Cadiz, Octob. 19. The 7th instant the Greenwich; Cap. Robinson Commander, having under his Convoy a Fleet of 76 sail, made as far as the Burlings, where he lay by the next morning till he had seen all his Convoy's for that place past danger; the next day happened a violent storm, which might have endangered the separation of the Fleet, but by the extraordinary care of the said Captain, they were got together the next morning very well, six of his number put this day into Faro, and some others into St Lucars and Trevercro, the rest of the Fleet being 60 sayl, are now arrived safely before this place, some of them are expected to come in here, the rest may sail by to morrow towards the Streights.

Here is now riding in this Bay the Holmes Fregat, Captain Henry Clark Commander, lately come in from the coast of Barbary before Sally, where having been cruising, on the 5th instant about twelve of the clock he discovered two sail coming along by the shoar from the Southwards with the wind at North West; One of them a man of War kept the Offing, and weathered the Holmes about Musket shot, whereupon the Captain tacked upon the broad side of her, and kept there for the space of an hour, firing many broad sides upon her; it afterwards proving little wind, and that shifting to the Southwards of the West, the Sally man got large from him, and afterwards forced it to Sally over the Bar very much shattered; the Captain then bore up for the other vessel which was under the shoar, supposed to be a prize, which immediately ran on shoar and there stuck, and that night overfet, and staved all to pieces.

The 14 instant about six in the morning he discovered three sayl coming in from sea, having but little wind at South, standing in hopes to weather him; between seven and eight they met together within Musket shot or less, at which time it proved a stark calm, two of these proved to be the Admiral and Vice Admiral of Sally, having each of them about eight Guas and as many Pedero's, and very full of men: before eight of the clock in the forenoon they began to engage, and continued in fight until six in the afternoon, in all which time the Captain could not (with all the arts he could use) get aboard either of them; between five and six in the afternoon, the Vice Admiral being very much shattered and torn, ran on shoar with the third ship, supposed to be a prize, where they both immediately struck, the Vice Admiral oversetting; the Admiral came to an Anchor just without the breach of the shoar, whom the Captain presently beat from his Anchor, after which he ran to the Southwards, just without the breach, whither it being now night, the Captain thought not fit to follow, being also desirous to see the other wholly destroyed. The next day the Admiral was seen riding within a ledg of Rocks, about six leagues to the Southwards of Sally, but then the Captain finding his Ammunition spent, to three Rounds of Powder, and his Ship somewhat disordered by the former service, thought it more convenient to return for this Port; in this fight he had but two men killed outright and ten hurt, of which three are supposed to be in danger.

Legorn,

Leghorn, Octob. 21. The Cardinal de Medicis continues ill of a double Tertian Ague, with such violent accessions, that the Court apprehends much danger from his distemper.

We have here confirmed to us the taking of a Polish of Tunis near Aleant by Six of the Spanish Gallies, after a sharp dispute, in which the General of the Gallies was killed, and above Sixty of his men.

The Marquis de Martel who Commands a French Squadron of men of war, has near Tabarka taken a ship and a Bark of Tunis.

Lisbonne, Octob. 29. This last week came in here four French men of War who inform that the Count d'Estre was passed by this place with a Squadron of nine stout French men of war, intending to touch at the Canaries, and from thence to pass along by the Coasts of Affrica as far as Cape de Verde.

Hambourg, Octob. 21. From Stockholm we are told that their Majesties of Swedeland continued their diversions in the Countrey, but were expected the 18th instant at Stockholm; that the Heer Heinrich has given that Court an account of his ill success in his Negotiation in Muscovy; but the late success of the Rebels against the Great Duke may probably induce him to come to some more reasonable terms of accommodation with the Crown of Sweden.

Five ships which we have long expected here from Muscovy are now happily arrived, with Letters informing us, that many of the people of the loosest conversations, and such as were guilty of some notorious crimes, are fled from Moscow and other places, to the Rebels, who entertain them in their service, and are endeavouring to fortify and secure the places of which they have lately possessed themselves.

General Wrangel is by an indisposition of body confined in the Island of Oisel; several Swedish Regiments are said to have lately passed the sea towards Germany, of whom the Danes are said to have an apprehension.

As yet nothing is concluded in the dispute about Regenstein, the Elector of Brandenbourg confirms his pretensions, and has lately produced some evidences, by which he endeavors to prove, that that County has been a Fief of Hulberstat for the space of above 300 years.

