				inhibitory action of clavulanate extends the spectrum of amoxicillin to embrace a wider range of organisms including many resistant to other β-lactam antibiotics. The oral preparations are indicated for short term treatment of bacterial infections at the following sites when amoxicillin resistant β-lactamase producing strains are suspected as the cause. In other situations, amoxicillin alone should be considered—Upper Respiratory Tract Infections (including ENT) in particular sinusitis otitis media, recurrent tonsillitis. These infections are often caused by Streptococcus pneumoniae, Haemophilus influenzae*, Moraxella catarrhalis* and Streptococcus pyogenes—Lower Respiratory Tract Infections in particular acute exacerbations of chronic bronchitis (especially if considered severe), bronchopneumonia. These infections are often caused by Streptococcus pneumoniae, Haemophilus influenzae* and Moraxella catarrhalis*—Genitourinary Tract and Abdominal Infections in particular cystitis (especially when recurrent or complicated—excluding prostatitis), septic abortion, pelvic or puerperal sepsis and intra-abdominal sepsis. These infections are often caused by Enterobacteriaceae* (mainly Escherichia coli*), Staphylococcus saprophyticus, Enterococcus species*—Skin and Soft Tissue Infections in particular cellulitis, animal bites and severe dental abscess with spreading cellulitis. These infections are often caused by Staphylococcus aureus*, Streptococcus pyogenes and Bacteroides species*—A comprehensive list of sensitive organisms is provided in Section 5. *Some members of these species of bacteria produce β-lactamase, rendering them insensitive to amoxicillin alone. Mixed infections caused by amoxicillin-susceptible organisms in conjunction with Co-amoxiclav-susceptible β-lactamase-producing organisms may be treated with it. These infections should not require the addition of another antibiotic resistant to β-lactamases.

For use only in patients with a fully defined and diagnosed abnormality where diet alone is insufficient to correct the condition and in whom long-term risks associated with the condition warrant treatment. The rationale for use of bezafibrate to control abnormal elevations of serum lipids and lipoproteins is to reduce or prevent the long term adverse effects that have been shown by many major epidemiological studies to be positively and strongly correlated with such epidemiological studies to be positively and strongly correlated with such dyslipidaemias. The possible beneficial and adverse long term consequences of some drugs used in the hyperlipidaemias are still the subject of scientific discussion however, and there is currently no clinical evidence to demonstrate that tablets are effective in the prevention of heart disease. 06183/0012	Air Products Plc	Nitrous Oxide (medical)	Nitrous Oxide 100.000 %v/v	Nitrous oxide mixed with 30% oxygen is used as an adjuvant in general anaesthesia. With it providing background anaesthesia, the concentration of potent inhalation agents (eg halothane and enflurane) can be reduced, so that there is less circulatory and respiratory depression, and more rapid recovery. Nitrous oxide mixed with 50% oxygen is used as an analgesic agent in a number of situations, the most common being dental surgery and childbirth. Other uses include provision of analgesia for short painful procedures like insertion of IV needles, dressing changes and physiotherapy. It is occasionally used in laparoscopy as an insufflating agent, and in cryosurgery as a refrigerant. Nitrous oxide has also been used in the treatment of withdrawal symptoms in alcoholism and drug addiction. Pharmacy Medicine	15th October 1998

It is particularly valuable as relief medication in mild, moderate or severe asthma, provided that reliance on it does not delay the introduction and use of regular inhaled corticosteroid therapy. OFFICE OF THE RAIL REGULATOR

RAILWAYS ACT 1993

National Rail Enquiry Scheme

In the last reported period over September/October of this year the franchised train operators have failed to ensure that calls to the National Rail Enquiry Scheme (the 0345 484950 number) are answered to the standard required by their licence. The Regulator considers that they are likely to continue to fail to do so and that it is appropriate to impose sanctions for any continuing failure to comply. Consequently he is publishing a notice stating that he proposes to make an Order, using his powers under section 55 of the Railways Act 1993, against the franchised train operating Companies

