

In the Evening Trenches were opened before the Fort of Penemunde; Batteries were raised the same Night, and began to fire on the 19th. On the 21st in the Morning a Detachment of 1000 Prussians and Saxons, commanded by Colonel Liebe, stormed the Fort Sword in hand; the Swedes received them with great Bravery, and the Dispute was very obstinate and bloody for 3 Hours; but in the End the Place was carried, the Garrison consisting of 400 Swedes being put to the Sword, except 90 who were made Prisoners of War, with the Loss of about 400 of the Beliegers killed or wounded, among them several Officers: The Swedish Lieutenant Colonel Kuse, who commanded in the Fort, and the Major named Charac, were both killed. The Swedish Commissary General has written to the Danish Commissary, that the King his Master will no longer hold himself obliged to observe the Cartel formerly made between the two Nations. M. Lintelo, Minister of the States General of the United Netherlands, has at length obtained Leave of the Kings of Denmark and Prussia to go into Stralsund for one Day. We have Advice, that the Danish Squadron commanded by Vice-Admiral Scheffedt, has been joined by another Frigate carrying 48 Guns, as also by 3 Gallies and several Transports; and that on the 25th or 26th Instant he will attempt to force his way through the Passage called the New Deep, in order to facilitate the Attack of the Island of Rugen.

Whitehall, August 22. On Saturday last arrived from Calais a Gentleman sent by the Earl of Peterborough, with such Particulars as had been written thither from Paris concerning the French King, viz that finding he was drawing to his End, he had appointed the Duke of Orleans to take on him the Regency immediately after his Decease, made several Dispositions relating to the young Dauphin his Successor, and died on the 27th Instant N. S.

London, August 16. This Day Signor Tron, Ambassador in Ordinary from the most serene Republick of Venice, made his Publick Entry. He was received at Greenwich by the Earl of Bristol and Sir Clement Cottril Master of the Ceremonies, accompanied by six Gentlemen of his Majesty's Privy Chamber. From thence he was brought by Water, together with all his Train, in his Majesty's Barges to the Tower: At his landing he was received by the honourable Hatton Compton Lieutenant of the Tower; and the Guard being drawn out upon the Wharf saluted his Excellency as he passed by. The Royal Standard was display'd upon this Occasion, and the Guns were fired as soon as his Excellency was gone off the Wharf. From thence they moved on in the following manner. The Earl of Bristol's Coach, 16 of the Ambassador's Footmen walking two and two, 6 Pages, and the Gentleman of the Horse mounted on Horse-back; then came the King's Coach of State, in which was the Ambassador, the Earl of Bristol, the Master of the Ceremonies, and the Secretary of the Ambassy; this was followed by another of the King's Coaches, as was that by one of his Royal Highnesses the Prince of Wales, in these came the 6 Gentlemen of the Privy Chamber; afterwards came 3 of his Excellencies Coaches, the first drawn by 8 Horses, which were followed by a numerous Train of Coaches of the Nobility and Gentry, with 6 Horses each. Thus they proceeded to his Excellency's House in St. James's Square, where the Earl of Bristol took his Leave: Soon after came the Lord Saunderson with his Majesty's Compliment of Welcome to the Ambassador; as did the Lord Harvey, Gentleman of the Bedchamber to his Royal Highness in waiting; and Mr. Pulteney Vice-Chamberlain to her Royal Highness, both sent by their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales upon the same Occasion.

London, August 22. This Day being appointed by his Majesty for the publick Audience of his Excellency Signor Tron, Ambassador in Ordinary from the most Serene Republick of Venice, the ter of the Ceremonies, with 6 Gentlemen of his Majesty's Privy Chamber, brought him from his House to St. James's in his Majesty's Coach, followed by the Ambassador's Coaches in the same Order as was observed at his Entry. His Excellency was received at the Palace Gate by the Deputy-Knight Marshal. His Majesty's Foot Guards were drawn up in the Court, and the Officers saluted his Excellency with Pike and Colours, and afterwards with their Hats as he passed by, the Drums beating a March. He was received at the Door of the Guard Chamber by Mr. Charlton, Lieutenant in the Absence of the Earl of Uxbridge, Captain of the Yeomen of the Guard, and conducted by him to the End of his Command. He was received at the Door of the Room of Audience by the Duke of St. Albans, Caprain of the Band of Gentlemen Pensioners, who were ranged on each Side of the Room; and conducted by the Right Honourable Thomas Cooke, Esq; Vice Chamberlain in the Absence of his Grace the Duke of Bolton, Lord Chamberlain of his Majesty's Household.

Afterwards his Excellency was conducted by the Master of the Ceremonies to an Audience of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales: He was received at the Door of his Guard Chamber by the Earl of Hertford, Gentleman of the Bed Chamber to his Royal Highness in waiting; At the Door of the Room of Audience, his Royal Highness's Presence Chamber, he was met and conducted by the Duke of Argyll, Groom of the Stole to his Royal Highness.

From thence his Excellency went to her Royal Highness the Princess's Apartment; at the Door of the Guard Chamber he was met by Mr. Pulteney, Vice Chamberlain to her Royal Highness; and, entering into the Room of Audience, by the Earl of Bridgewater her Lord Chamberlain.

Before he returned home his Excellency paid his Compliment to the young Princesses in their Apartment; and then was reconducted to his House by the Earl of Rochford and the Master of the Ceremonies, with the same Attendance as abovementioned.

Whereas in the Gazette of the 12th of February last, there was published his Majesty's Pleasure, requiring that the Officers of the Army, where-soever employed, (whose Commissions were not already registred) to enter the same with the Secretary at War, and with the Commissary General of the Musters, in the Space of six Months from the Date thereof, according to the 41st Article of War, notwithstanding which many Officers have neglected to enter their respective Commissions. It is his Majesty's Pleasure therefore, that all Officers now on the Establishment of Great Britain, as well half-pay as others, do within forty Days from the Date hereof, Register their Commissions with the Secretary at War and with the Commissary General, for the Posts in which they now are or last served in, and such Officers as shall neglect to enter their Commissions within Forty Days as above will be suspended from their Pay.

By his Majesty's Command,
Wm. Pultney.