The late invasion of Lorraine has much allarmed the Cantons of Switzerland as well as other Countreys; insomuch as the Thirteen Cantons are said to have joyned in a resolution to raise forces, to send a considerable part of them to secure Basse, and the rest into France.

The Princes of Issau's forces are said to be entred upon the possession of Hombourg, according to an agreement between them and the Prince of Lorraine, to whom it was formerly mortgaged.

The Elector of Mayence is levying forces, partly to furnish out his proportion with the rest of the Princes and States of the Empire upon the account of the publick safety, and partly to entertain under pay the old soldiers who might otherwise be tempted to pass into some other Countrey, and to take an employment to the service of the Empire.

From Vienna we are told, that the Count Schafgots is gone for Poland to assist at the Queens Coronation, but is instructed to invite the States of that kingdom to draw their forces together to joyn with the Emperors Army, in case the Turks should be induced to make any attempt upon either Nation.

Brussels, Nov. 7. Yesterday in the evening his Excellency the Count de Monterey returned hither bringing with him his Lady, whom he received upon the frontiers of France, from whence she came on Tuesday last to Mons, and from thence the next day to Enguyen, and was in all places by which she pass, saluted by the Great Guns, and entertained with all other marks of respect imaginable; she intends for some days to continue here privately, till her preparation be made for her solemn entry, which his believed will be deferred till the 1st instant, that being also the birth-day of the young King of Spain, who then enters into the 10th year of his age.

Letters of the 1st instant from Triers tell us, that the Duke of Lorraine, who had passed some time in the neighborhood, went thence to Coblenz to visit the Elector their Archbishop, who having by a Courier received Letters from the Emperor, which much pleased him, he departed thence intending for Mayence, there to meet with the Elector of that name, lately for that purpose returned from Wurzburg; about the same time passed by Triers Two Ambassadors from the Swisses sent to the Duke of Lorraine, who may also find him at Mayence.

In the mean time the French are taking up their Winter Quarters in Lorraine, the Royal Regiment consisting of 23 Companies are already quartered in Nancy, with the Troop of Guards belonging to the Marechal de Crequy, and another Troop in the Bayliwick, and the Country obliged to furnish them with all Conveniencies.

Paris, Nov. 8. On Wednesday last the Marquis de Louvois went hence for Flanders to visit the fortifications, and to take a view of the several Garrisons; he intends also to look into the business of Trade, to encourage (as much as possible), that of Lille and Tournay, and endeavor to draw thither the Commerce of all the neighbouring Spanish Towns.

Yesterday went hence the Provost des Marchands of Lyonne, carrying with him some priviledges granted by his most Christian Majesty for the establishment of the manufactory of Linnen Cloth at Tarrare.

The 2<sup>d</sup> instant the Bishop of Metz took his oath of fidelity after the usual manner between the hands of his Majesty; and the same day the Envoye Extraordinary from the Great Duke of Tuscany was introduced to his Audience from his Majesty at St Germain, by the Sieur de Berlise, the usual Officer for the Introduction of Ambassadors; the same afternoon their Majesties went thence to Versailles.

The Marquis d'Angeau, who was designed by his Majesty to be sent into Swedeland with the Character of Ambassador, sets not forwards on that employment till the next Spring.

His Majesty has ordered it to be publisht in all places of the frontiers of Franche Comte that all such French as are now within that County, immediately return into his Dominions upon pain of death.

The Duke of Lorraine is visiting several of the Princes of Germany, to sollicite their assistance for the recovery of his Countrey.

The Elector of Cologne, the Duke of Bavaria, the Bishop of Strasbourg, with some others, are designing to meet in consultation at Munchen, whither his Majesty intends to send his Minister to consider of the present state of affairs in relation to the interest of France.

We are lately advised that Two ships belonging to the East India Company, which left Port Louis on the 9th of May, arrived the 19th of June in the Road of Cape de Vert; and that on the 23 of the same month the ship called the Crowned Dolphin came also thither, and intended to pass thence together in company the beginning of the next month. The Squadron under the Command of the Sieur de la Haye, had watered at the same place, and sailed thence the 10th of May.

Portsmouth Novem. 5. The third instant arrived in St Hellens road Sir Thomas Allen, late Admiral of His Majesties Fleet in the Streights, who left Cadix the 19th of the last month, in company with two small Bristol ships laden from St Lucar.
