

Berwick St. John : It encompasses the majority of the village. The northern line bounds Manor Farm and Winklebury House and incorporates land to the rear of the Talbot Inn and The Priory. Trees to the east of The Priory constitute the eastern boundary. To the south the line bounds properties and fields fronting onto both sides of Water Street, including a tight line around Upton Farm. To the west the line bounds property to varying depths on both sides of Luke Street.

Broad Chalke : It encompasses the whole of the village to include Gurston House and several other outlying buildings in the extreme western edge of the village (referred to as Little London and Mount Sorrel) and also Chalk Pit House and an outlying farm to the north of the main village itself.

Fisherton de la Mere : It encompasses the majority of the village. The northern boundary follows the A.36 as far east as the lane leading down to the village. This lane constitutes the eastern boundary, incorporating the small copse at the bend and continuing southwards to the river. To the south the River Wylye, including the millpond, represents the boundary and to the west the line bounds the rear of properties fronting onto the river and the main village road. The line then follows the main village road northwards to the A.36.

Great Wishford : To the north the line bounds the Royal Oak Inn and the Manor Farm and adjacent fields. To the east the line bounds the rear of the Rectory and the rear of property fronting onto the eastern side of South Street. The boundary terminates to the south at the beginning of the new development at Town End whilst to the west the boundary excludes the new development along the Wilton Road.

Stourton : It encompasses all of the village, the B.3092 representing the eastern boundary. To the north the line bounds Coldcot Cottages and Stourton Lane as far as (and including) the row of houses. From this point a row of trees constitute the boundary as far west as Terrace Lodge.

To the west the line follows the boundary of the trees (so as to incorporate the Obelisk) and then cuts through the wood, well to the west of the Garden Lake, up to (but not including) Beech Cottage. The line then bounds Turner's Paddock Lane and terminates south of The Kennels. The limit of the trees bordering onto the Class C road through Stourton constitutes the southern boundary as far east as the Church. From here the rear of the car park and land adjacent to Glebe Farm and the Rectory, where they link with the B.3092, comprise the southern boundary.

Tisbury : It encompasses the majority of Tisbury. To the north the boundary extends along the Hindon Road, stopping short of Hillstreet Farm, but incorporating property to varying depths on both sides of the road, including Tisbury House. The line then bounds Canonbury House and continues eastwards along the northern side of Duck Street, including Jemima Cottage but excluding the recent industrial development north of Court Street. Place Farm and the Tithe Barn form the extent of the area eastwards, as the line bounds the isolated buildings south of Place Farm, adjacent to the railway line, and the properties known as Court Street.

The line continues along the southern side of Park Road, so as to exclude the new development around New Road, and then bounds the rear of property to varying depths on the eastern side of the High Street, extending southwards to the railway line to incorporate the Church. To the west the line bounds the Church, school, Vicar's cottages and extends to the west to include Tuckingmill Farm before bounding property to varying depths on the western side of the High Street, incorporating the houses on the narrow lanes south of Tisbury House.

Whiteparish : From a point just west of Young's Farm, the boundary line runs northwards as far as the footpath in this area. It then bends eastwards to form the northern boundary, encompassing the rear of Abbotstone House and the properties bordering the main street, extending as far as the minor road running roughly northwards. The line then turns southwards towards the main road running through the village, to exclude recent development in this area but to include several listed buildings in the vicinity of the "White Hart" public house, and continues eastwards as far as "New Inn". From here the boundary turns westwards to form the southern boundary line, to include the rear of properties here bordering the main street (including All Saints' Church) and extending as far as the position just west of Young's Farm, excluding recent development in this area.

Wylye : It encompasses the majority of Wylye. To the west the boundary commences at the junction of the A.303T with the Class C road to Warminster, and the line bounds the rear of properties fronting onto the A.303T (including Town's End) and terminates at the river so as to include the properties to the west of the bridge. First the River Wylye and then the Corn Mill and its environs constitute the northern boundary. To the east the line bounds Wyvern Hall and St. Mary's Church, and follows Church Street as far east as Sheepwash Lane. The line then bounds the house called "Chequers" and extends along Fore Street tight around the houses east of "Chequers". The railway line represents the southern boundary.

Thamesdown Borough

Castle Eaton : It encompasses the majority of the village. The northern boundary is formed for most of its length by the southern banks of The Thames, extending from a point just west of Well House to a point north of St. Mary's Church. It then bends southwards, bordering the rear of Manor Farm, extending as far as the road running eastwards out of the village.

The boundary next turns westwards, following this road for a short distance, but then bends northwards, at varying distances, to omit recent new development in this area but including the rear of properties bordering the High Street.

West Wiltshire District

Edington : It encompasses the majority of the village. To the north, the boundary includes the immediate area round the Fish Ponds, whilst the eastern boundary runs southwards towards the B.3098.

To the south the boundary continues westwards to include the rear of properties bordering the southern side of the B.3098, and terminates amidst the recent new development which is spread eastwards of Parsonage Farm. The western boundary continues northwards towards Fish Ponds to include Parsonage Farm and Manor Farm.

Holt : Encompasses the majority of the village. The southern line bounds several outlying farms and bends northwards towards Station Road forming the eastern boundary line to include an area of fields to its west and excluding recent new development to its east. The northern boundary line also omits more recent new development, whilst the western line borders the rear of the bedding and leather factories, to also include Holt Farm.

Monkton Farleigh : The boundary of the proposed Conservation Area encompasses the majority of the village, generally following the tracts of road which run past the village on its western, northern and eastern sides and includes the rear of properties bordering this area. In the south, the boundary lies just north of Broadstones, to include an area of green fields to its north, and excluding more recent new development to its south.
