From a Board his Majesty's Ship the Cumberland off of Danzig, August 22. The 14th Instant the Merchant Ships from Petersburg under the Convoy of the Men of War, which waited for them at the Island of Hoghland, came and join'd us at Nargan near Revel; they were brought in with a Storm of Wind at E. N. E. and at two the same Morning a Dutch Man of War of 200 Men and 44 Guns called l' Huys le Warmelo, which was one of the Convoy, and commanded by Captain Groot, unfortunately struck on an unknown Rock. Seventy five of the Men saved themselves on Board some of the Merchant-Ships in the Warmelo's Boats, but we fear that the Commander with the rest of his Crew were all lost with the Ship. The 16th the Weather being grown more calm and moderate we sailed from Nargan with our Men of War and the Trade we had got together. We left the Muscovite Fleet still at Anchor before Revel, and it was reported there that those Ships were to be laid up for this Year as soon as the Weather would permit them to return to their Port. The 20th we arrived off of this Road, having had a very stormy Passage: We found here the Trade from Riga with their Convoy, who came four Days before us. In our Way hither we detached two Dutch Men of War and a Sloop to meet and join those Ships from Riga, we hope they will return to us very soon, and then with the first Opportunity of a fair Wind we shall set sail with the whole Fleet from hence.
