From Thursday July 18. to Monday July 22. 1706.

From the Imperial Camp near Castelbaldo, July 9. N. S. Prince Eugene having resolved to attempt the passing of the Adige, to prevent which the Enemy had been making Intrenchments, and using all imaginable Precautions, his Highness made the necessary Dispositions for this purpose, and ordered his Troops to make several Marches and Counter-marches, to amuse the Enemy, and the better to conceal his real Design. Every thing being in a readiness, Colonel Pace marched the 4th Instant in the Night with a Detachment from Merlara down the Adige, to find out a proper place where to pass that River. His Highness also went that Night from his head Quarter at St. Martin, and came about the next Morning to Merlara, from whence he proceeded towards Castelbaldo, near to which Place the Palatine Troops, those of Saxe-Gotha, and the Imperial Regiment of Bagui, were advanced, and had ranged themselves in a Line, which reached near Mezzi, a Place that the French had fortified. The Enemy were much alarmed with our Troops Arrival near Mezzi; and having sent a Reinforcement thither from La Badia, on the other side of the Adige, they sallied out, to the number of 1200 Foot, upon the Palatine Troops which lay nearest to them; but were repulsed with considerable Loss; and on our side there were not above 17 Men, one of them a Lieutenant, killed and wounded. Towards the Evening our Troops near Castelbaldo received 4 Pieces of heavy Cannon; and our General gave Orders for the erecting of a Battery against the Enemy's Post at Mezzi. The 6th his Highness received Advice from Colonel Pace, That being marched as far as Rotta-Nuova, he had sent 500 of his Men over the Adige in Boats, who had taken Post on the other side; upon which Orders were sent him immediately to make a Bridge there, to pass over the River with the rest of his Detachment, and to secure himself of some advantage at that Post, where the Enemy might not surprize or force him. His Highness also detached his Adjutant-General Count Beaufort with some Troops, with Orders to post himself on the Banks of the Adige, between Mezzi and Rotta-Nuova, and to observe whether the Enemy sent any Troops along that River towards the Place where Colonel Pace had passed it, and to give Notice thereof to his Highness, and to the said Colonel. Orders were sent at the same time to the Imperial Troops that had been left behind at St. Martin, and the other Posts along the Upper Adige, to be in a readiness to march upon the first Notice they should receive. The 7th Colonel Pace sent an Account, That his whole Detachment had now passed the Adige, and the Enemy had thereupon quitted all their Posts thereabouts as far as La Badia; and a Body of them was drawing together at Cauda, upon which his Highness sent him Orders what he should do further; and withal acquainted him, That he had received Advice that the Enemy were sending a Detachment of 3 or 4000 Men to the Lower Adige, who were already advanced beyond Legnago. Adjutant-General Beaufort returned, and gave an Account, That he had observed a Body of the Enemy's Horse marching along the Adige, and that his Dragoons thereupon dismounted; and bringing them a-cross the River, they saw several of them drop. In the Evening his Highness received Advice from Colonel Pace, That he was marched with the Horse under his Command to Lucina, and his Foot was come as far as Boara; That Lieutenant-Colonel Mellina, with a Party of the Palatine Regiment of Horse of 2000 Men, had beat one of 150 of the Enemy's Horse, killed between 50 and 60 upon the spot, and brought in a Captain, a Lieutenant, and 11 Troopers, Prisoners, and 30 Horses, and pursued the rest of them within a Mile of La Badia. Orders were thereupon dispatched to him to send our Parties to view the Country, and observe the Enemy. The Troops under the Command of Major-General Count Jorger, and the Regiments of Herberstein and Guttenstein, which lay along the Upper Adige, were ordered to come down to Castelbaldo; and the Posts which they quitted were taken up by the Regiments of Raventlau, Kirchbaum and Zumingen. Our Battery against Mezzi being finished, we began this Night to mount our Cannon; whereupon the 8th in the Morning, the Enemy, to our great surprize, abandoned that Post, which they had fortified so well, that they might have held it a long time. His Highness immediately caused his Troops to take Possession of it; and judging the Enemy might also quit La Badia, he gave Orders to Lieutenant-Colonel Hoffman, who commands the Regiment of Bagui, upon the first Notice of their having so done, to pass the Adige in Boats with that Regiment, and secure that Post. His Highness himself crossed the River, and went to Colonel Pace's Detachment; and upon his Arrival there, was informed that the Enemy had actually quitted La Badia: Upon which he sent out Colonel Jorger, Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment of Herbeville, with 200 Horse towards that Place, and followed in Person with the rest of Colonel Pace's Detachment. Being arrived there, he sent Lieutenant-Colonel Hoffman with the Regiment of Bagui to secure one of the Gates of the Town, ready to enter it, the French did no sooner evacuated the Place, but some Venetian Troops took Possession of it, and refused to admit those of the Emperor: Whereupon Prince Eugene, having in vain endeavoured by fair Means to get the Governor to a Compliance, gave Orders for breaking down the Gate, and took Possession of this important Post; and afterwards the Governor's Proceeding, and that he alone should be answerable for any Consequences that might attend it. The Detachment commanded by Major-General Reiling came this Day to Castelbaldo, and brought with them several Pontoons for a Bridge to be made over the Adige, below Mezzi, for the better Communication of our Troops on either side of that River. Several other Bridges are ordered to be made; and as soon as they are ready, the rest of our Troops are to pass the Adige. The 9th the Regiments of Herberstein and Guttenstein arrived at Castelbaldo. Our General received an Account, That the Enemy had also quitted the Canal of Malopera, and were retired towards Caffagnaro, behind the Canal Bianco, and that they were under great Consternation; which indeed was evident, from their abandoning with such Precipitation so many Posts, which they had fortified with so much Art and Labour, that we expected they would have disputed the Ground with us Foot by Foot. Before we passed the Adige, they had given out, That if we did get over, they would stop us, by cutting the Banks of that and the neighbouring Rivers, and laying the Country under Water. They had begun to do so at Mezzi, but retired before they had finished that Work: They attempted the same at Anguilara, but were again prevented by our Troops coming upon them: And we have taken such Measures as will prevent their accomplishing this Design.