The proposed Order instructs the franchised train operators to ensure that 90 per cent of calls made or up to 4.6 million calls in a 4 week period to the National Rail Enquiry Scheme are answered and to pay a penalty based on the percentage below 90 per cent which are not answered

Interested parties may make representations to the Regulator by writing to the address below by 30th November 1998

The Regulator will take into account the representations made, and will not make the Order if he is satisfied the National Rail Enquiry Scheme is properly providing and will continue to provide the services required with at least 90 per cent of calls answered. The Regulator will reach a decision as soon as possible after 4th December 1998

Section 56Notice of Proposed Enforcement Order

1 Under section 56 of the Railways Act 1993 ("the Act") I give notice that I propose to make a Final Order in respect of each Train Operating Company which is a franchise operator ("TOC"). The effect of the Order will be that the TOCs will be required to ensure that, under the ATOC National Rail Enquiry Scheme ("NRES"), at least 90 per cent of calls made to its rail enquiry number (0345 484950) are answered. For the purpose of this notice and the proposed Order 4.6 million calls answered shall be deemed to be the maximum number of calls to be answered which are necessary to satisfy the 90 per cent target in each 4 week period ("the target"). If less than the target level of calls is answered, the TOCs collectively will be liable to a monetary penalty of an amount determined by the percentage of calls not answered. If the percentage point of calls answered is between 85 per cent and below 90 per cent, the penalty shall be £500,000, and if the percentage of calls not answered falls below 85 per cent the penalty shall be an additional £500,000. Liability to pay any penalty payable will be divided amongst the TOCs in accordance with their contributions to NRES.

2 I propose to make this Order

- (a) to secure compliance with condition 7 1(b) of each TOC's passenger licence,
- (b) with effect from 4th December 1998, and
- (c) unless I am satisfied that the TOCs have agreed to and are taking appropriate steps to ensure that, otherwise than because of an event of force majeure, in each 4 week period the target level of calls is answered. In deciding whether to make the Order I shall consider any representations or objections made to me

3 I am of the opinion that each TOC has contravened its licence condition, and is likely to continue to do so, because

- (a) condition 7 1(b) of each TOC's passenger licence requires it to be a party to, and comply with, arrangements relating to the operation of a telephone enquiry bureau relating to railway passenger services,
- (b) the NRES agreement, as approved by me on 11th June 1996, is the arrangement relating to the operation of a telephone enquiry bureau for the purpose of that licence condition,
- (c) under the NRES agreement, each TOC agreed that its intention is that calls received by the Scheme are answered in accordance with the performance standards set out in the NRES agreement, which includes a requirement that 90 per cent of calls received are answered and that performance plans meeting those standards would be implemented,
- (d) following inconsistent performances since May 1998, on 9th September 1998 the Association of Train Operating Companies ("ATOC") submitted to me a plan, which stated that NRES would be taking short term action focused on delivery of immediate improvement in calls handled,
- (e) ATOC reported that only 86 per cent of calls were answered in the 4 week period commencing 20th September 1998;
- (f) I have concluded that each of the TOCs did not ensure that the plan was implemented in such a way as to ensure that the performance standards of NRES were achieved, and
- (g) ATOC has also indicated in the plans submitted on 9th September that it proposed further action to ensure that calls will be answered in accordance with the NRES performance but those plans are still to be implemented, there is no timetable or clear action plan for implementation and it is not certain that those plans even if implemented will ensure that those performance standards will be met

4 Although, for the purposes of the proposed Order, I have allowed for a maximum number of calls that shall be answered in each 4 week period to be 4.6 million calls, such an allowance does not relieve the TOCs from ensuring that the total number of calls answered over the year shall be 90 per cent of calls made, with a maximum of 60 million calls required to be answered

5 Representations or objections with respect to the proposed Order may be made to me by not later than 30th November 1998. They should be sent to Dee Cotgrove, Office of the Rail Regulator, 1 Waterhouse Square, 138-142 Holborn, London EC1N 2ST. Copies of the proposed Order may be obtained, free of charge, from that address or by telephoning 0171-282 2074, or accessed on the ORR website at www.rail-reg.gov.uk
