AIR FORCE DEPARTMENT

CENTRAL CHANCERY OF
THE ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD

St. James's Palace, London S.W.1.
 22nd October 1968.

The QUEEN has been graciously pleased to approve the award of the British Empire Medal for Gallantry (Military Division) to the undermentioned:

L4011163 Flight Sergeant Gordon Frederick DITCHFIELD, Royal Air Force Regiment.

On 27th March 1968, the Master of the SS Daphne called upon Royal Air Force, Masirah, for assistance in fighting a serious fire which had broken out on board ship. Sea conditions were difficult, with a long rolling swell and the ship was moored some three miles from the shore. Shade temperatures averaged 87° and in the sun, at mid-day, temperatures rose to 130°. A party of three Royal Air Force firemen was despatched to SS Daphne, under the command of Flight Sergeant Ditchfield. Upon arrival the Flight Sergeant assumed control of the operations of his own party, plus those of the ship's crew members detailed for fire fighting. His difficulties were immense. He was working in an unfamiliar environment; the ship's motion made working conditions difficult, particularly when carrying equipment along narrow corridors and down steep walkways. He was not trained in fighting ship fires and was completely unaware of the details of the ship's fire fighting facilities, the structural layout between decks and around the holds, and the disposal and nature of the cargo carried. The fire was intense and gave off much thick smoke. The combination of the smoke, plus the heat generated by the fire, which was aggravated by the naturally hot climate of the Persian Gulf, placed a severe strain on the physical endurance of the fire fighting party, especially when working in confined spaces between decks. It was not always possible to relieve the R.A.F. members of the fire fighting party by trained firemen and, on several occasions, Flight Sergeant Ditchfield had to work with members of the Station Emergency Guard, who were only trained in the most elementary form of fire fighting. The ship's crew were similarly extended and had to use all hands, semi-skilled or unskilled, to assist with the task. Flight Sergeant Ditchfield personally made four attempts to enter the main hold to locate the seat of the fire and he remained in charge of the operation for five days and nights, until the fire was extinguished. He fully appreciated that these attempts were fraught with danger and that, had an explosion occurred in the hold, the consequences would have been catastrophic for him and ultimately for the ship. No members of the ship's crew would venture as far into the hold because of the high risk involved. Despite fatigue, irregular meals and very little sleep, Flight Sergeant Ditchfield directed his limited resources and his largely inexperienced fire fighting force, with courage, initiative and exceptional determination. Throughout, under exacting conditions, he displayed outstanding devotion to duty. His calm and efficient leadership gave both inspiration and continuity to the fire fighting team and his professional skill and personal example were major factors in countering this serious emergency, which might well have led to the loss of the ship. His performance was in accord with the highest traditions of the Service.
