CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD

St. James's Palace, London S.W.1.
17th November 1964.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to give orders for the following appointments to the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire in recognition of Gallant and Distinguished Services in the Borneo Territories:

To be an Additional Officer of the Military Division of the said Most Excellent Order:

Lieutenant-Colonel James Alan Ingram FILLINGHAM (333876), 10th Princess Mary's Own Gurkha Rifles.

To be an Additional Member of the Military Division of the said Most Excellent Order:

Captain Michael Hugh Myers (430674), Royal Pioneer Corps.

MINISTRY OF DEFENCE

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve the following awards in recognition of gallant and distinguished services in the Borneo Territories:

Distinguished Service Order

Lieutenant-Colonel Edward John Sidney BURNETT, M.B.E., M.C. (325908), 10th Princess Mary's Own Gurkha Rifles.

On the 2nd January 1964, the 1st Battalion, 10th Gurkha Rifles, under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Burnett, was flown from Malaya to Tawau to deal with the strongest and most threatening Indonesian incursion into Malaysia, up to that time.

Morale in the area had been badly shaken as the result of losses received in a strong enemy attack on Kalabakan, an important logging centre, and the presence of 16,000 Indonesian civilians in the Tawau District posed an ugly internal security problem. Lieutenant-Colonel Burnett very quickly deployed his battalion over a very large area to find the enemy and bring them to battle in the jungle and to deal with the internal security situation.

By his excellent tactical handling of his troops the enemy were found within 24 hours. They split into small parties which were relentlessly hunted. These parties, which included a strong element of well-trained marines showed plenty of fight, counter attacking and inflicting casualties on our troops. Throughout the period from January to June, Lieutenant-Colonel Burnett moved about his area energetically and fearlessly by land rover on rough tracks and by helicopter. He frequently faced the danger of ambush by an ubiquitous enemy and on occasions personally took charge of the situation under enemy fire. During the months January and February his troops accounted for 93 enemy intruders.

As a result of Lieutenant-Colonel Burnett's efforts the dangerous situation threatening Tawau was overcome, the extremely low morale of the local people was restored and the large local Indonesian population was deterred from causing serious trouble. It was chiefly due to his energetic determination, fearlessness and fine leadership in the field that a large and dangerous enemy incursion was defeated.

Bar to Military Cross

Major Denis Oswald O'LEARY, M.B.E., M.C. (380903), 1st Battalion, 7th Duke of Edinburgh's Own Gurkha Rifles.

On the 7th January 1964, Major O'Leary, commanding A Company, led his platoons in a flotilla of river craft to attack a party of well armed intruders lying up on an island in an off-shoot of the Rajang River in Sarawak. He took his place in a launch which, although it was a vulnerable target, he used to reach a position whence he was able personally to direct effective fire against the enemy. When later the main attack was made Major O'Leary joined one of the assault platoons which had been held up and led it to within a few yards of the still invisible enemy. He personally captured a determined terrorist who had defended himself with automatic fire and hand grenades.

Major O'Leary then moved to join the other assault platoon which had come under heavy fire from four automatic weapons and gave orders for a change in the direction of attack. When a Gurkha rifleman was wounded and lay in an exposed position he bravely attempted to rescue him. Finally when the enemy had been attacked with grenades from their rear, Major O'Leary boldly went forward calling for their surrender.

Throughout this action fought in appalling difficult conditions, for a period of four hours, Major O'Leary showed a fine disregard for his own safety and inspired his men by his brave personal leadership.

Military Cross

2nd Lieutenant Michael John PEELE (472597), 4th (Leicestershire) Battalion, The Royal Anglian Regiment.

On the 23rd January 1964, 2nd Lieutenant Peele was the commander of a patrol of 20 men flown into the jungle, in Sabah, to follow up a suspected band of 80 to 100 armed intruders. Early next morning he found the tracks of a large party and followed them up rigorously, even abandoning packs to enable his men to move faster. After five hours he sighted some terrorists in two shelters which were the beginning of an enemy camp. Although he believed himself to be outnumbered he at once planned a surprise attack but one of the enemy stumbled on to his assault group. Realising that surprise was lost, 2nd Lieutenant Peele shot this man and ordered the assault group to charge through the camp firing from the hip. In the face of fire from a light machine gun the assault group fought through the camp which proved to be about 250 yards long and to have contained some 60 armed men. The enemy fled into the jungle leaving behind 6 dead, a quantity of weapons, valuable documents and the majority of their equipment and ammunition.

The important success achieved by 2nd Lieutenant Peele and his patrol was largely due to his courageous and aggressive leadership.

