Plymouth, June 29.

This day arrived here a Fleet of 26 sail of English Merchant ships from Gallipolis and other places within the Streights, bound for London, Tarmouth, and other parts; this morning they left two ships belonging to this Harbour off the Start, homewards bound from Smirna, with several others bound to the Eastwards.

Vienna, June 23. The 16th instant the Emperour received Letters from his Ambassadour in Poland, giving him an account of the Audience he there received from the States, to which he was followed by near 20 thousand persons, and amongst them near 5000 of the Nobles and Persons of Quality, accompanied and introduced by the Archbishop of Gnesne and Primate of that Kingdom.

We daily expect a Confirmation from Rome of the Emperours late Nomination of his Vice-Chancellor to the Bishoprick of Vienna. The Emperour has been pleased to prefer the Count de Oetingen to the Vacant Charge of Vice-Chancellor of the Empire.

From Waradin they give us an account out of their Letters both from Constantinople and Larissa, that the Grand Signior being willing to remove all those grievances which in this conjuncture of time might provoke the Christians within his Territories to give him some disturbance, has ordered Commissioners to be sent to all the parts of his Empire, to make enquiry how the Christians have been dealt with by the several Bassa's and other Officers of the respective Provinces and Countreies, empowering them to punish such Officers as shall be convicted of any unjust proceeding against them, the Sultan desiring they should in all places be as civilly dealt with, as the Turks themselves, and has given Order to all his Bassa's who have any Charge or Government upon the Frontiers, to take care that the Peace with the Emperour of Germany be not any point violated or infringed.

From Presbourg we are advised, that the Hungarians having wholly refused to permit the Turks to buy or take any materials out of their Territories for the reparation of their Fortifications or rebuilding of their ruined City of Buda, and for keeping Guards upon the Walls, to hinder the transportation of any such necessities to them, the Sultan has in revenge threatened to interrupt all Commerce had been forced in; many Christians as they lay upon with to work at their Fortifications, and have killed several of them, who have since refused that Employment, or been found so neglect it, when employ'd. Stockholm, June 24. On Saturday last arrived here the Countess of Castile in 12 days from England, which is her Excellency the Earl of Garrick, as it is presumed from his Visit made to the Court; where his Majesty is lately also expected here, upon whose arrival the said Ambassadour may appear in publick Order to the performance of the Ceremonies of His Majesties Installment in the Order of the Garter.

Venice, June 28. On Sunday in the Evening arrived here a ship from Candia, bringing home the Body of the lately deceased Provokedor Extraordinary Cavalier Catrin Cornaro. This Vessel departed from Candia about the 21th of May last, so fitting to us the former News of the Assaults made by the Visier upon the Town; telling us, that the Captain General Morghini is within the Town, by his Courage and Vigilancy encouraging the Garrison to continue their defence; visiting all places with much diligence, and ordering and taking care for all due reparations; changing the Guards as he finds occasion, the better to prevent any under-hand dealing, and private intelligence with the Enemy.

Adding that upon the arrival of the Brunswick succors, the said Captain General entertained the Captains and Officers with much respect and honour, disposing of the soldiers into convenient Quarters for their repose, and ordering them to be well furnished with all necessary refreshments after their Voyage; that the soldiers seem with impatience to desire to show their Valour upon the Enemy, by some sally or other attempt, for which the General has promised to give them a fair occasion; and that with this additional force the Garrison is said to consist of about 14 thousand able soldiers; a sufficient number (as 'tis hoped) to entertain the Visier upon any assaults he shall make upon it.

They farther inform us, that the Turks have much triumphed upon the late death of Cavalier Cornaro, and that the Visier is resolv'd to make use of this opportunity to encourage his Army to another general assault upon the Sabionera and St. Andre with the choicest soldiers of his Army, intending if they succeed and prove victorious, to put himself into the Town and to new fortifie it; but if they fail in the attempt, then to withdraw to a greater distance from the Town, and to put the Army into the best posture he is able to attend the landing of the forces designed thither from the Christian Princes for the raising of the Siege; for which end and purpose he has ordered the soldiers to be paid their arrears, and has made choice of Mustapha Bassa a person of great Valour and Conduct, with 12 thousand men to be in readiness for this service; with promise of great rewards if they behave themselves like men of Courage in this last attempt.

A considerable Squadron of our ships are cruising about the Isle of Cyros, attending the motion of the Captain Bassa, who with several Gallies and Men of War is there in Port, waiting for an opportunity to transport into Canea some numbers of Morandi quantities of Provisions, formerly sent thither from Constantinople, and now lying ready in that Island to be embarked.

Yesterday arrived Letters from France advising, that His Most Christian Majesty had ordered 20 of his Men of War to be fitted out from Brest and other places to be sent into the Mediterranean, to cruise about Tunis and Algier, to prevent those Affairs from the further assistance of the Grand Visier.

From Zante we are advised of the safe arrival there of 400 Horse designed for Candia, with several Engines and Materials for the War, under the Signior Vilier Provokedor General of the Three Islands; intended to take care for their farther transportation by the first good opportunity. The same Letters inform, that the Grand Signior is at Tricola, situate about the midst of Macedonia, having only 4000 Turks about him for his Guard; himself passing his time in Hunting; and that some Gallies belonging to Zante had taken a Turkish Ship and about 80 Slaves, giving chase to another, which with some difficulty escaped.

Hambourgh, June 29. The Assembly of the Hans-Towns lately held at Lubec is separated, having amongst other thing made choice of the Sieur Brouer an Advocate of Lubec for their Syndic, and the Sieur Hucken now
