The same Letters add, that the Swedes have given the Sequestration of what they hold in that Province to his Prussian Majesty, in order to be preserved from the Insults of their Enemies. They write from Adrianople, that the Port had declared to the King of Sweden, that in case he persists in refusing the Convoy with which they offer to guard him to his own Dominions, they shall be obliged to take other Measures which will not be agreeable to him. But other Advices say on the contrary, that the Grand Signior was resolved to espouse his Majesty's Interests with Vigour, and to declare War against the Muscovites.
