HONOURS AND AWARDS

CENTRAL CHANCERY OF THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD

St. James's Palace, London S.W.1.
27th August 1965.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to give orders for the following appointments to the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire in recognition of gallant and distinguished services in operations in the Radfan Area, Western Aden Protectorate, during the period 1st to 15th February 1965.

To be Additional Members of the Military Division of the said Most Excellent Order, for Gallantry.

Major Michael John BAIZLEY, Royal Marines.

The officer was in command of 'Z' Company throughout Operation CUT. His careful and methodical planning for the first part of the operation led to the most effective use being made of the men under his command in the setting up of the patrol base and the laying of the various ambush positions.

During the second phase, his sound tactics and leadership ensured that the Company group was always on balance. When the Company came under fire his leadership and personal example was an inspiration to all. Without regard for his personal safety he deployed his Company into a position from which it could contain the dissident tribesmen until the arrival of the Hunter airstrikes.

He then skilfully withdrew his Company in accordance with orders received. It was due to his coolness and tactical skill that casualties in the Company remained so low and that the operation was concluded so successfully.

Lieutenant Andrew Campbell LETCHFORD, Royal Marines.

This officer was the Forward Air Control Officer for 'Z' Company Group during Operation CUT. When he was warned to expect Hunter support he quickly reconnoitred a position for his air panels, and found that the only place they could be put and seen clearly by the aircraft was on the flat roof of the house. This house was completely dominated by the enemy and was swept by dissident LMG and rifle fire. Despite this, and with complete disregard for his own safety, he moved out onto the roof and carefully placed out his panels. It was a miracle that he was not hit. He then found that the only position from which he could direct the aircraft was behind the roof of a small out building. This building was also in full view of the enemy and swept by fire. Nevertheless, again with complete disregard for his own safety he took position behind the roof, to find that the difficulty in seeing the enemy position necessitated his head and shoulders being above cover. Despite this, and the fact that his radio aerial, which was only two feet from his head, was shot away twice, he remained in this position and directed, coolly and calmly, the aircraft strike. It is entirely due to his bravery and skill that the strikes were successful and the enemy fire reduced by two-thirds.

MINISTRY OF DEFENCE

NAVY DEPARTMENT

Whitehall, London S.W.1.
27th August 1965.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve the following awards for distinguished service in operations in the Radfan Area, Western Aden Protectorate during the period 1st to 15th February 1965.

THE MILITARY CROSS

Lieutenant Douglas John BRAND, Royal Marines.

Lieutenant Brand was Officer Commanding 7 Troop, 'Z' Company, during Operation CUT. Despite very heavy and accurate fire from a party of dissidents this officer, with complete disregard for his own safety and in full view of the enemy, coolly and calmly moved up and down the firing line encouraging his men, checking their positions and controlling their fire. He was an inspiration to the whole of his Troop and it was entirely due to his good tactical foresight, determined control and personal example, that the casualties were kept down to one man. His conduct and bravery in the face of a very determined enemy were in the highest traditions of the service and the resulting excellent morale and determination of his Troop to close with the enemy was entirely due to his personal example.

THE MILITARY MEDAL

Quartermaster Sergeant (acting Regimental Sergeant Major) Robert William SMITH, Royal Marines PO/X 6620.

Q.M.S. Smith was the Company Sergeant Major of 'Z' Company Group during Operation CUT. When the dissident firing started, he was moving with Company Headquarters. He quickly moved forward across an exposed slope and joined the R Group. He then, with great determination and total disregard for his own safety, arranged the move forward and siting of the M.M.G. Section. Having completed this task, in full view of the enemy, and under heavy fire, he moved around the two forward Troops, redistributing ammunition, encouraging the men and assisting the Troop Commanders and Troop Sergeants in the control of their Troops. His conduct was an inspiration to all ranks and proved of immense value to his Company Commander. His bravery, inspiring personality and complete disregard for his own safety, were in the highest traditions of the service.

[Revised 22nd July 1965]

VISITING FORCES ACT, 1952, AND INTERNATIONAL HEADQUARTERS AND DEFENCE ORGANISATIONS ACT, 1964.

Statement Issued by the Secretary of State for Defence in Pursuance of Section 9 (2) of the Visiting Forces Act, 1952.

The nature and operation of the arrangements made by the Secretary of State for Defence under section 9 of the Visiting Forces Act, 1952, with regard to the settlement of claims against (1) Visiting Forces of the countries listed in the Schedule hereto and (2) International Headquarters or Defence Organisations designated for that purpose under the International Headquarters and Defence Organisations Act, 1964, are as follows:

PART I

(Claims against a Visiting Force)

1. The claims to which the arrangements relate are:

(a) Claims arising out of tortious acts committed on land in the United Kingdom by any member of one of the said Visiting Forces or its civilian component or any other act on land for which a Visiting Force or its civilian component is responsible in tort and claims other than contractual claims arising out of or in connection with the operation over the territory of the United Kingdom or the territorial waters thereof of an aircraft owned or controlled by a Visiting Force.

(b) Claims (hereinafter called maritime claims) in respect of death or personal injury caused by acts for which a Visiting Force of such a country is responsible in tort arising out of or in connection with the navigation or operation within the United Kingdom or the territorial waters thereof of a naval vessel of one of the said countries listed in the Schedule hereto or a ship engaged for the purposes of a Visiting Force present in the United Kingdom and owned by or at the risk of a country to which that Visiting Force belongs including claims in respect of death or personal injury arising out of the loading, carriage or discharge of the cargo from any such ship in the United Kingdom.