Military Cross

Lieutenant (Q.G.O.) NANDARAJ GURUNG (472384), 2nd King Edward VII's Own Gurkha Rifles (The Sirmoor Rifles).

On 13th June 1964, in Sarawak, Lieutenant Nandaraj Gurung, commanding the Assault Pioneer Platoon, had the task of laying an ambush on a track near the border where the ground presented much difficulty. After a long and thorough reconnaissance he personally posted and instructed each of his men. At 1810 hours a large party of heavily armed Indonesians started to enter the area. Lieutenant Nandaraj, allowing the enemy scouts to pass through the ambush, opened rapid fire when there were eleven men in the target area. In poor light and heavy rain a fierce fire fight resulted with the enemy survivors and with their main body still outside the ambush. Lieutenant Nandaraj's position was subjected to heavy automatic and mortar fire from his left flank and attacked by a party of about 100 men. He gallantly and calmly moved round his platoon directing their fire, adjusting their positions and encouraging his young and inexperienced soldiers. The enemy attempting to overrun his position were in a numerical superiority of four to one, but so effective was the fire of his men that they were obliged to make a ragged withdrawal after suffering many casualties. At this stage Lieutenant Nandaraj called by radio for artillery support and accurately directed it on to the tracks to the enemy's rear. In consequence the Indonesians were forced to withdraw over the border into their own territory.

The complete success of this action against a superior force was unquestionably due to Lieutenant Nandaraj's leadership, initiative and personal gallantry.

Military Cross

Lieutenant (Q.G.O.) INDRAJIT LIMBU (470556), 1st Battalion, 10th Princess Mary's Own Gurkha Rifles.

In Sabah, from the 3rd to the 6th January 1964, No. 5 Platoon, under the command of Lieutenant Indrajit Limbu, tracked a party of 10 Indonesian border terrorists through thick jungle which permitted minimum visibility and imposed maximum physical difficulties. On the following day, accompanied by 15 men he continued remorselessly to track down the enemy and drive them towards an ambush placed to prevent their escape. When, after three hours, he heard firing ahead he at once advanced towards the scene of action. Heavy fire was encountered, but Lieutenant Indrajit, knowing that delay would enable the enemy to get away in the dense foliage, immediately led his men into the attack. Two of his men were killed and the remainder forced to take cover, but he gave rapid order for the attack to continue in short charges for which he personally gave the time. Four times he led his men forward under close fire. In the face of such speedy and determined action the enemy were overcome and none were able to escape.

The conduct of Lieutenant Indrajit Limbu on this day was an inspiration to his men. It was a fine example of indomitable courage and personal leadership.

Military Medal

21144149 Sergeant PASBIR GURUNG, 6th Queen Elizabeth's Own Gurkha Rifles.

At 2030 hours on 21st June 1964, Sergeant Pasbir's platoon was attacked in its patrol base by sixty Indonesians. The enemy brought to bear on the position a heavy concentration of rifle and light machine gun fire.

Sergeant Pasbir was wounded in the chest and stomach in the initial exchange of fire, whilst his platoon stood to their posts. A moment later he was hit again in the thumb. In spite of the pain from his wounds and loss of blood, he crawled forward among his men, many of them young soldiers inexperienced in battle, and exhorted them to fight hard, to remain calm and to shoot accurately. He twice left the shelter of his shallow trench in the face of withering small arms fire, mortar bombs and grenades, recovered the ammunition from his own dead and replenished the stocks of those fighting on his sector of the perimeter. The enemy made two attempts to penetrate the wire, only to be driven back by Sergeant Pasbir's men who reacted immediately to his shouts of encouragement and his defiant manner.

Twice he dragged back a badly wounded companion to the shelter of the main post, before he himself became too weak to take any further part in the battle. Even then he helped to look after the casualties, directing the medical orderly to dress their wounds before attending to his.

Throughout this action Sergeant Pasbir showed a complete disregard for his own safety. By his courage, tenacity and dogged leadership he was responsible for the stubborn spirit displayed by his men, resulting in the patrol base being successfully defended against superior numbers and a heavier weight of fire.

Military Medal

21139891 Lance Corporal (Acting Corporal) DAMBARBAHADUR GURUNG, 2nd Battalion, 10th Princess Mary's Own Gurkha Rifles.

In Sarawak near the Indonesian border, on the 6th March 1964, Corporal Dambarbahadur Gurung displayed great skill and daring during the reconnaissance of a position held by an already alerted platoon of regular Indonesian troops. During the attack which followed he led his section against a strongly entrenched enemy machine gun post, in secondary jungle. In spite of heavy fire from another machine gun in position on the top of a cliff and determined resistance he and his men inflicted casualties on the enemy and drove them away.

