(2) In considering such adjustments, to take into account all relevant considerations and, while aiming at an equitable distribution of charges between the various classes or groups of classes of traffic, to have regard to the Government's policy of full employment and to the importance of maintaining adequate coastwise shipping services.

(3) To hold a public inquiry and to hear thereat the representations of the Railway Companies, and of any Local Authority or Body representing the interests of passengers or traders or other forms of transport which may give notice of desire to be heard in such manner and within such time as the Committee may prescribe.
