Goldsmiths' Hall,
Foster Lane,
London E.C2.

TRIAL OF THE PYX OF THE LONDON MINT

Verdict

1. We, whose names are hereunder written, were sworn on the 1st day of March 1974 before the Queen's Remembrancer at Goldsmiths' Hall in the City of London to make assays and trial of Her Majesty's coins which, according to accounts produced by the officers of the Royal Mint, were coined in the said Mint from the 1st day of January 1973 to the 31st day of December 1973, both days inclusive, in accordance with the Coinage Act 1971, the Proclamation dated the 23rd day of October 1972 for determining the specification and design for the twenty-five new pence coins commemorating Her Majesty The Queen's silver wedding anniversary, the Proclamation dated the 23rd day of December 1968 for determining the specifications and design for a fifty new pence coin or the Proclamation dated the 20th day of December 1972 for determining the design for the fifty new pence coin commemorating the accession of the United Kingdom to the European Communities, and were set aside and placed in the pyx of the said Mint, as prescribed by The Trial of the Pyx Order 1969 as amended by The Trial of the Pyx (Amendment) Order 1971.

2. In this verdict the expressions "permitted variation from standard weight", "permitted variation from standard fineness", "permitted variation from standard composition" and "permitted variation from standard diameter" mean respectively, the variation from the standard weight, the variation from the standard fineness, the variation from the standard composition and the variation from the standard diameter allowed under the said Act and Proclamations for coins made in accordance with the said Act and Proclamations respectively.

3. We ascertained the number of coins in each packet produced to us and that such number corresponded with the number which the officers of the Mint represented the packet to contain.

4. We found no gold coins in the said pyx.

5. (a) We weighed in bulk (in lots weighing not more than one kilogram each) all the silver coins in the said Pyx and we ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, being point one two (—0.12) grams below standard weight.

(b) We then assayed forty-eight silver coins comparing them with the standard trial plate of silver and we found that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard fineness, the amount of variation being plus twenty-six ten-thousandths parts (+0.0026).

(c) We measured the diameter of eighteen silver coins of the twenty-five new pence denomination and we ascertained that the average diameter of the measured coins was within the permitted variation from standard diameter, the amount of variation (stated in hundredth parts of a millimetre) being minus two (—0.02).

6. (a) We found that the cupro-nickel coins in the said pyx weighed in all more than five hundred grams and that the cupro-nickel coins of each of the fifty, the twenty-five and the ten new pence denominations therein weighed more than one kilogram and that the cupro-nickel coins of the five new pence denomination weighed not more than one kilogram.

(b) We took out all the coins of the last mentioned denomination and weighed them in bulk and we ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight being point three grams (—0.3) below standard weight.

(c) We took out one or more coins from each packet of cupro-nickel coins of the other denominations aforesaid.

(d) We grouped the coins so taken out into fourteen lots each comprising coins of one denomination and weighing not less than nine hundred and eighty grams nor more than one kilogram.

(e) We weighed in bulk each such lot and ascertained that the amount of its variation (if any) from standard weight was the amount recorded in respect thereof in the Schedule hereto and that the coins in each lot were therefore within the permitted variation from standard weight.

(f) We weighed in bulk the residue of the coins remaining in the packets of cupro-nickel coins and we ascertained that they were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard weight, being five hundred and fifty four point seven (+554.7) grams above standard weight.

(g) We then assayed cupro-nickel coins weighing in all not less than five hundred grams, comparing them with the standard trial plates of copper and nickel, and we ascertained that such coins were on the whole within the permitted variation from standard composition, the amounts of variation being for coins of the fifty new pence denomination minus point two per centum (-0.2%) of copper, for coins of the twenty-five new pence denomination minus point one per centum (-0.1%) of copper and minus point two per centum (-0.2%) of nickel, for coins of the ten new pence denomination minus point one per centum (-0.1%) of copper and for coins of the five new pence denomination minus point five per centum (-0.5%) of copper and plus point three per centum ($+0.3\%$) of nickel.

(h) We measured the diameter of twenty cupro-nickel coins of each of the said denominations and we ascertained that the average diameter of the measured coins of each of the said denominations was within the permitted variation from standard diameter, the amounts of variation (if any, stated in hundredth parts of a millimetre) being for coins of the fifty new pence denomination no variation, for coins of the twenty-five new pence denomination minus two (-0.02) for coins of the ten new pence denomination minus three (-0.03) and for coins of the five new pence denomination minus three (-0.03).

Dated the 3rd day of May 1974.

THE SCHEDULE

The amounts (stated in grams, of variation (if any) from standard weight of the fourteen lots of cupro-nickel coins mentioned above were:

for two lots of 74 coins of the fifty new pence denomination: one point eight (1.8) and one point eight (1.8) above standard weight; for one lot of 35 coins of the twenty-five new pence denomination: one point five (1.5) above standard weight;

for eleven lots of 88 coins of the ten new pence denomination: two point eight (2.8), two point one (2.1), one point eight (1.8), one point seven (1.7), one point seven (1.7), one (1.0), and point seven (0.7) above standard weight, no variation, and point four (0.4), one point four (1.4), and one point six (1.6) below standard weight.