Corporal Dambarbahadur Gurung then led his men, under continued heavy enemy fire, along a narrow ledge, to a covering position from which to support the final attack. Shortly before this began the leading Section Commander was killed and Dambarbahadur was ordered to assault. With a complete disregard for his own safety he immediately urged his men forward and by the skilled use of grenades and close quarter fighting drove the enemy from their position. As a result of these actions five enemy were killed and five wounded.

Corporal Dambarbahadur's men had never before been under fire. His bold disregard for his own safety, his determination to close with the enemy and his leadership were in the highest traditions of his race and regiment.

Military Medal

21148656 Lance Corporal NANDABAHADUR RAI, 1st Battalion, 10th Princess Mary's Own Gurkha Rifles.

On the 7th January 1964, in Sabah, Lance Corporal Nandabahadur Rai was second in command of a section in No. 5 Platoon. For four consecutive days, under conditions of great physical hardship, he had shared with his platoon commander the task of tracking a group of Indonesian border terrorists and leading the way through the jungle. Despite the constant danger of ambush and the knowledge that he would draw the weight of hostile fire he never faltered or failed to display a fearless determination to close with the enemy.

During the morning of 7th January, he was with his section, immediately behind his Platoon Commander, when firing was heard ahead. In the subsequent rapid advance the whole platoon, numbering only 15, came under heavy and accurate fire from a dominating hill and very soon afterwards Lance Corporal Nandabahadur Rai saw his Section Commander killed. Realising that the morale and leadership of his section now depended on him, he immediately took command. Acting on his Platoon Commander's orders, he led his men in a series of charges on the enemy position under heavy fire. His personal courage and behaviour so inspired the men under his command that they were among the first to close with the enemy. Lance Corporal Nandabahadur Rai accounted personally for two of them and the section he led accounted for a further three.

His conduct was an inspiring example of fortitude, leadership and courage.

Military Medal

21147580 Rifleman SHERBAHADUR LIMBU, 1st Battalion, 7th Duke of Edinburgh's Own Gurkha Rifles.

On the 7th January 1964, Rifleman Sherbahadur Limbu was in command of a light machine gun group which came under heavy fire from four automatic weapons in the hands of a party of raiders on an island in an off-shoot of the Rajang River in Sarawak. Displaying skill and resolution he bravely exposed himself, at short range, to the full weight of the hostile fire and succeeded in bringing his gun into action in a good fire position. When Corporal Shamsherbahadur Limbu, in command of the platoon, fell badly wounded, in the foul mud and tangled mangrove roots, only thirty yards from the enemy, Sherbahadur did not hesitate in going to his assistance. Unfortunately he was himself hit, receiving a wound in the chest which caused him great pain and loss of blood. For two hours he lay in an exposed position until the enemy were over-run but, undaunted, continued to shout encouragement to his men and his wounded leader.

In this fierce action, in which casualties were suffered on both sides, Rifleman Sherbahadur Limbu showed qualities of leadership, courage and determination in the best traditions of his Regiment and the Gurkha Soldiers of Nepal.

Military Medal

21149107 Rifleman RESAMBAHADUR THAPA, 2nd King Edward VII's Own Gurkha Rifles.

On 13th June 1964, Rifleman Resambahadur Thapa was a light machine gunner in an ambush position in Sarawak near the Indonesian border.

At 1810 hours the point section of a group of some 100 heavily armed Indonesians entered the ambush. Rifleman Resambahadur opened effective fire, as ordered by his platoon commander, when the enemy section had fully entered the target area. The Indonesians then took up fire positions and a fierce fire fight ensued. It was raining hard, getting dark and visibility was poor. Heavy enemy automatic and mortar fire was now being brought to bear on Rifleman Resambahadur's ambush position and the main enemy force, who had not been caught in the ambush area, were commencing a flanking counter-attack. To see properly in the fading light and determined to kill more of the enemy, Rifleman Resambahadur left his cover and, moving forward, with his gun at his hip, through the rubber trees which were being struck by burst after burst of enemy machine-gun fire, he attacked and killed a further two Indonesians who were firing at him from behind cover. Some moments later, Rifleman Resambahadur, again showing complete disregard for his own safety, left cover once more to engage the enemy now attempting to press home their counter-attack through the scrub from the left flank. From an exposed position this brave rifleman engaged all enemy movement with bursts of Bren gun fire inflicting, beyond doubt, further casualties upon them.

Throughout his platoon's battle lasting 50 minutes against a superior enemy force, Rifleman Resambahadur's gallant conduct under fire was an inspiration to the younger soldiers in his platoon. His skill at arms and accurate shooting clearly accounted for four enemy dead and, in all probability, a number of others wounded, thus contributing greatly to the successful outcome.
