In accordance with section 77 of the National Insurance Act, 1946, the National Insurance Advisory Committee give notice that they have received from The Minister of Pensions and National Insurance for consideration and report thereon the preliminary draft of regulations entitled the National Insurance (Contributions) Amendment (No. 2) Regulations, 1961.

Ifor Evans, Chairman.

Explanatory Note

These Regulations amend the National Insurance (Contributions) Regulations, 1948.

Regulation 2 provides that a day in respect of which industrial injury benefit is payable to a person is to be treated as a day of incapacity for work for the purposes of the provisions relating to the crediting of contributions for weeks of incapacity for work, notwithstanding that person's absence from Great Britain.

Regulation 3 replaces the previous provisions as to the exception of widows from liability to pay contributions. It also provides for a period of 14 weeks at the commencement of widowhood during which the widow (without needing to apply for a certificate of exception) is to be entitled, but not liable, to pay contributions and for an extension of that period if a claim to widow's benefit, or to a widow's pension under the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, or to certain war or Service pensions and allowances, is pending when the period ends. It contains transitional and procedural provisions in connection with the issue of certificates of exception, including provision as to the date from which such certificates shall operate, and make provision as to the refund of contributions paid in error by widows. The regulation does not replace the former provisions concerning the crediting of contributions to widows, which are now replaced by provisions in the National Insurance (Married Women) Amendment Regulations, 1961.

Regulation 4 provides for the mitigation or avoidance of the adverse consequences on a person's benefit rights of the late payment of contributions, where the lateness was attributable to ignorance or error for which he was not to blame, and Regulation 5 makes clear that the date of payment is included in the period of forty two days during which a late paid contribution, paid during the same benefit year as a day for which unemployment or sickness benefit is claimed, does not count towards satisfaction of the contribution condition relating to the number of contributions paid or credited in respect of the last complete contribution year.

The other provisions are formal or consequential.
