The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the distribution of the elements of a finite group. It is shown that the distribution is determined by the structure of the group and its subgroups. The second part of the paper is devoted to a study of the distribution of the elements of a finite group which are conjugate to a given element. It is shown that the distribution is determined by the structure of the group and its subgroups. The third part of the paper is devoted to a study of the distribution of the elements of a finite group which are conjugate to a given element. It is shown that the distribution is determined by the structure of the group and its subgroups.
