Air Ministry, 3rd December, 1957.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve the following awards:—

Distinguished Flying Cross.

Flight Lieutenant David HARCOURT-SMITH (607258), Royal Air Force.

In recognition of gallantry and devotion to duty in air operations in Aden.

Air Force Cross.

Flying Officer John Hardy CARTER (4113887), Royal Air Force.

In August, 1957, Flying Officer Carter, No. 220 Squadron, was detailed for a long range operational flying exercise over the Atlantic in a Shackleton aircraft. The exercise was to last fifteen hours and commenced at 09.40 hours. Seven hours later, when some 600 miles from base and at a height of 1,000 feet, the No. 2 engine failed. The engine was feathered, an appropriate distress message was passed and the aircraft turned for base. In order to maintain adequate communication and facilitate control Flying Officer Carter increased height to 3,000 feet. An hour and a half later the No. 1 engine on the port side of the aircraft failed. This engine was feathered and subsequently caught fire, but prompt action was taken by Flying Officer Carter to extinguish the fire. By this time adverse weather conditions made it impossible to land at base and the officer altered course for the nearest airfield, which was at Lorient/Lannbihou, a distance of 315 miles. A full emergency distress message was then transmitted and the flight was continued on Nos. 3 and 4 engines. It was found that at 120 knots air speed height could not be maintained even though maximum continuous cruising power was being used. In order to keep within the limitations of the two remaining engines, Flying Officer Carter allowed the aircraft to continue to lose height over the sea until at 1,000 feet he had to increase to intermediate power. With the limitations of the engines in mind, he reduced power again after fifty-five minutes, having by that time climbed to 3,000 feet. The aircraft thereupon gradually lost height until at 1,500 feet, when height was maintained without further resort to emergency power settings. At 20.30 hours contact was established with Lorient/Lannbihou and also with a Search and Rescue aircraft sent out by the Squadron. There was no V.H.F. homing facility available at the airfield and for several hours Flying Officer Carter had been without navigation fixing aids because of the bad weather and his inability to extend the radome owing to the adverse effect on the air speed; the area in which the aircraft was flying had precluded the use of other navigation aids for fixing. In order to safeguard the aircraft Flying Officer Carter allowed the radar operator to obtain one snap fix before crossing the coast, and this enabled the aircraft to be accurately positioned for a landfall in weather conditions which by this time had reduced the cloud ceiling to 1,000 feet. Shortly after this the aircraft again entered cloud, and a controlled descent through cloud to a height of 800 feet was made. It was in these adverse conditions that at 22.21 hours Flying Officer Carter safely landed his aircraft at the airfield. Flying Officer Carter has flown only 300 hours since his appointment to captaincy, but throughout the incident he displayed exceptional skill in handling his aircraft under most difficult circumstances. He inspired complete confidence in his crew and saved a valuable aircraft.

Queen's Commendation for Brave Conduct.

Flight Lieutenant Samuel Vallis McCoy, M.B.E. (503365), Royal Air Force.

For courage and devotion to duty when alone and armed only with a stick he successfully tackled and apprehended five intruders on Cluntee airfield.

Queen's Commendation for Valuable Service in the Air.

2786812 Leading Aircraftman Royston John Brown, Royal Air Force.

For skill and bravery during a Target Towing Sortie in a Beaufighter aircraft, when he leaned from a hatch at the bottom of the fuselage and severed a jammed drogue cable, so preventing possible damage to the aircraft and injury to its crew.

Air Ministry, 3rd December, 1957.
