Windsor, August 24.

THE following Addresses have been presented to the Queen, congratulating Her Majesty on the Glorious Victory obtain'd over the French near Audenarde, by the Forces of Her Majesty and Her Allies, commanded by his Grace the Duke of Marlborough.

The humble Address of the Mayor, Recorder, and other the Burgeses of Her Majesty's antient Borough of Wilton in the County of Wilts; presented to Her Majesty by Sir Lambert Blackwell, one of their Representatives in Parliament, introduced by his Excellency the Earl of Pembroke, Lord-Lieutenant for the said County of Wilts.

The humble Address of the Mayor, Recorder, Bailiffs, Common-Council, and Burgeses of the Borough of Monmouth; presented to Her Majesty by Clayton Milborne, Esq; their Representative in Parliament, introduced by the Lord Treasurer.

Both which Addresses Her Majesty receiv'd very graciously.

Berne, August 22. N. S. Our Letters which arriv'd this Morning from the Duke of Savoy's Camp, bring us the following Account. On the 7th Monsieur Rhebinder, General of the Artillery, receiv'd Orders to March with a Body under his Command from Vachette to Sezanne; at the same time his Royal Highness commanded that all the Works on the Col des Echelles should be blown up, and the Ways on that side made impracticable. On the 8th the Army broke up from Bardonache, and encamp'd at Oulx. Monsieur de St. Remis, a Lieutenant-General, continued with 10 Battalions upon the Col de la Roue and at Bardonache, waiting for Orders to attack the Double Redoubt which the Enemy had made on the Col de Fenestrelle. On the 9th Monsieur de St. Remis sent intelligence, that the Enemy at his Approach had abandon'd their two Redoubts, having burnt the one and blown up the other. Orders were sent to Lieutenant-General St. Remis to march from the Col de la Roue and Bardonache, and join our Camp at Oulx; from whence were detach'd, at the same time, five other Battalions towards Exilles, under the Command of Lieutenant-General de Regal, in order to cover the Siege of that Place, against the Avenues to the higher Grounds. That General sent Advice, he had that Day drawn the first Parallel Line, and that the Cannon of Suza being arriv'd the Day before, he was then battering the Place. We receiv'd Advice from the Enemy, that the Marshal de Villars arriv'd at Briançon on the Evening of the 8th Instant. Major-General Schuylenbourg was likewise detach'd towards Exilles, to cover the Siege on the side of Mount Cenis. The Marquis d'Andouze, Son of the Marquis de Parille, was sent out with 1000 Foot, in order to oblige the Vaudois of the Valley of St. Martin, who had thrown themselves under the Protection of France, to return to their Obedience. On the 10th, General Rhebinder march'd with his Detachment to Rouilliers and Chancelas, to cover the Valley of Pragelas, and cut off the Enemy from Fenestrelle. Monsieur Panneuwif, Major-General of the Prussians, had Orders, with six Battalions, to possess himself of the Posts near Sezanne. On the 11th his Royal Highness, attended by some General Officers, went to visit the Posts at Sezanne, which had been taken under the Command of General Rhebinder. Soon after, the Enemy began to charge our Advanc'd Guards with so great numbers, that we were obliged to retire, which we did in very good Order, making frequent Stands, facing and firing upon the Enemy; but seeing the Enemy, who charg'd our advanc'd Guard, join'd by great Reinforcements, and marching towards us in two Columns; it was thought fit to quit our Posts on that side of the Doire, and retire over the Bridge. The six Battalions under Major-General Panneuwif, retreated also towards the Foot of the Mountain; which being observ'd by the Enemy, they form'd their Infantry as they came up into Order of Battle, and towards the Evening made a Body of 37 Battalions. His Royal Highness observing this great superiority of the Enemy, in that Post, and apprehending more of their Troops might arrive to Charge our Battalions, which were dispers'd in different Stations, or that they might place themselves between Oulx and Sezanne, gave Orders to Major-General Panneuwif to quit the Post of Sezanne, and March in the Night with his six Battalions to the Camp of Oulx, which was done accordingly. General Rhebinder had, at the same time, Orders to direct his March again towards the Valley of Pragelas. On the 12th his Royal Highness march'd with his Army from Oulx. At his Approach near Exilles, there was so great a Breach made, that the Commanding Officer beat a Parley in the Evening, and surrender'd himself and Garrison Prisoners of War. On the 13th in the Morning the Garrison march'd out, and his Royal Highness receiv'd Advice, that the Fort of la Perouse, where there had been a Garrison of the Enemy, was possess'd by his Royal Highness's Troops; and that the Valley of St. Martin had submitted to his Obedience. The Army march'd this Day to Chamont. On the 14th our Army march'd to Cheance, and at the departure of the Courier with these Advices, they were continuing their March to Fenestrelles, where General Rhebinder was before arriv'd with his Detachment, and had possess'd himself of several advantageous Posts. His Royal Highness left the Baron de Regal at Exilles, to command there with 10 Battalions; and repair the Breaches. It is computed, the Marquis d'Andouze, who took the Forts of la Perouse, and of the Valley of St. Martin, had made in those Places 900 Prisoners of War.

From the Camp at Amougies, Aug. 27. N. S. On Wednesday the 22d, between 7 and 8 in the Evening, the Trenches were opened before Lille on the Right and Left of the Lower Deule; the former by Mr. des Roques, and the other by Mr. Dumey, chief Engineers. Four thousand Workmen were commanded for this Service, cover'd by ten Battalions of the Imperial, Palatin and Hessian Troops, commanded by Lieutenant-General Wike and Major-General Volkerhoven; ten Battalions more and six hundred Horse were ready to sustain them, but the
