The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve the award of the George Medal in recognition of gallant and distinguished services in Cyprus for the period ending 30th June 1959, to:

19055780 Staff Sergeant Francis George GIBLETT, Royal Army Ordnance Corps.

During a period of nearly three years Staff Sergeant GIBLETT was employed on dangerous bomb disposal duties. Throughout this time he was on twenty-four hours call to the Larnaca Police and he dealt with a large number of explosive devices liable to be detonated by time fuses and by fuses responsive to movement or shock.

He removed and disarmed a new pattern bomb fitted with complicated anti-lifting devices thereby preventing a major disaster in a petrol depot. On more than one occasion he was the first to enter hides to make them safe from booby traps and to remove the extremely dangerous explosives and bombs which they contained.

The day after a comrade had been killed on a new pattern mine he bravely removed a similar device liable to explode on slight pressure.

In these and in other similar incidents, to prevent loss of life and damage to property, he repeatedly faced grave danger of being killed. His conduct has been an example of great courage and constant devotion to duty.

14th July 1959.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve the award of the British Empire Medal (Military Division) for gallantry to:

22308735 Sergeant Bernard Thomas HEANE, Royal Regiment of Artillery.

During eighteen months of operations against terrorists in Cyprus Sergeant HEANE led a very large number of patrols, some of which lasted for periods up to five days, with outstanding vigour and initiative.

In August 1958, seeing a crowd gathering and going with four men to investigate, he found a Turkish truck which had just been ambushed. Leaving two men to prevent further terrorist action he went on to a nearby village where he found evidence which led to the arrest of two of the culprits.

During November 1958, he frequently achieved surprise by travelling into villages in civilian buses and lorries. He did this at great personal risk for he was accompanied by only two or three men. In this way he captured two terrorist couriers and, on another occasion, surprised an EOKA Youth meeting making several arrests.

By his fine leadership, ability, devotion to duty and personal gallantry Sergeant HEANE made a valuable individual contribution towards the success of the anti-terrorist operations.

14th July 1959.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve the award of the British Empire Medal (Military Division) to the undermentioned, in recognition of distinguished services in Cyprus for the period ending 30th June 1959:
