Vienna October 20. N. S. The 18th the Empress was crowned Queen of Hungary at Presbourg, with all the Solemnities usual on that occasion. The States of that Kingdom have chosen for their Palatine Count Nicholas Palfi, in the room of Prince Esterhazy, Deceased. Their Imperial Majesties propose to return hither from Presbourg the 26th Instant; and if the States assembled there do not finish the Business they have before them by that time, Prince Eugene of Savoy, or Count Trautson, will be left behind till the Diet breaks up. The 15th arrived here the Valet de Chambre of M. Fabricius, Envoy of Holstein to the King of Sweden: He left Demotica the 2d of this Month, and brings Advice, that his Swedish Majesty set out from that Place the Day before, having received a Present from the Grand Signior of a Tent, a Sabre, and eleven Horses with very fine Furniture after the Turkish Fashion. His said Majesty was to pass thro' Wallachia to Transilvania, where he hoped to arrive about the end of this Month: His Retinue would consist of above a thousand Persons, when those from Bender had joined him: He intended to continue his Journey through Hungary, Austria, Bavaria, and the Upper Germany.

Ratisbon, October 22. N. S. The Treaty of Peace between the Emperor and Empire and France, concluded at Baden the 7th of September, 1714. has been made publick here. The third Article of it runs in the following Terms. 'The Treaties of Westphalia, Nimeguen, and Ryswick. shall be the Basis and Foundation of this Peace and immediately after the Exchange of the Ratifications, they shall be intirely put in Execution, as well in regard to Spirituals as Temporal and be inviolably observed for the future, unless in what is otherwise agreed by this Treaty. Accordingly, what ever Alterations were made during the last War or before it, or whatever was not at all or but imperfectly executed, or being executed was again altered, if in Fact it shall so appear to have been, shall be put into such a State in the Empire and its Dependences, as by the said Treaty of Ryswick is prescribed. In the 10th Article 'tis expressly said, 'That all and singular the Articles of the Treaty of Ryswick are to be held for inserted in this of Baden, and shall have Effect as if the Tenour of them were word for word repeated in this. By the 12th Article 'tis provided, 'That the King of France shall restore to the Elector Palatine, and other Princes and States of the Empire, whatever Territories of theirs he now stands possessed of, by Arms or otherwise, contrary to the Treaty of Ryswick, and shall perform all the Conditions and Clauses of that Treaty: And as France engages likewise to make good to the Duke of Lorraine all that was stipulated in his behalf by the Treaty of Ryswick, so the Emperor and Empire promise to perform the Restitutions which by the same Treaty they are obliged to make to France, on the Terms of that Treaty. The Article of the Treaty of Baden, which transfers to the King of Prussia that part of Gelderland now in his Possession provides, 'That it shall be maintain'd for ever in the same State it was in under King Charles II. of Spain, without the least Prejudice to the Roman Catholick Religion there. The Articles relating to Italy and the Netherlands are almost wholly conformable to the Treaty of Rastatt. The chief Import of the Articles which relate to the Restitution of the House of Bavaria is, 'That the Electors of Cologne and Bavaria shall be intirely restored to all the Dominions, Ranks, Prerogatives, and Dignities, and be reinstated in all the Rights which they did or might have enjoyed before the last War; that all Records and Papers Household Furniture, Jewels and generally all Effects of what Nature soever together with all Artillery and Stores of War, which have been removed since the Emperor or his Predecessors had Possession of Bavaria, shall be restored, according to Authentick Inventories to be produced on both sides; and that the just Value of such of those Effects of any kind as are wanting, or have been changed into other Forms, or cannot well be found, shall be paid in ready Money, or be made good as shall be otherwise agreed. 'Tis likewise particularly stipulated 'That the Elector of Cologne shall take Possession of his Bishopric of Hildesheim with all the Prerogatives, Rights, and Effects belonging to that Bishoprick and Church as they were possessed, or ought to have been possid'd by the Bishops his Predecessors, and that Church before the last War; so that no Dispute or Pretension, by whomsoever raised or to be raised, shall hinder his intire Restitution thereunto. Upon the fore-mentioned plenary Restitution, the said two Brothers of the House of Bavaria, shall be obliged to renounce for ever all Pretensions of Satisfaction or Reparation, which on account of the last War they might have against the Emperor, the Empire, and the House of Austria; all and singular which Pretensions are to be deemed henceforward as abolished, and now are and for ever shall remain void and null: In like manner, all Demands from the said two Brothers, of Satisfaction and Reparation, by whomsoever made or to be made, on account of this War, shall be looked upon as abolished, void, and null, from this time and for ever. And if the Bavarian House, when intirely restored, shall judge it expedient and for its Interest to exchange any of its Dominions for others, his most Christian Majesty shall not give any Obstruction to it. The last Article of this Treaty of Baden, says, 'That the Electors, Princes, and States of the Empire, having referred it to the Emperor to cause his Plenipotentiaries to act for them, they the said Imperial Plenipotentiaries and those of France do sign this Treaty absolutely, agreeing that no Protestation or Contradiction shall be received or be of any Validity against it.

This Treaty having been communicated the 2d of this Month to the Diet of the Empire assembled here, the three Colleges came to an unanimous Resolution the 6th, to return Thanks to the Emperor for his Paternal Care in making the Peace, and humbly to desire him to ratifie and confirm it in his own and the Empire's Name.

The same Day the Ministers of the Protestant Body made a Protestation, importing, ' That they had joined in the said Resolution, being unwilling, upon the Motives urged on the Part of the Emperor, and of the States which are most exposed on the Frontier to retard the Ratification of the Peace made by his Imperial Majesty, in vertue of the full Power given him by the Empire: That however, having not only humbly addressed his Imperial Majesty on the 11th of April in the Name of their Principals, to cause the third Article of the Treaty of Rastat to be so explained in the future Congress to be held, as to render it conformable to the fourth and fifth Articles of the Treaty of Westphalia, and leave the Electors, Princes and States no ground to apprehend the known Clause in that of Rylwick, or any other Abuses, but having also expressly founded the giving their full Power to the Emperor for the Treaty on such an Explanation (as appeared by the Protocols of the 21st of April.) and lastly, having made several Remonstrances to the Imperial and French Ambassies at Baden; notwithstanding all which the third Article of the Treaty of Baden was left the very same with the third Article of that of Rastat, without any regard to their several Representations, they found themselves obliged to declare unanimously in the Name of the whole Protestant Body, that as they could not suffer themselves to be forced from the Treaty of Westphalia, in what related to the Settlement of their Religion, so they would not hold themselves obliged by the Peace of Baden, so far as it is contrary to that of Westphalia in Matters of Religion, but protested in the strongest manner against all that is contrary thereto; reserving to themselves all their Rights, in pursuance of their common Vote on the 21st of April, which Vote, so far as it relates to the Reservations therein mentioned, they hereby expressly renewed.

The same Day likewise the Baron de Seckingen, Minister of the Elector Palatine, made a Protestation in the Name of his Master, ' against the surrendering of the Upper Palatine to the Elector of Bavaria, before due Satisfaction, by way of Equivalent for the same, be given to his Electoral Highness.

'Tis reported here, that the British Minister at the Court of France has procured a Promise, that a Declaration shall be made in the Name of his most Christian Majesty, by the Person who shall be sent hither, that he will not obstruct the entire Execution of the Treaty of Westphalia, and that therefore the third Article of the Treaties of Rastat and Baden shall not be any Prejudice to the Affairs of Religion in the Empire, pursuant to the Stipulations into which his said Majesty entered by his Treaties made at Utrecht with the late Queen of Great Britain, the King of Prussia and the States General.

Ratisbon, Octob. 25, N. S.