Baden, July 10. The General Diet of the Swiss Cantons being assembled here, the Marquis de Puffieux, Ambassador from the French King, had Audience of them this Day, and made the following Speech:

Magnificent Lords!
Every time that I have come into this illustrious Assembly, I have endeavoured to give you new Marks of the King my Master's Friendship. I have had frequent Opportunities of doing so, in acquainting you with his Victories, and in sharing with you the Joy occasioned by our happy Successes. Fortune at present has favoured our Enemies; and I am now come to give you Expressions of the same Friendship and Confidence, without concealing from you the Affront she has put upon us. It is not usual for Ministers of my Character themselves to declare the Misfortunes of their Sovereigns: But the King my Master is unacquainted with those mean Politicks to deceive his Allies and his People by false Reports. His Arms have been unsuccessful in Catalonia and in Flanders: He himself has commanded me to tell you so. On one side, the Fury of the Rebels has mistaken and repulsed their Lawful King, who was come to free his faithful Subjects from the Oppression of a foreign Power. On the other, the Courage of the French has hurried them with too great Eagerness into the midst of Enemies they were not enough acquainted with, and whose Numbers have triumphed over their Valour. A vast Country abandoned, and lofty Towns brought under Consternation, have proved the Reward of the Conquerors.

It is not to seek from you, my Lords, the Comfort that is found in the midst of one's Misfortunes; by relating them to sincere Friends, that I recal to mind so melancholly a Thought: It is rather to comfort and encourage you. The King my Master is persuaded of your Affection for his Sacred Person, and of the Share you take in all that happens to him: He is also sensible that you know your true Interest. You are not unacquainted, my Lords, with the Dangerous Condition into which the Liberty of your Country would be brought, if the House of Austria could resume that dreadful Superiority it had under Charles the Fifth. It is still aspiring, and would soon attain to it, through the Assistance of a World of blinded Allies, who, for it's sake, send away the Treasures and Blood of their People: I say, it would soon arrive to it, if France should grow weary of opposing, or should be forced to yield to a too impetuous Torrent.

You have seen in one of Monsieur Mardre's Memorials, which I have published, the Plots that are laid to break the Union of the Languable Hebretic Body, and to destroy you by your own Hands. Be aware of the false Careless that are made use of to win you; Despise the vain Threats that are employed to frighten you; Fly from the Snare that are laid for you; Do not forsake your Common Interest; Secure with firmer Bonds your mutual Confederacy; Be still more careful to preserve your joint Alliance with the King my Master, and do not suffer yourselves to be scared by the unfair Description that is given you of his Losses. Whatever they are, They do not discompose his great mind; They do not disturb his Councils; They do not exhaust his Treasures; They do not cool the Zeal of his Subjects: He will not grow weary of Combating for the Liberty of Europe; and he will not be wanting in any thing to preserve yours if it ever should be attacked. This, my Lords, is what he has commanded me to declare to you; assuring you of his powerful Protection, and of his feederable and ever inviolable Friendship.

