TRIAL OF THE PYX OF THE LONDON MINT VERDICT

1. We, whose names are hereunder written, were sworn on the 27th day of February 1969 before the Queen's Remembrancer at Goldsmiths' Hall in the City of London to make assays and trials of Her Majesty's coins which, according to accounts produced by the Officers of the Royal Mint in London were coined in the said Mint from the 1st day of January 1968 to the 31st day of December 1968, both dates inclusive, in accordance with the Coinage Acts, 1870 to 1946, or the Decimal Currency Act, 1967, and were set aside and placed in the pyx of the said Mint as prescribed by regulations made under the said Acts.

2. In this Verdict the expression "the Coinage Acts" means the Coinage Acts, 1870 to 1946, the expression "the Decimal Currency Act" means the Decimal Currency Act, 1967, and the expressions "permitted variation from standard weight", "permitted variation from standard fineness", "permitted variation from standard composition" and "permitted variation from standard diameter" means respectively the variation from the standard weight, the variation from the standard fineness, the variation from the standard composition and the variation from the standard diameter allowed under the coinage Acts, in respect of coins made in accordance with those Acts or under the Decimal Currency

Act in respect of coins made in accordance with that Act.

3. We ascertained the number of coins in each packet produced to us and that such number corresponded with the number which the Officers of the Mint represented the packet to contain.

4. (a) From each of the 94 packets of gold coins we took out one sovereign.

(b) We weighed in bulk the said sovereigns so taken out and we ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, being 0.26 grams above standard weight.

(c) we then melted such sovereigns into an ingot and assayed such ingot comparing it with the standard trial plate of gold and we found that the metal of such ingot was within the permitted variation from standard fineness, the amount of variation from standard fineness being minus twenty-two hundred-thousandth parts ( $-0.00022$ ).

(d) We weighed in bulk the residue of the coins remaining in the packet of gold coins and we ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, being 6.66 grams above standard weight.

(e) We then took out from such residue six sovereigns and weighed each of them separately and we found that its variation from standard weight was the amount recorded in respect thereof in the First Schedule hereto and that each of the last-mentioned sovereigns was therefore within the permitted variation from standard weight.

(f) We then assayed separately each of the last-mentioned sovereigns and we found that its variation from standard fineness was the amount recorded in respect thereof in the First Schedule hereto and that each of the last-mentioned sovereigns were therefore within the permitted variation from standard fineness.

5. (a) We weighed in bulk all the silver coins in the said pyx and we ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, being 0.22 grams above standard weight.

(b) We then assayed such silver coins comparing them with the standard trial plate of silver and we found that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard fineness, the amount of variation from standard fineness being minus fort-seven hundred-thousandth parts ( $-0.00047$ ).

6. (a) We found that the cupro-nickel coins in the said pyx weighed in all more than .500 grams and the cupro nickel coins of each denomination weighed more than one kilogram.

(b) We took out one or more coins from each packet of cupro-nickel coins.

(c) We grouped the cupro-nickel coins so taken out into ten lots each comprising coins of one denomination and weighing not less than 980 grams nor more than one kilogram each.

(d) We weighed in bulk such lot of cupro-nickel coins and ascertained that the amount of its variation from standard weight was the amount recorded in respect thereof in the Second Schedule hereto and that the coins in each lot were therefore within the permitted variation from standard weight.

(e) We weighed in bulk the residue of the coins remaining in the packets of cupro-nickel coins and we ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight being 166.7 grams below standard weight.

(f) We then assayed cupro-nickel coins weighing in all not less than 500 grams comparing them with the standard trial plates of copper and nickel and we ascertained that such coins were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard composition, the amounts of the only variations from standard composition being for half-crowns florins and sixpences minus one tenth of one per centum ( $-0.1$  per cent.) of copper and for coins of the ten new pence and the five new pence denominations minus one tenth of one per centum ( $-0.1$  per cent.) of nickel.

(g) We measured the diameter of 20 coins of the ten new pence denomination and we ascertained that the average diameter of such coins was within the permitted variation from standard diameter, being minus 0.05 millimetres.

(h) We measured the diameter of 20 coins of the five new pence denomination and we ascertained that the average diameter of such coins was within the permitted variation from standard diameter, the amount of variation from standard diameter being minus 0.05 millimetres.

Dated the 9th day of May 1969.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE

The amounts (stated in grams) of variation from the standard weight of the six sovereigns separately weighed and assayed were respectively plus 0.0039, plus 0.0016, plus 0.0063, plus 0.0036, plus 0.0028 and minus 0.0021.

The amounts (stated in hundred-thousandth parts) of variation from the standard fineness of the same sovereigns were respectively minus 7, minus 10, minus 54, minus 29, minus 36 and plus 2.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE

The amounts (stated in grams) of variation from the standard weight of the ten lots of cupro-nickel coins mentioned above were