2. The arrangements apply to claims arising out of acts done on or after the dates shown against the countries listed in the Schedule.

3. Claimants must address their claims as follows:

(a) Claims other than maritime claims should be addressed to:

The Ministry of Defence, Claims Commission, York House, Kingsway, London W.C.2.

(b) Maritime claims should be addressed to:

The Ministry of Defence (Naval Law Division), Old Admiralty Building, Whitehall, London S.W.1.

4. If the alleged tortious act was committed in the performance of an official duty, the claim will be dealt with in the same manner as it would have been if such tortious act had been committed by a member of the British Armed Forces. If a settlement of the claim is reached by negotiation any sum due under that settlement will be paid by the Secretary of State for Defence. If a settlement of the claim cannot be reached by negotiation it is open to the claimant to bring proceedings in the British Courts in respect of his claim against the individual wrongdoer concerned and any sum due under any judgment of the Court obtained by the claimant will be paid to him (provided notice of the intention to start proceedings against the wrongdoer has been given to the authorities referred to in paragraph 3).

5. If on investigation of a claim it is ascertained that the act complained of was not done in the performance of an official duty, no responsibility for settlement will be accepted by the Secretary of State for Defence. The claim will, however, be investigated by the appropriate United Kingdom authority and a report prepared and submitted to the appropriate authority of the Visiting Force concerned so that the latter may consider whether or not an ex gratia payment might be made to the claimant direct by the particular Force concerned. A claimant, if he so desires, may institute proceedings against the individual concerned in respect of any act outside the scope of his official duty, but responsibility for satisfying a judgment obtained in these circumstances will not be accepted by the Secretary of State for Defence.

6. If a dispute arises whether a tortious act of a member of a Visiting Force or civilian component was committed in the performance of official duty the question may be submitted to a legal Arbitrator whose decision will be binding and conclusive upon all the parties concerned. The same course will be followed where a claimant is unable to identify the wrongdoer.

PART II

(Claims against an International Headquarters or Defence Organisation)

7. The claims to which the arrangements relate are:

(a) Claims arising out of tortious acts committed on land in the United Kingdom by a military or civilian member of any International Headquarters or Defence Organisation or arising out of any other act on land for which the said Headquarters or Organisation is responsible in tort and claims other than contractual claims arising out of or in connection with the operation over the territory of the United Kingdom or the territorial waters thereof of an aircraft owned or controlled by an International Headquarters or Defence Organisation.

(b) Claims (hereinafter called maritime claims) in respect of death or personal injury caused by acts for which an International Headquarters or Defence Organisation is responsible in tort arising out of or in connection with the navigation or operation within the United Kingdom or the territorial waters thereof of any ship engaged for the purposes and at the risk of an International Headquarters or Defence Organisation including any claims in respect of death or personal injury arising out of the loading, carriage or discharge of the cargo from any such ship in the United Kingdom.

8. The arrangements apply to claims arising out of acts done on or after the 2nd day of September 1965.

9. (a) Claims other than maritime claims should be addressed to:

The Ministry of Defence, Claims Commission, York House, Kingsway, London W.C.2.

(b) Maritime claims should be addressed to:

The Ministry of Defence (Naval Law Division), Old Admiralty Building, Whitehall, London S.W.1.

10. Claims in tort arising out of an act of an International Headquarters or Defence Organisation, or out of an act done in the performance of official duty by a military or civilian member of such Headquarters or Organisation, will be dealt with in the same way as a claim made against a Visiting Force in the United Kingdom. Thus if settlement of the claim is reached by negotiation any sum due under the settlement will be paid, by the Secretary of State for Defence. If settlement of the claim cannot be reached by negotiation it is open to a claimant to bring proceedings in the Courts of the United Kingdom in respect of his claim against (i) the individual tortfeasor concerned, and/or (ii) the responsible designated International Headquarters or Defence

Organisation if such Headquarters or Organisation has the legal capacity of a body corporate. Any legal proceedings against an International Headquarters or Defence Organisation will be subject to such special provisions as to immunity from legal process by way of execution and with regard to disclosure of official documents as may be conferred by the Designation Order under the International Headquarters and Defence Organisations Act, 1964. Any sum due under any judgment of the Court obtained by a claimant will be satisfied (provided notice of the intention to start proceedings has been given to the authorities mentioned in paragraph 9).

11. If on investigation of a claim it is ascertained that although the act complained of was done by a military or civilian member of an International Headquarters or Defence Organisation yet such act was not done in the performance of official duty, no responsibility for settlement will be accepted by the Secretary of State for Defence. The claim, however, will be investigated by the appropriate United Kingdom authority and a report prepared and submitted to the responsible International Headquarters or Defence Organisation concerned (or to the appropriate Visiting Force authority if the claim involves an attached military or civilian member of a Visiting Force) so that the latter may consider whether or not an ex gratia payment might be made by the said Headquarters or Defence Organisation (or by the Visiting Force Authority concerned). A claimant may if he so desires, institute proceedings against the individual concerned in respect of any act outside the scope of his official duty, but responsibility for satisfying a judgement obtained in those circumstances will not be accepted by the Secretary of State for Defence.

12. If a dispute arises as to whether or not the tortious act was done in the performance of official duty the question may be submitted to a legal arbitrator whose decision shall be final and conclusive upon the parties concerned, or, if the circumstances allow, be determined in legal proceedings. In those cases where a claimant is unable to identify the wrongdoer the same course will be followed.