Vienna, July 14. N. S. On the 6th Instant the Court went out of Mourning, and that Evening there was an Opera and a Ball at the Emperor's Palace of Schonbrun; and the two Days following the Court was entertained with a Tournament, in which the Emperor himself gained two of the Prizes, the other three fell to the share of the Count de Zierolin, the Count de Colalto, and the Count de Paar. Baron Bartholdi, the King of Prussia's Minister, has lately received from his Imperial Majesty the Investiture of the Electorate of Brandenburg and other Fiefs of the Empire, which are in the Possession of his Prussian Majesty and the Margares his Brothers. This Morning the like Ceremony was performed by Baron Freyberg, in the Name of the Bishop of Augsboung. The 7th Mr. Stepney, Her Majesty of Great-Britain's Envoy Extraordinary, and Monsieur Bruninx, who has the same Character from the States-General, returned hither from Tirnan. The 11th a Conference was held at the Favorite in the Emperor's Presence, upon the Affairs of Hungary, where all Letters and Papers which have lately been delivered on both sides, were examined; and the Day following, the Bishop of Osnabrug and Count Wrackau acquainted Mr. Secy-

ney and Monsieur Brüninx with the Resolutions of this Court, and desired them, in the Emperor's Name, to undertake another Journey to Tirnau; which they began the same Day at 4 in the Afternoon. General Herbeville is made Field-Marshal of the Emperor's Forces in Bavaria, and will be going thither in few Days. Count Rechteren, the other Mediator, is arrived here from Tirnau.

From the Duke of Marlborough's Camp at Helshin, July 26. N. S.
On Tuesday the 20th Instant my Lord Duke of Marlborough entertained the Prince Royal of Prussia with a Review of the second Line of the Army, which was drawn out for that purpose; and his Royal Highness expressed his Satisfaction with seeing the several Regiments so Compleat, and the Troops in so good a Condition. The 21st, part of the Troops appointed for the Siege of Menin marched to Courtray, and the rest followed this Day, under the Command of General Salisch, the whole making 32 Battalions and 25 Squadrons. They encamped at Leuwe, and were to invest the Town the 23d, there being already about 4000 Pioneers at hand; who were immediately employed on the Lines of Circumvallation; and Orders were given for making all the Dispatch possible in bringing up the Artillery and Ammunition from Ghent, which must be brought a great part of the way by Land, for want of Water in the River Lys. The 22d, in the Morning, my Lord Duke went with the Prince Royal to see the Troops of Prussia and Hanover, which are encamped at a small distance behind our second Line; and the whole, both Horse and Foot, appeared compleat, and in very good order. Monsieur d'Auverquerque marched that Day with the Army under his Command from St. Eloy-Vive, and came to Heltre, on the Right of our Camp; and upon a small Motion forward, made by our Army, for the better covering the Siege, those Troops are now come into the Line. The 23d, my Lord Halifax came hither from Holland to wait upon the Duke of Marlborough, with the Earl of Dorset and several other English Gentlemen, who attended his Lordship to Hanover: He intends to leave the Army in two or 3 Days, in order to embark for England. On Saturday his Grace received a Letter from Prince Eugene of Savoy, dated the 10th Instant, giving an Account, That his Troops had passed the Adige; that the Enemy, notwithstanding the advantageous Posts they have been so long intrenching, were retired before them with great Precipitation, having likewise left him Master of the Adigette and Malopera, two other Rivers, and were poited on the Canal Bianco; and that he was preparing to improve this Advantage, of which we hope soon to have a good Account. The same Day Colonel Lalo marched from hence with 3 Battalions of Foot to meet the Boats that were coming up the Lys from Ghent, with part of the Artillery and Ammunition for the Siege of Menin. His Grace had this Morning an Account; That they were arrived yesterday at St. Eloy-Vive; where they are taking some of the Artillery on Shore to be transported by Land, with hopes to carry the rest with the Boats yet much higher, which will save some time.

