As an alternative, however, the officer will retain a reserved right, on retirement for marriage within three months after marriage, to her existing Extended Service terms, as provided in Clause 17.

"(e) An officer who does not join the Permanent Service will be required to complete her current engagement and will remain entitled to the gratuity set out in (a) above, except that the rate of gratuity will be increased to £65 a year with effect from the 24th November, 1948, if the officer completes the period of Extended Service which she has already undertaken. If this period is not completed, the rate of gratuity will remain at £50.

"(b) If the rating is invalidated, or discharged for pregnancy, before completing the full period of her Extended Service engagement, she will receive a gratuity proportionate to the period of her Extended Service engagement which she has in fact completed.

"(c) If discharged for any other reason except misconduct and subject to the completion of not less than two years' extended service, a rating will be eligible for £20 for each completed year and a gratuity of £20 for the incomplete year reduced by £2 for each month or part of a month by which it falls short of a complete year, subject to a maximum deduction of £20.

"(d) A rating on Extended Service who undertakes a new engagement for a further period of four years' service will be entitled to a £10 transfer grant, payable on transferring to the Permanent Service. She will also be entitled to non-effective benefits as provided in Clauses 25, 26 and 27 of Section IX of this Order or those in (a), (b) or (c) above, whichever are more favourable to her. Any gratuity payable under Clause 25 or Clause 27 will be increased by £25.
