crew. He finally located the body pinned beneath the propeller. With assistance he removed the engine and the propeller and then dragged the body clear. Corporal Chellev displayed high courage, with no thought for his own safety.

St. James's Palace, S.W.1.

13th July, 1943.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve the award of the British Empire Medal (Military Division) to:—

921207 Sergeant (now Pilot Officer) Henry Charles Sharpe, Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve.

In October, 1942, Sergeant Sharpe was wireless operator of a Whitley aircraft which, owing to engine trouble, was forced to alight on the sea approximately 300 miles west of Lands End. Owing to the accurate bearing sent out by him the crew were quickly rescued. The captain and other members of the crew were shaken and dazed as a result of the forced descent, but this airman promptly launched and equipped the dinghy, later diving overboard and assisting 2 injured comrades into it. Sergeant Sharpe showed courage and resource and, on his own initiative, took charge of the crew until the captain recovered sufficiently to assume command.

Air Ministry, 13th July, 1943.

ROYAL AIR FORCE.

The KING has been graciously pleased to approve the following awards in recognition of gallantry displayed in flying operations against the enemy:—

Distinguished Flying Cross.

Pilot Officer John McIntosh (145837), Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, No. 207 Squadron.

This officer who has completed many sorties has invariably displayed outstanding determination and devotion to duty. This was amply demonstrated one night in June, 1943, when he captained an aircraft detailed to attack a target at Friedriehafen. Shortly after taking off, one of the engines of his aircraft failed. Despite this, he continued to the target which he successfully bombed and then flew on to North Africa according to plan. Pilot Officer McIntosh has always endeavoured to press home his attacks regardless of the opposition. He has set an inspiring example.

Bar to Distinguished Flying Medal.

755612 Flight Sergeant Kenneth GREENE, D.F.M., Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve, No. 9 Squadron.

One night in June, 1943, this wireless operator/air gunner displayed great initiative in dealing with an ignited incendiary bomb, while his aircraft was flying over the target area. Flight Sergeant Greene's prompt action averted a serious catastrophe and contributed materially to the safe return of his aircraft.

Distinguished Flying Medal.

Aus.412923 Flight Sergeant Francis William DIXON, Royal Australian Air Force, No. 467 (R.A.A.F.) Squadron.

1206170 Sergeant Abraham ROSEN, No. 467 (R.A.A.F.) Squadron.

These airmen were captain and flight engineer respectively of an aircraft detailed to attack Mulheim one night in June, 1943. When nearing the target area the bomber was hit by anti-aircraft fire while illuminated by searchlights. The fuselage, mainplanes and one engine were damaged. The windscreens on one side of the pilot's cabin was shattered and Sergeant Rosen was injured in the eye and in the face. Nevertheless, Flight Sergeant Dixon evaded the defences and successfully bombed the target, afterwards flying the damaged aircraft back to base. This airman displayed exceptional skill and great courage, setting an inspiring example. During the action, Sergeant Rosen, in spite of his painful injuries, executed his duties coolly and efficiently and refused to leave his post for attention until the bomber was clear of the enemy coast.

1318221 Sergeant Douglas Charles CAMERON, No. 158 Squadron.

1320144 Sergeant Alan Kenneth YOUNG, No. 158 Squadron.

Aus.413068 Sergeant George Burns YOUNG, Royal Australian Air Force, No. 158 Squadron.

One night in June, 1943, these airmen were captain, mid-upper and rear gunners respectively of an aircraft which attacked Mulheim. Shortly after bombing the target, the aircraft was illuminated by searchlights and subjected to heavy anti-aircraft fire. The bomber was repeatedly hit and sustained damage. Sergeant Young, the rear gunner, received facial injuries and, temporarily lost consciousness. He was given first aid by the mid-upper gunner and, on recovery, he coolly beat out the flames from some burning equipment with his gloves. Meanwhile, Sergeant Cameron skilfully evaded the defences and, displaying great determination, flew the damaged bomber to an airfield in this country. On this, their first operational flight, these airmen displayed courage and resource of a high order.

Can./R.62201 Sergeant George FALLOON, Royal Canadian Air Force, No. 158 Squadron.

One night in June, 1943, this airman was the flight engineer of an aircraft detailed to attack a target at Le Cruesot. During the operation, the aircraft was hit by anti-aircraft fire and fragments of shrapnel severed the petrol cock control cables and an oil pipe line which caused a considerable quantity of oil to flow into the fuselage. Sergeant Falloon was unable to operate the petrol cocks, or ascertain the source of the oil leak, without entering the wing. By means of an axe he made an aperture in the side of the fuselage and thus was able to crawl into the wing and fulfil his task. By his initiative and determination this airman contributed materially to the safe return of the aircraft.

Aus.403527 Sergeant Bernard MOON, Royal Australian Air Force, No. 37 Squadron.

As observer, this airman has participated in numerous sorties, including operations against targets in Sicily, Tripolitania, Pantellaria and Tunisia. On several occasions, in extremely adverse weather, his skilful navigation has contributed materially to the safe return of his aircraft. Sergeant Moon is an excellent bomb aimer and consistently obtains photographs which indicate his painstaking efforts. This airman has displayed great keenness and devotion to duty and has won the confidence of all with whom he has flown.