Hague, July 27. N. S. The Town of Menin was invested the 23d Instant by the Troops under General Salisch, who is to have the Direction of that Siege, which is to be covered by the main Army under the Command of the Duke of Marlborough. The Transport Ships which lately failed from the Texel arrived the 24th at Ostend, where the Troops of this State, designed for the Descent, are to go on board them. Seven English and Fifteen Dutch homeward-bound East-India Ships are safely arrived in the Texel. Letters from France, come in this Day, say, That the King of Spain was arrived at Saragossa: That they talked of changing the Siege of Turin into a Blockade: And that the French Court had been obliged to take off some of the Imposts on the Sea-Coasts, in order to mollify the People, who are exasperated with the heavy Taxes laid upon them, the Loss of their Trade, and the many Hardships they have suffered. It is said, That the Duke of Vendosme is arrived in the Netherlands, in order to command the French Troops on this side. We hear that Three of the French Lieutenant-Generals are broke for Misbehaviour in the Battle of Rammels, two of which are the Count d'Aragnan and Monsieur d'Estain.

Letters from Barcelona give an Account, That they had received there the welcome News of the City of Madrid's having declared for their lawful Sovereign King Charles III. That the City of Saragossa, the Castles of Jaca and Ayaca, and the greatest part of the Kingdom of Arragon, had done the like: Whereupon Count Noyelles and the Prince of Darmstadt were marched from Lerida with some Troops and a Train of Artillery towards Saragossa, to put that Place into a Posture of Defence.

The great want of ready Money in France appears daily more and more. It was some time ago found necessary to set up a Paper Credit, issuing Bills out of the Mint to be current in Payments instead of Money: This proving highly Prejudicial to Trade, a Declaration was published, whereby it was ordained, That all Bills of Exchange drawn upon any Person should be answered part in Money, and the rest in these Bills: But Money is so very scarce, that it has been impossible to comply with this Declaration: And on the other hand the Difficulties which their Traders are brought under by this way of making Payments is such, that the French Ministry are altogether at a loss how to put a stop to this growing Mischiefe, which tends to the entire Ruine of their Commerce.

The King of Prussia has received, by an Express, Letters from the Prince of Anhalt Dessau, who commands His Majesty's Forces in Italy, dated at St. Michael the 16th of July, which contain in Substance: That Prince Eugene having caused a Body of his Troops, under the Command of Colonel Parce, to pass the Adige at Rortra-Nuova, he made the necessary Dispositions for attacking on all sides the Enemy's Army, which lay along the Adige very well entrenched. This Enterprize was happily begun by Colonel Parce, who with his Detachment, consisting only of 2500 Men, went down the Canal de la Tratta to the Canal Bianco; and the Foot, with the Prince of Beveren, Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment of Wolfembottle, at their Head pass'd that Canal with all imaginable Bravery. The Enemy fired a few Shot at our Men, upon which the French fled with the greatest Precipitation, leaving behind them their Tents standing, their Provisions, and all they had in their Camp. After this happy success, Prince Eugene sent to view the Po, and detached Lieutenant-Colonel St. Amour with some Troops to pursue the Enemy, and Colonel Parce was ordered to make a Halt near the Po, for the better securing the Passage of the Canal Bianco. Monsieur St. Amour overtook, within 8 Miles of Ostiglia, about 400 of the Enemy's men and wounded Men, guarded by 200 Foot and some Horse; and had a sharp Dispute with them, and defeated the Enemy, of whom he took about 200, the rest being cut to pieces. Upon this Loss the Enemy on the 13th at Night quitted all their Posts and the Land they had made behind the Adige. The 14th the Prince of Anhalt who had been left at St. Michael's with 28 Battalions and 24 Squadrons, order'd some Troops to cross the Adige, and took Post on the side of that River. The same day he brought down the Bridge Boats from Perona to St. Michael, and the 15th removed it to some of all which he gave Advice to Prince Eugene, who sent him Orders to march on without loss of time towards Badia. According to our Advices, the Enemy are retired behind the Mincio. Some Letters from Prince Eugene laid a Bridge the 16th Instant at Night over the Po.

Portsmouth, July 10. The Rt. Hon. Lieutenant-General Erskine arrived here yesterday in the Afternoon. Sir Cloudesly Shovel came to Town the same Night, and this Morning went and hoisted his Flag on board the Britannia; being saluted at his going from Shore by the Discharge of the Cannon on our Platform.
